TO A TEACHER, FRIEND, AND PHILOSOPHER

Four short years ago when the class of 1953 first entered high school, few, if any, even dreamed of the many and frequent problems which would confront them. Fortunately, however, Mr. Traylor was appointed their sponsor. Through his untiring efforts problems were met and overcome. Mr. Traylor has remained with the class of 1953 through all their high school years. His genial philosophy and friendly guidance have helped to fill these years with aspiration and enjoyment.

It is to Mr. Traylor, teacher, friend, and philosopher, that we dedicate this our 1953 IRIS.
With these few words, we, the Iris staff, take pleasure in presenting you the Iris of '53. After many trials and tribulations we finally succeeded in preparing what we think is an ideal book. We found that publishing a yearbook is plenty of work but loads of fun. To our advisor, Mr. Diefenbach, we express our appreciation for his continued patience and guidance.

CLASS OF '53

From the unsuspecting freshmen of 1949, we feel we have made great advances. During twelve years of school we have witnessed one great world struggle to preserve the principles of democracy. Today we are still faced with the continuation of this struggle. As freshmen, we did not realize that in a few short years we would be about to step into these great problems.

While we planned our many different school activities, the world planned our futures. Now we are ready to fulfill our duties of loyalty and service as well-trained citizens of democracy. We have been brought to realize what our democracy means to us; now we shall do our best to preserve it. Yes, from unsuspecting freshmen of yesterday we have traveled to what, we feel, are the thoughtful citizens of tomorrow.

Dear Ron,

I am writing you to tell you of the experiences I had when I went back to our old home town, Highland, to look up our old classmates.

The first member of our class I ran into--quite accidentally--was Oliver Ulmet, who is a police sergeant directing traffic at the intersection of Laurel and Main Streets. After parking my car, I cornered Oliver and as soon as he went off duty we went into the leading local tavern, which I found was run by Dennie Deibert. Over several drinks we began discussing our classmates.

Immediately we began discussing the girls (naturally). I found out that many of them are happily married. Carol Essenpreis is married to a business executive, Betty Deist to a five star general, Bernadine Guentensberger to a local car dealer, Ann Jacobs to a young retired businessman, Betty Smither to a local farmer, Edna Long to a professional sailor, Carole Mettler to an aspiring young farmer, Jo Plocher to the leader of the nation's No. 1 orchestra, Elaine Peter to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Dolores Wolbert and Rena Zobrist to successful businessmen. I forget the names of the fellows, but, after all, who cares about the fellows.

While we were talking, who should come in but Larry Suppiger, who is none other than the Mayor of Highland. With him was the president of the local Rotary Club, Sam Jenny, who is also the local Cadillac dealer. After considerable discussion I decided to go with the Mayor, who said he would show me around town and tell me about some more of our classmates.

Strolling down the street Larry told me that this year's basketball team, coached by--of all people--Jim Koch, was considered a likely prospect for the state championship. I was informed that Jim is not the only one of our classmates to become a coach, Russ Thiems, Charlie Loyet, and Darrell Neubauer have also entered the coaching profession, but their teams have not been quite as successful as old Jim's.

As we came to a very modern-looking office building Larry informed me that this was where our old friend Bill Tschudy had his dental office. This was also the office of the local real estate broker, Lee Miller. Across the street Larry pointed out the modern building which houses Tschannen's 5 & 10, now in the hands of Don Tschannen. Stopping in at Don's store, we engaged him in conversation. He informed me that several of our old classmates have become successful outside of Highland. Dorothy Suhre has become the first woman mayor of Alhambra. Rollin Abert and Allan Hosto have become successful farmers near that fair city, while the minister of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Alhambra is Bob Hosto. Operating that city's largest garage is Dan Ambuel, while his brother Bill is a successful artist for an architectural firm in Chicago run by Barbara Pabst. Bill Humpler is a cartoonist for a large newspaper syndicate. Mary Merkle is a columnist for the New York Times. The Chicago Cubs were led last year by their star third baseman, Fred Schumacher. Don Oestenger is an automobile designer for Chrysler Corporation. Donna Reed is leading her own orchestra.

After exhausting Don's knowledge of our classmates, the Mayor and I journeyed down the street to Dillow's Garage and Service Station, run by Jim Dillow. Jim gladly informed us about more of our classmates. Bill Reilson operates the grain elevator in Marine. Leonard Hollmann is doing scientific research at his home in Marine. Other members of our class who have become more or less successful farmers are Christ Bargetzi, Don Bleisch, Lawrence Frank, Harold Gilomen, Vernon Mindrup, Merle Schrumpf, Cecil Harris, Dale Rindos, David Rogier, and Burnell Weinheimer, who is also president of the Southern Illinois Breeding Association.

Adjourning to the Mayor's office with Larry, I found out from his secretary, Donna Winet, about some more of our classmates. Betty Mayer and Doris Loos run their own model agency in St. Louis. At H.H.S., Elaine Lebegue is teaching home economics. Lois Burkofner is the school nurse, James Carrell is the chemistry teacher, Doralee Rogier is the music instructor, while Muriel Schrumpf and Betty Weber work in the office. Judy Hundsdorfer, Luella Iberg, Shirley Jackson, Carol Zobrist, and Norma Lorenz are office workers at Wick's Organ Co., of which Tom Werner is vice-president.

And so you see that most of our classmates have been successful, while some have not—which brings me to the object of my letter—could you let me have a few hundred dollars for a week or so?

Hoping this letter finds you financially secure

Yours truly,

H. H. S. BULLDOGS

This was the first year for H. H. S.* in the new Midwestern Conference in which we won second place. Our school is proud of our team's ability and spirit. To some of our students H. H. S. is a brick building in which to study, but to the boys of the basketball team it is something for which they have given their time and efforts and to which they have given their hearts.

A large crowd of fans were present at the 1953 Homecoming to see a hard, well-played game lost to Madison. Although the game was lost, the festivities after the game were not hampered.
The main event was the crowning of the 1953 Queen, Miss Pat Foehner, who was preceded into the gymnasium by her court of ten maids. Pat was chosen Queen by the popular vote of the student body. After the coronation, music for dancing was furnished by Shorty Schmitt's Orchestra.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Throughout the year, over the noon hours, the boys and girls of H. H. S. engaged in an intra-mural sports program. The intramural program is for the benefit of those not having the opportunity to participate in H. H. S. varsity sports.

There were separate programs for the 11:00 and 12:00 noon hours. In boys' basketball, the winners for the first semester, were, for the 11:00 noon hour, the team captained by Paul Mohme. During the 12:00 period the winners were, Class A: Don Tschannen, and Class B: Duane Frank.

The girls, having several teams, indulged in many interesting basketball games.

FOOTBALL

This year the boys were taught the fundamentals of football in their P.E. classes. Future plans include a football team next year. Although football is a comparatively new sport to the seniors, H. H. S. teams have made some outstanding records in previous years. We are glad to have this sport again added to our sports field.

The 1952 cross-country season proved very successful for the H. H. S. squad. In the three meets the boys attended they finished in the top half. They earned enough points to gain letters in track. Since there are no seniors on the squad, they are looking forward to an even more successful season in '53.

be understood by the modern world. Organized knowledge and realities will provide man learning resources. The need for the teaching of anything will disappear. Instead teachers will develop individual methods which are held together by internal consistency and the settled convictions of the experimental professional mind.

5. Child development and mental health. With the graded school oriented to subject matter, attempts to bring about child study and the functional organization of pupil personnel have been quite fruitless. The continuing group staying under the general leadership of one teacher all day long for a period of years makes child study more efficient, desirable and likely.

One failure of child study to date has been the fact that a teacher cannot come to know a family and a child well in a period of one year. Only through an acquaintanceship stretching to younger siblings can the teacher hope to know.

The child is thus born into groups of peers. The child is the same as any other. The peer group should be free within that framework that the teacher can instruct to a size.

The principles of human growth have not been applicable to the classroom. The room with its pot security, understandance to the young substitute instructor and those around him that should cure present ills.

6. General education is integrated and general taken place to solve elementary school, high school. However special teachers and programs timed rather neglected the basic validation even at these levels contained classroom meeting for a program designed to individual teachers tend to be perfect and in many cases never gain with the learner. If, however, special teachers can become in helping typical teachers to utilize the skills characteristic of the special field, it seems possible that a rich creative form of education geared to the needs of the learners could be developed.

The fourth of the four common objections to the trend is that the learner does not encounter enough individuals possessing a sufficient variety of special skills. As a matter of fact, in a 24 hour day a young learner, moving at the high velocity at which a child moves, is bound to encounter many personalities. Even in a self-contained program the danger is that he will encounter too many. He will encounter the principal. He will encounter the boys and girls on the playground. He will encounter the helping teachers who come in to help him and his teacher. He will encounter the parents of the other children. He will buy materials from the grocery store, the 10 cent store, and the drugstore. He will meet the special resource people brought in from the community.

Yes, the one big event of the school year is approaching. You can guess! Yes, the Homecoming. It is every school dream to be a maid and lose their dreams to be queen. A great honor to be a maid. Don't care what you do, never have such a feeling.

Sectional Ticket Information Given Out By School

The busiest telephone in town Monday was the one at the Highland public school office where local basketball fans called throughout the day trying to get details on tickets for the sectional tournament which starts in East St. Louis tonight.

J. J. White, who is handling the ticket sales along with the office staff, has released this information for the public:

First of all, by the time you read this, all season tickets for Highland 81

Hilbert's Crew To Play Peoria At 4 P.M. Thursday

The Highland Bulldogs will represent the Southwestern Illinois area in the Illinois State High School basketball tournament at Champaign this week and will play their first game Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m. against Peoria Central. The tournament starts Wednesday night with two games, then reconvenes Thursday morning at 10 for two morning sessions. The first afternoon session begins at 2:30 with Elgin meeting West Frankfort and will be followed by the Highland-Peoria battle. After that contest, the two first round games of the evening are at 7:30.

After the victory over Peoria, the Bulldogs are that they can give any game, and tomorrow they'll certainly be tested. Peoria's record of 26-2 is not broken. Their defeat of 62-56, Canton 91-83, TW twice scored 0.

Now, the Highland trophy case, setting more significant in the state tournament, as the first place trophy of the Alton Evening Telegraph. Bulldog Captain, coach Ed K. Ziegler, who made the arrangements Monday with officials there, stated that recordings of these and the high play will distributed to each player and the coaches.

Mr. Ziegler and R. G. Center will also take orders for any other fans who may want such a

Pre-Game Preparations

Reading a Champaign paper, we noticed a statement by Vergil Fletcher, coach of the Collinsville Kahoks, and we hope he was misquoted. Presumably he told the sports writer that Highland defeated Collinsville in the sectional mainly because of Klobuchar's inability to hit, adding that "Highland fans razzed him throughout the game, even slapping him as he went in for a shot at the basket." We suggest that Coach Hilbert look up those fans. With arms long they could be used on the basketball squad.

The casket that created so much controversy in the finals of the sectional has returned. Unexpectedly it turned home sporting it was gone returned Sunday evening by Collinsville fans.

LaGrange Wins State; Peoria, Runner-Up, Defeats Highland First Round Game, 81 to 53

It Was A "Stout" Team That Beat The Bulldogs

Peoria Central looked like the "beef" squad and Highland's Bulldogs resembled underfed kids last Thursday afternoon in the state tournament. The Lions were tall but Highland, not quite as tall, could have coped with that obstacle had it been Peoria's only asset.

It was the bulk that Peoria carried around that probably would have made the difference in victory or defeat even if Highland had played its best game, which it didn't in losing 81-53.

If there is any consolation in defeat, the Highland high school basketball team must have felt better last Saturday night seeing Peoria Central, first in the state tournament, lose to Glendale, the top team in the state that was undefeated throughout the season.

Highland, making its first trip to the state basketball tournament in the history of the school, lost to Peoria Central last Thursday afternoon, 81-53, thus ending their dreams of further conquest.

The Bulldogs suffered from "first time" jitters and the fans were few persons who cared to censure them for it. With 638 fans literally breathing down their backs and playing for the high school championship in high school competition, all teams, even the veterans of other trips, have trouble clicking at the start of first round games.
