The Year . . .

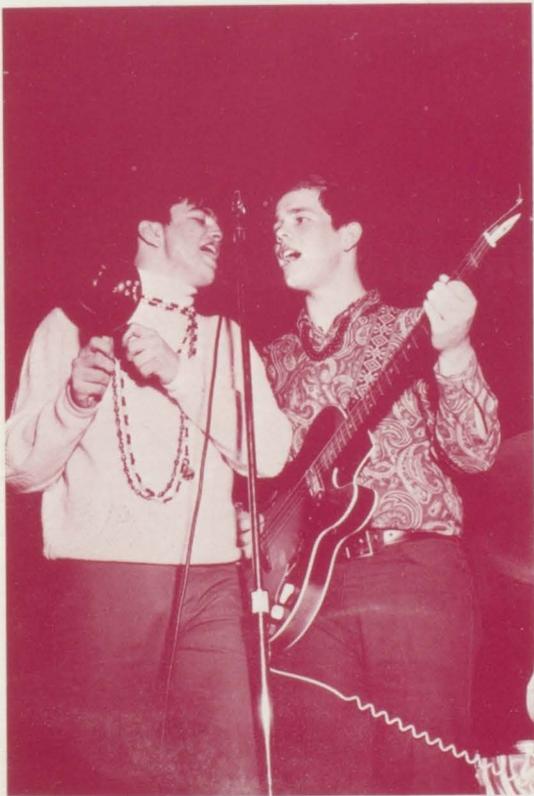

A typical school year beginning in August ending in May yet '67-'68 was different. The pains of growth shared lockers crowded halls overflowing study halls. Never a boring moment our first musical show a burning float mini-skirts rattlesnakes in an assembly an Argentine exchange student MECA dancers "Little 500" snow days. New challenges new endeavors new obstacles — This was the year.

Participants in "Bye Bye Birdie" found their work "piling up" at times, but the strenuous rehearsals resulted in a top-notch performance.

... introducing more faces and new problems

These are the signs of progress

Learning how to use equipment and tools properly is part of the practical training students receive in industrial education classes.

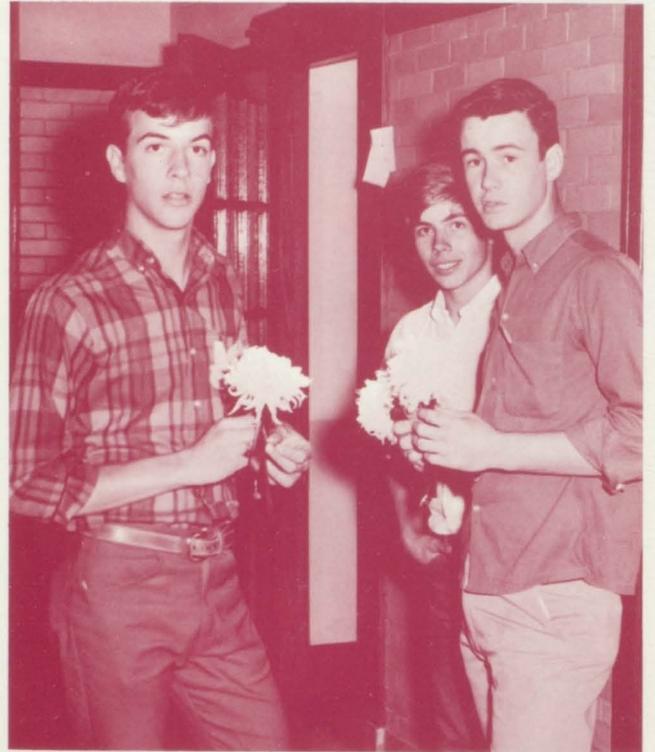

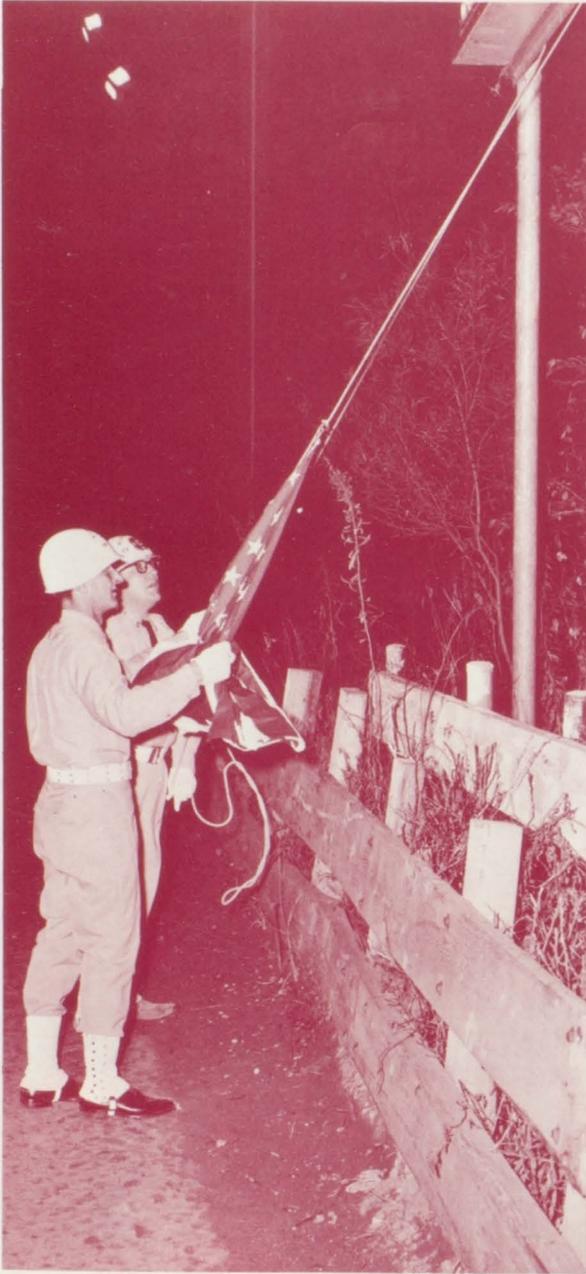

More people
Better facilities
New experiences.
Progress at every step.
With the changing face of the world
the face of our education changed.
We met challenges, confusion hard work, heart aches frustration, fumbles.
They resulted in achievement, advances contentment, conquests success, satisfaction.
Progress!
Promise!
Hope for tomorrow's world —
For us.

... the promise of tomorrow

These are the signs of a year

Now a part of the past

Just a step from the future

It's gone.
Quickly it slipped by.
Now it has become the year that was.
A part of the past
but not lost.
To it we cling
With the strings
of our memories
Hoping to tie the knowledge gained from its experience to the world of tomorrow.
The ever-promising future!

ACTIVITIES

Accompanied by a special stage band, Conrad Birdie's Fan Club opened an evening of lively entertainment for the audience with a rousing "We Love You Conrad."

Enthusiasm Soars for Bye Bye Birdie . . .

Almost as if out of a dream, the Macafee family is informed by Albert that they are to appear on the "Ed Sullivan Show."

Eyes bulging and mouths gaping, the teen trio sights their idol, Conrad Birdie.

"And I don't just type — I also tap dance."

When his girl deserts him for a rock-and-roll star, poor Hugo thinks that the garbage can is the best place for him.

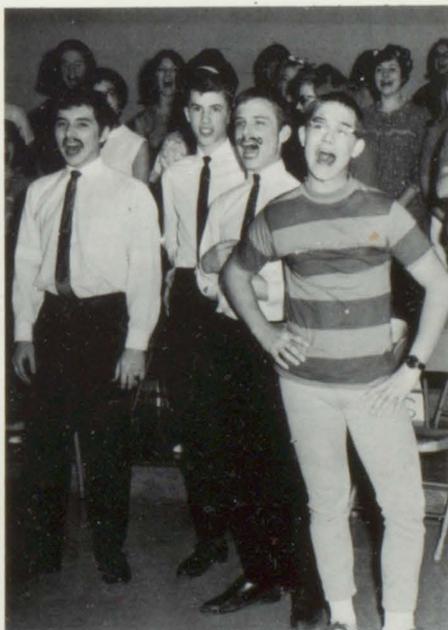

Maud's Roadside Retreat turned out to be quite an adventure for Rosie.

Months in advance of April 5 and 6, lilting tunes such as "Put on a Happy Face," "Kids," "You Gotta Be Sincere," and of course "We Love You Conrad" hummed through the minds of at least 240 people of HHS who were in some way involved in our first All-School Broadway Musical, Bye Bye Birdie.

For some students the 3:45 bell meant dismissal for the day. For others it meant the beginning of another night of long rehearsals, learning dance routines, mastering difficult music, writing publicity, or selling tickets. But how could such an adventure lose! In the capable hands of Mrs. Pamela Ott, director; Mrs. Sharon Izor, choreographer; Mrs. Jeanne Storts, accompanist and vocal director; Mr. Lester Davis, choral director; and Mr. E. Paul Lyon, band director; the production was headed for success. Mrs. Ruth Christoe, scenery designer, and Mrs. Jan Inlow, costumes, added their talents to give the show color. Students who didn't know that they had voices found themselves singing out to the rhythm of the lively music.

In his role as Albert, Darrell Gentry displays passive resistance as Peg Bellm, a fiery Rosie, gives him a piece of her mind.

Mrs. Ott (left), our director, called for "100% showmanship" from all participants, and Steve Diefenbach (above) in a warm-up session is out to prove what 100% means to Shriners Krivoy, Stratton, and Austin.

These five girls spent several hours one Saturday afternoon drumming up ticket sales for the two performances.

With banners flying, practically the whole town of Sweet Apple was out to greet Conrad Birdie upon his arrival from New York.

Sell-Out Crowds Attend H.H.S.'s First

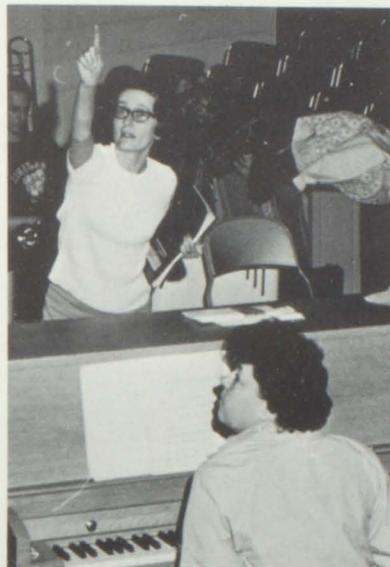

The backstage crew (above) and the lighting crew (below) worked behind the scenes to keep the show running smoothly.

Albert's mother, better known as "Mama," tries to entice Conrad with a bit of her feminine "charm."

When Conrad began to sing, the whole town started jumping, even the mayor and his charming wife.

A good performance on the stage resulted from the expert coaching of Mrs. Izor, choreographer, and Mrs. Storts, vocal director and accompanist.

No, it isn't a gymnastics show. Just the Shriners getting a little excited over an unexpected female visitor, Rosie.

Broadway Musical.

The crowd which filled the auditorium when the curtain opened was due to an all-school effort to promote the production. A ticket-sales contest encouraged students to sell and the advance-sale goal of $1,500 was easily surpassed. The publicity committee dreamed up stunts such as having Conrad Birdie come into town via a car caravan for a rally in the Plaza. Long hours of work, giving up holidays and Saturdays, and sometimes putting off homework, paid off when everyone declared the venture a success.

One of the outstanding numbers of the show was "Telephone Hour" which included the Teen and Adult Choruses as well as the Dancers.

Combined Efforts Triumph in Jr.-Sr. Play.

Student director, Diane Dodd, pins a corsage on the director, Mrs. Ott.

Thanks to quick help from Connie Casper, Deb Scholl and Mrs. Alarcon, Peg Bellm changed costumes and was on her way.

A change in tradition found both juniors and seniors combining efforts to produce one play in the fall. "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," a spirited comedy by Jean Kerr, proved to be a fine tribute to not only the people but to the whole of H.H.S. as well.

Ben Alarcon, Larry Zobrist and Peg Bellm try to persuade Joanne Netzer not to faint now.

Between acts, the second and sixth hour speech classes provided entertainment with a sailor's yarn and a song from Gay Pareé!

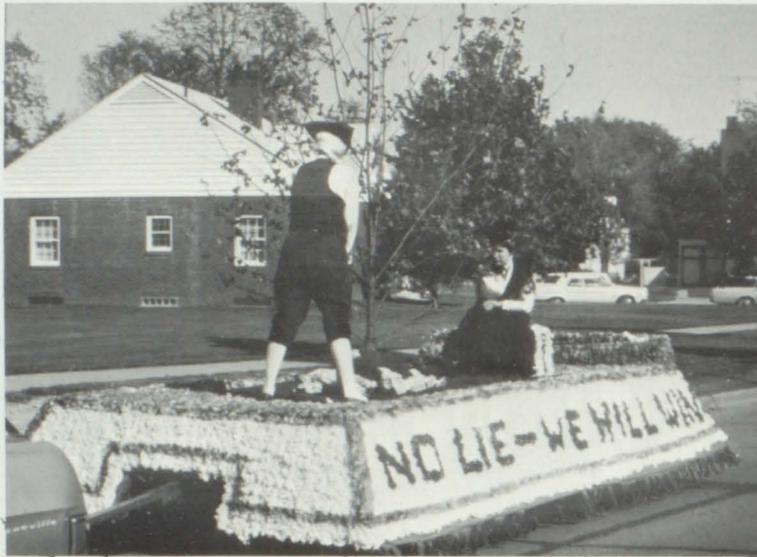

Musically inclined?! Well, Carl Lichtenstein and Steve Holt seem to come up with quite unusual sound effects.

Members of the cast search unbelievably for bedbugs.

"UH, Cornelia, I don't feel so well!!" choked Peg Bellm to Joanne Netzer.

GAA turns back the pages to George Washington.

A high stepping band, followed by floats depicting this year's theme "Through the Years," made HHS's annual Homecoming parade an event to remember.

With a colorful "For Old Times Sake," the Art Club float brought a first for hardworking art students.

But competition was so keen, the judges could not agree upon the other coveted places. The GAA, the sophomore, and the senior floats, all creatively done, marked a tie and three second places were given.

"A Bulldog Bombshell" created by the Spanish Club, had a little too much "fuel," and caught on fire just as the parade started.

Homecoming Weekend Takes HHS

Alums Through the Years . . .

HHS found you just can't burn the Spanish Club's spirit. By game time, members had constructed another float from the charred remains of the first.

An innovation to Homecoming weekend became known as the "Little 500," a bicycle race in which all clubs could participate. Although the race track was muddy, it made the race just a little more exciting. After weeks of shaping up, GAA proved their might and took first place.

The rush was on for a prize and seniors rolled in second place.

Selecting New Royalty . . .

An enthusiastic snake dance, a heartwarming bonfire, a spirit-raising bicycle race and a football game created a perfect atmosphere for Homecoming weekend.

As tension mounted, the weekend reached its climax as the time drew near to honor our new king and queen. Finally the secret we had all been waiting for was revealed. King Ernie Chappel and Queen Marilyn Liebler now reigned the throne. Attended by Special Maid Kathy Wenzel and Special Escort Dave Rehberger and Special Maid Diane Ammann and Special Escort Marty Barnes, the new king and queen gave their thanks to HHS and to the Royal Roman Court.

Adding to the excitement of Homecoming time, are H.H.S.'s special three.

Reading a magazine, Raul enjoys an evening at Home.

Through the efforts of AFS, HHS was fortunate to have a foreign exchange student sent to us. Raul Krivoy came from Argentina and spent his year living with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Winter. Raul, with his winning smile and warm personality, quickly adopted to life at HHS. He was frequently in demand at organization meetings in school and in the community where he told of his experiences in the U.S. and also about life in his homeland. During his stay at HHS, Raul participated in many school functions such as Bye Bye Birdie and was named as an honorary member of NHS.

Keith Michael tells his date Jené Werner to smile.

Carnaby Street, Big Ben, the Pub, fountain, and Tower Bridge formed the foggy atmosphere for this year's Junior-Senior Prom, "London By Night."

Carnaby Street paved the way to the huge replica of Big Ben, which overlooked the twilight of London. The centerpiece fountain provided a scenic background for picturesque Tower Bridge highlighting the band, The Aerovons. Tantalizing refreshments were served at Ye Ol Pub.

After the dance, the movie "Bell, Book, and Candle" completed the all-night entertainment.

The senior Christmas Hop took students to Santa's Cave where a gigantic Christmas tree towered over dancers.

All a Part of the Social Whirl.

Social activities of a school year range from the very formal to the casual. Although dresses may be frilly and heels high, formality dispenses as the rhythmic tempo of a band increases. Sock hops after games, the Christmas Hop, and of course the long-anticipated prom gave dancing feet ample opportunity to be used. The casual Student Council-sponsored Spring Dance took a new turn this year when a computer selected dates for those participating.

The Computer Dance provided some entertaining moments as fellows lined up (above) to get their numbers and girls (right) waited anxiously to find out who their partners would be.

Half the fun of the Prom was a day of decorating, and juniors found themselves wrapped up in their work.

Happiness is waking up to find that Nature has dumped tons of snow on the ground, forcing school to be called off for the day. But even Nature could not stop the hands of time, and students knew from the school announcement board what lay just ahead.

Awards, Assemblies, Snow Days,

A growing student population presents some space problems, and one just never knows where the next student may be found.

One of the privileges of becoming an upperclassman is being able to eat lunch over at Parkway.

Mr. Chuck Naidl and "friends" from Baraboo, Wisconsin, provided an interesting and informative assembly.

Ordinary Days . . .

High school days to remember are a happy combination of the eventful intermixed with the ordinary. Although school essentially revolves around books, studies and classrooms, the most memorable events are often those which take place between classes, at assemblies, and even after the final bell of the day has rung.

"But We Love You, Charlie Brown," say the speech students who provided the entertainment at the FHA banquet.

Lively skits at pep assemblies sparked enthusiasm and school spirit.

Which Mean So Much.

A surprised Del Klostermeier receives the Speech Award from Mrs. Ott on Awards Day.

A smiling Mary Frey receives the Dee Boulanger Memorial Award from Mr. Diefenbach.

Jack Gramlich and Carol Bosché humbly accept the American Legion Citizenship Awards from Mr. Widmer.

High class honors went to valedictorian Carol Bosché and salutatorian Bob Roe.

A sea of serious faces listens intently to the speaker of the evening.

Graduation:

Mr. L. Goebel Patton, Public Relations Director of the IEA offers graduates some practical advice.

Junior marshalls, selected by the Class of '68 are Bud Dickerson and Jackie Lang.

The Class of 1968 stands serious and motionless, awaiting the big moment when that diploma will be theirs.

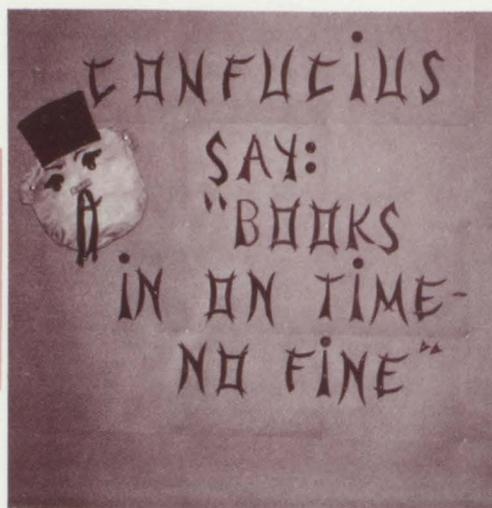

A Prized Moment After Much Waiting.

Because the weatherman refused to cooperate, graduation exercises were once again held in the high school gymnasium instead of in the football stadium as originally planned. But a little dampness also carried to the interior as some tears fell when seniors realized this would be the last time they would enter that gym as students of HHS. Wednesday, May 29, 1968, was an important day in their lives. They hearkened to the words imparted to them by Superintendent Stratton, Principal Diefenbach, and the speaker of the evening Mr. L. Goebel Patton. And they swallowed lumps of memories in their throats. But they looked ahead to bright futures, inspired by their chosen class motto: "It's never too late to begin."

Perhaps one of the most exciting moments of Raul Krivoy's year at HHS was receiving his diploma from School Board President, Mr. Quentin Ulrich.

ACADEMICS

MR. OLIN STRATTON
Superintendent

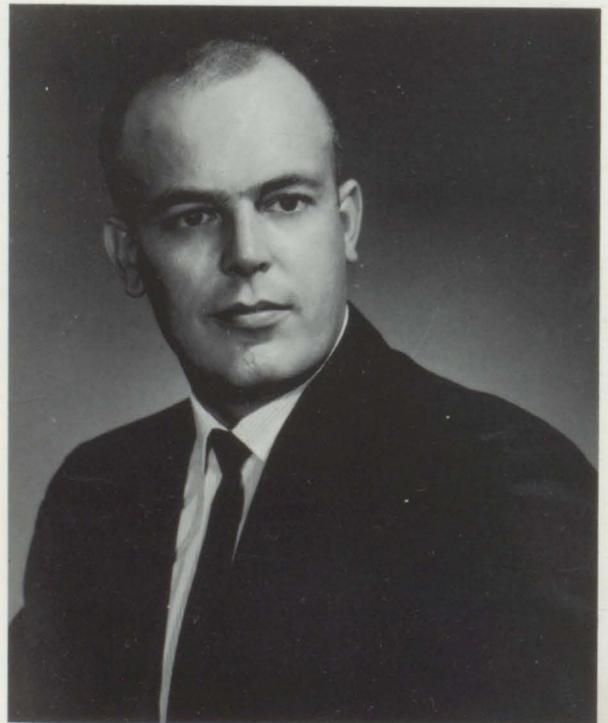

New programs, improved instructional materials, and better learning facilities are the results of the efforts of the administrative force in our school system. Through the dedication of these administrators, the students of HHS receive a well-rounded education, consisting of excellent classroom facilities as well as a variety of extra-curricular activities.

Mr. Stratton, superintendent, oversees all programs existing in our schools. His careful planning and interest have made our school system one of the most progressive in the area. Mr. Diefenbach, principal of HHS, has more direct contact with the students of our school. He has become known to students as a willing listener and as a friend. Mr. White, assistant principal, is Mr. Diefenbach's right hand man. In addition to his duties as assistant principal, Mr. White also teaches American history.

Communicating Through Reading, Writing, Speaking.

In this era of wide-spread travel, knowledge of a foreign language is almost as important as knowing the English language itself. H.H.S. is fortunate to be able to offer three intense courses in foreign languages: Latin, French, and Spanish. These courses not only teach the basics of the language, but inform the students on culture, history, and geography of the country.

Although English is a 4-year required course for H.H.S. students, the faculty successfully keeps the program varied and interesting. Besides broadening the student's familiarity with grammar skills, and English and American literature, this program allows the student to develop his creative writing ability. Speech classes contribute to the student's talent to communicate with others. The members of this year's Speech classes participated in speech contests, school plays, and community programs.

Mrs. Carrow gives her English classes firm but helpful directions to follow.

Spanish I students are able to improve their knowledge of Spanish through question and answer practice drills in the lab.

Producing responsible future citizens is a major goal of the Social Studies Department. To achieve this goal, the World History course provides a student with a general knowledge of the various governments of the world.

American History, a required course for all juniors, covers the development and the problems of our country from its founding to present day.

Economics and World Geography courses enable the student to investigate the complexity of his society.

Discussions of national problems are supplemented with films and research papers in Civics classes.

Through his coursework in social studies, a student studies the past, applies his knowledge to the difficulties of the present, and learns how best to solve the problems of the future.

Mr. Mihevc uses a wall map to aid his discussion with Alan Ambuehl.

$$2x^2 + 3y^2 - 1y = 0$$

Science and math courses go hand in hand in developing future scientists, physicists, and mathematicians of the world.

Algebra I and II place an emphasis on solving applied problems, proof, and logic. Advanced math for the college bound includes topics in algebra plus analytic geometry and calculus. Practical Math is a study of the fundamentals of mathematics where computational skills are stressed. Geometry covers plane, space, and coordinate geometry in their respect to deductive reasoning.

Biology provides an intensive look into the plant and animal kingdom. Chemistry deals with composition and properties of known substances and experimental work with reactions of one substance with another while Physics deals with matter, energy, and their transformations. Of interest to the boys, Electronics emphasizes the circuitry of transistors and solid-state devices. Its purpose is to promote interest in the electronic field for future technologists, and engineers.

Chemistry lab work gives the student an opportunity to probe into the area of the unknown.

Business Courses: Teaching Know-how of the Office.

Our Business Department more than adequately prepares young adults for their roles in the world of big business. Typing is taught on three levels. Personal Typing introduces the student to the fundamentals of the machine and teaches him how to use it for his personal needs. Advanced typing courses emphasize speed and accuracy in preparing the student for an occupation in the field of business.

Of interest to future secretaries are the shorthand courses as well as Office Practice and Office Machines where definite skills, necessary to keep an office running smoothly, are taught.

Record Keeping is designed to help the student handle his personal financial problems. Bookkeeping and Business Law prepare the business-oriented student to deal with the more complex problems of the business world.

Personal typing students learn the fundamentals of business typing.

Home Ec, Ag, Shop, Metals and Drafting: Creating and Constructing With Hands.

HHS's wide range of subjects gives the students the necessary preparation needed for their chosen fields. Our curriculum includes the vocational subjects of Home Economics, Agriculture, Shop, Metals, and Drafting. Home Economics teaches the student proper nutrition, cooking, sewing, table arrangements, and other practical knowledge. Vocational Agriculture classes prepare young men for careers in the unlimited field of agricultural occupations, and shop teaches those vocational attributes that will be more than useful in later life.

Highland High also has courses geared for students interested in metals, or for those planning on entering the field of drafting.

Driver Education, ISP, Special Education, Guidance, Library, and Mobile Instructional Unit:

Mrs. Lyon assists Jackie Lang in finding needed information.

HHS provides many facilities and services to fulfill the needs of all students. Driver Education gives the students behind-the-wheel practice before they take the test for their drivers license. The course consists of six hours of driving and six hours of observation as well as a classroom course in safety. Another specialized program offered in the areas of natural science, social studies, and English is the Independent Study Program. ISP permits qualified students to study independently in an area of his interest. The Special Education Department prepares the student for a vocation. Through arts, crafts, and participation in school activities, the student gains useful and practical knowledge.

On hand to assist students of HHS are our three Guidance counselors who are willing listeners to problems of students. They provide information to students on colleges or occupations and also aid underclassmen in choosing courses of study for their coming year. Continuing to grow each year, our library added approximately nine hundred books this year. The accommodating staff helps students find reference materials, or just an enjoyable book for leisure reading. The Mobile Instructional Materials Center contains equipment, books, films, and other educational material for Highland and Triad Districts. Traveling to the centers of these schools the mobile unit has become a familiar sight to students in our school.

Fine Arts and Physical Education: Improving Mind and Body Through Culture and Athletics.

Through Art classes, students learn to express themselves creatively. This year the art students participated in the Metropolitan Educational Cultural Arts program. Through the MECA program, students took three trips to the St. Louis Art Museum. At Christmas, they worked diligently in making a life-size nativity scene for the front lawn of the school. They also painted the scenery for Bye Bye Birdie, doing an outstanding job.

The Music Department gives every student an opportunity to express himself musically, either as an instrumentalist or as a vocalist. The program provides training and instruction for the interested and talented student.

Developing the student physically is the job of the Physical Education Department. Students develop physical skills through a variety of exercises as well as indoor and outdoor games.

Warm weather brings art students outdoors to sketch nearby scenery.

Custodians and Cooks: Working Behind the Scenes.

People who work behind the scenes frequently fail to receive credit for the work they do. Such are the custodians and cooks at HHS. Long after the last students have gone and the halls are deserted, the diligent custodians' work has just begun. They work for hours polishing floors and keeping our halls spotless, giving us a school to be proud of. Resourceful cooks in the kitchen of our cafeteria give the students a variety of balanced and delicious meals each day. Although they have a budget, through careful planning they are able to please a great number of students with appealing meals. Both these groups of people have earned their place at H.H.S.

Excellent Athletic Programs Build Physical Stamina and

Maybe it wasn't the best season HHS has ever known. Perhaps few new trophies were added to the trophy case. Nevertheless the practices were just as hard (perhaps even a little harder) and the hours just as long. In spite of many defeats, there were moments of triumph. Our athletic department grew and expanded. Golf was added as a major sport, and the boys proved themselves worthy.

The intramural program expanded. The basketball team elected an All-Star team to play against Triad's All-Stars. Tennis was added to the program.

An old expression "It's not whether you win or lose but how you play the game that counts" is still appropriate. Fans remained loyal and cheered teams on. The tension, the excitement were present. Win or lose, HHS showed once again it was proud of its Bulldogs.

Hours of practice enable Jim Nickerson to rebound above his opponent.

Hard practices under a hot September sun are part of the preparation for a grueling football season.

Cross Country, a grueling sport, demands long hours of running to build up a wind reserve.

By combining skill, talent and hard work, H.H.S. cheerleaders kept the spirit and morale of the student body going. New ideas and a super-tough drive backed a spirited team one-hundred per cent. Signs hung in the halls livened school spirit. For the second year, the cheerleaders presented to the most enthusiastic class during the pep rallies a spirit stick. Although keeping enthusiasm high during a losing season presented a real challenge to our peppy group, their efforts paid off in many ways. A good example; Victory over Triad!

Although the cross country runners didn't do too well this year, they have a good looking future ahead of them. With only a few seniors on the team and a large group of underclassmen, who did exceptionally well, the future holds a very prosperous and promising year ahead.

Tough Opposition in Hard Season.

Although the Bulldogs did not have a winning season, their spirit and fighting drive must be credited as excellent. Enthusiasm and hard work made the Bulldogs an exciting team to watch.

"Rookie" Jim Nickerson fills the bucket on a jump shot.

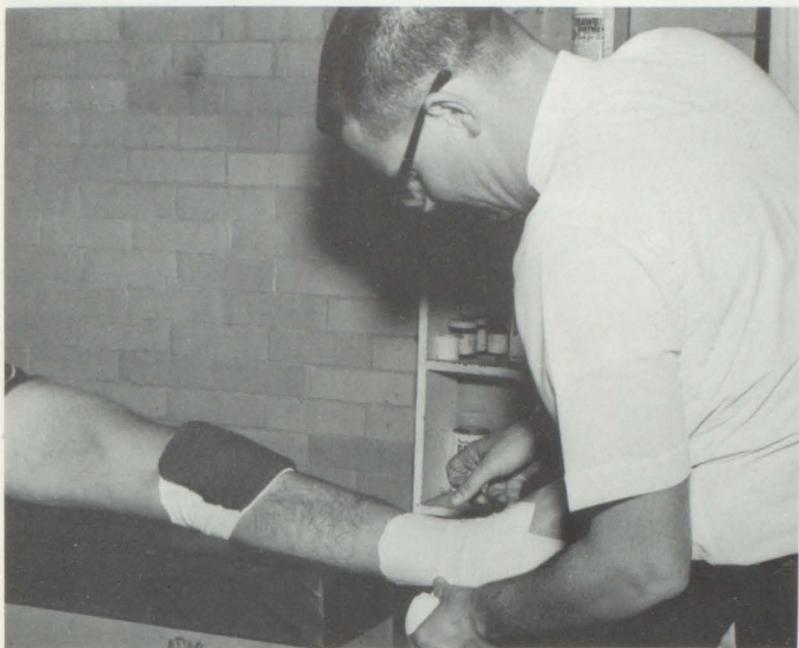

Highland High's fighting Bulldogs, under tough competition and a new coach did considerably well. Members of the squad kept up the unfeigning spirit and morale the Highland players are noted for.

Highland participated in the Sparta Tournament and the Freeburg Tourney, however, tough competition of the tournaments kept our boys from scoring. Although this was a big let down, the team kept up that willing spirit and determination that will eventually take Highland to the top!

Proving that a young team can show experience and potential, the wrestling team, with only three seniors, ended the season with a 5-9 record. Considering the tough competition, this record isn't bad at all.

To give the students a view of the fundamentals of wrestling, Coach Glen Monken conducted an exhibition wrestling meet in view of the high school and the junior high. This proved profitable by boosting the student interest and the number of spectators that came to the meets at home.

As a token of thanks, the wrestling team presented an award to the most faithful spectator, Mr. Sam White. This entitled him to be an honorary member of the Highland High School wrestling team.

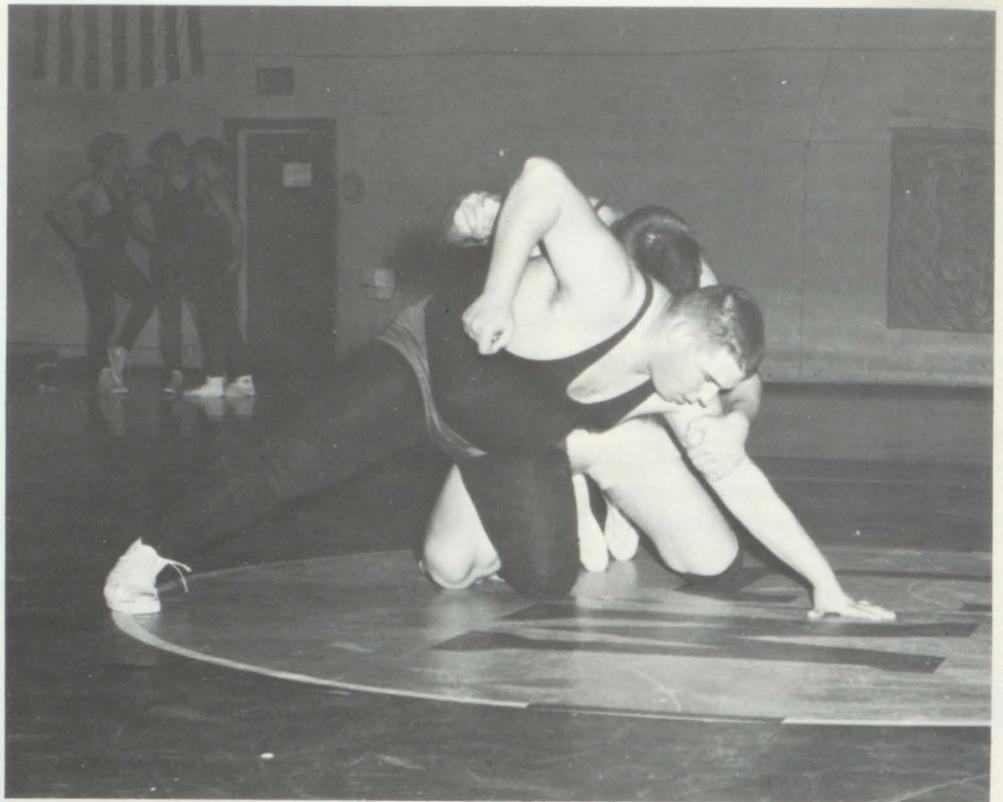

Seeing the opportunity, Jerry Ripperda moves to reverse his opponent.

Darrell Gentry is an athlete that Highland High is proud of. He has shown leadership, good sportsmanship and among other things, Darrell has kept the team spirit high in times of victory and defeat.

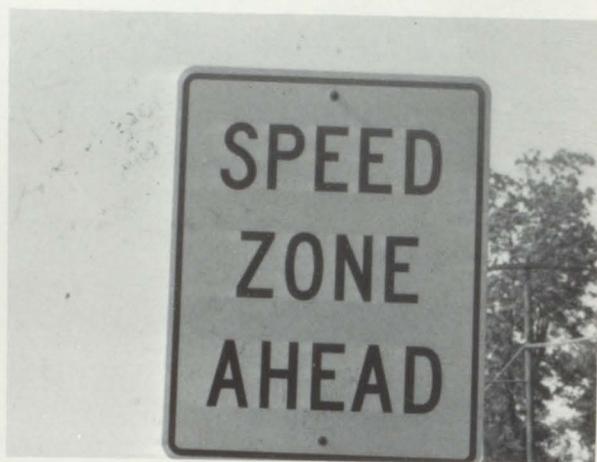

Among his teammates, Darrell has won respect and many friends. He is noted for his spirited drive for victory, not only for himself, but for his team.

During his four years at Highland High, Darrell has lettered four years in track and three years in football. In his sophomore year, he was the only sophomore to letter in football.

Joe Michaelis winds up to let the discus sail.

Although they did have a victory over Madison, the swift-footed runners of the track team did not have an outstanding season. A.F.S. Member To Go Abroad in Summer Program.

Through the efforts of the American Field Service, an HHS student will participate in a summer exchange program. Joann Netzer has been selected by the national American Field Service organization as HHS's first student to travel abroad.

Once again this year, HHS qualified to receive an exchange student through the efforts of the local chapters in school and in the community. Raul Krivoy from Argentina spent an active year at HHS as a member of the class of '68. Fund raising projects kept AFS active throughout the year. The club began the year by selling shares and in January sponsored a dramatization of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs presented by the Trans-World Brides Patents Association. A Share-a-Day with Joann in May also helped to defray expenses of sending a student abroad.

Pastor Schroedel and Raul Krivoy join the student body in giving Joann Netzer a round of applause for being selected as an exchange student.

Participating in two Metropolitan Educational Cultural Arts trips, members of the Art Club gained useful ideas which they applied to individual projects. Among their most creative and outstanding achievements this year was a first place winning float in the homecoming parade. At Christmas, the group worked during art classes to create a life size nativity scene which they placed in front of the school. Although the efforts of their labor were destroyed by vandals, members did not get discouraged. Before Christmas they were already creating and painting scenery for Bye Bye Birdie to be ready for the April performances.

Equipped with paper and paste, the art club begins work on their nativity scene.

A group of FHA members traveled to Evanston for a weekend convention and gained many ideas from the Career Day. In observation of FHA week, the organization sold carrots and celery to the student body during lunch as one of their daily projects. Mothers were entertained at the Mother-Daughter Banquet, and later members had the same fun with their fathers on Daddy Date Night. Formal initiation night brought the whole family together in order to witness the induction ceremony for new members. Raul Krivoy, guest of honor, spoke about the traditions of his country.

Keeping Physically

Lynn Stoff does her part to win the Little 500 for G.A.A.

Having fun is surely the best way to keep physically fit, and the many activities of Girls Athletic Association prove it.

GAA members introduced new members to the club with a Howdy Hike. This started the wheels turning. And turn they did. Long and tiring bike hikes prepared members for the "Little 500" at homecoming where GAA members, living up to their athletic reputations, carried home the trophy.

As the weather turned colder, the gals brought out volleyball and basketball equipment and played vigorously, ignoring broken fingernails and bruised feet. Bowling also kept the girls in trim and in competition with one another. Although competition between teams is keen within the club, GAA also promotes unity. When these girls put their heads together on one project, the results are bound to be victorious. Once again this year GAA created a winning homecoming float, thanks to Jo Lang and Mary Frey, GAA's own answer to George and Martha Washington. Again this year, the club sold candy in order to earn money for their projects. Sales broke all records over previous years. Other service projects of the organization included parties for the aged at the Highland Home and a contribution to the Bulldog fund.

Fit Pays Off for G.A.A. Members . . .

G.A.A. informal initiation for the new members is always an interesting and sometimes hectic experience. New members are assigned "big sisters" who always seem to think up "duties" for them to fulfill, such as pushing an egg with their nose, walking in the water fountain, having their face washed with snow, and wearing an odd combination of clothes.

Carol Korte and Peggy Duft proudly display their new G.A.A. sweatshirts.

Informal and formal initiation is a memorable part of each year's activities. For new members informal initiation involved many exciting experiences, dreamed up by their big sisters. At the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet in the spring the formal initiation officially welcomed the girls into the club.

With the arrival of spring, all GAA thoughts turned to Black River and the annual weekend trip, a highlight of each year in GAA. The hope of earning enough points to be able to go gives each girl in GAA a goal to work toward. In order to earn this honor, she must earn a certain number of points in team sports and individual events, sell a certain amount of candy, help in float construction, and participate in other club activities.

Student Council Raises Money for

Mr. Hilbert takes the bulldog for a test drive.

Merle Roberts and Dorsey Gibbons, the muscle of Student Council, lay the blocks for the homecoming coronation.

A five foot long statue of a bulldog mascot became a reality through the efforts of Student Council who organized and encouraged fund raising projects. Contributing students eagerly signed their names to a scroll that would be placed in a time capsule in the base of the statue. Other fund raising projects included a Computer Dance where students answered questions in hopes of finding the ideal date.

Many boys hoisted pants legs in the Hairy Legs Contest to permit students to vote on who had the hairiest legs by contributing pennies for the Bulldog.

Student Council Week brought many activities to H.H.S. An open meeting enabled the student body to suggest ideas. On Law Day, the student body witnessed a mock trial and on Teacher Appreciation Day, teachers were given a day off as Student Council members took over classes.

Disaster Strikes Spanish Club Float.

An ingenious float was bound to win Spanish Club prize, but the results can be seen below after the fire.

When the 132 members of the Spanish Club put their heads together to create a homecoming float, the result is bound to be ingenious. A clever airplane with moveable parts and smoke shooting from its tail lived up to its name, "A Bulldog Bombshell." An accidental misfired spark ignited the tissue flowers just prior to parade time and the float literally went up in smoke. Undaunted by one defeat, the Spanish Club quickly bounded back to present a successful Christmas program and their annual party in the spring complete with Mexican food. Active meetings throughout the year included skits, talks, slides, and movies. In addition twenty-four members attended "Antonio," and the "Ballets de Madrid," at Kiel Auditorium and contributed to the Bulldog Fund.

Roman Days Return at J.C.L. Banquet.

Mrs. Roe drives the car which represented JCL in the homecoming parade.

The Junior Classical League, or better known as the Latin Club, is a small organization in HHS; but they always seem to be involved in many activities. This year the JCL sponsored a car in the homecoming parade, and some of its members attended a Latin Contest in which Carol Bosché received a superior rating in state among first year students.

JCL also sponsored a Roman Banquet. Before the banquet, new members were sold as slaves to old members.

NHS Sponsors Services for Students.

Where do you go to find the telephone number of that cute girl you met in the hall? To the Dial Dope, of course! Following tradition, the National Honor Society again sponsored services for students. They began an active year by compiling and selling the annual school directory. In memory of Bill Storbeck, who was killed in Vietnam, NHS purchased for the library the book Mr. and Mrs. Bo Jo Jones. As the year drew to a close, many students found the NHS summer job finding file to be a great help.

"Rainbow of Desire" was the theme of this year's induction ceremony where eighteen juniors and seniors were added to the membership roll. Mr. Jeff Hendrickson, from KXOK radio in St. Louis, presented a captivating speech telling of his experiences on a trip to Vietnam.

Del Klaustermier and Bob Roe join the Dial Dope assembly line.

French Club Banquet Is Magnifique.

Barbequed chicken was the main course of this year's French Club banquet. Members selected French recipes and hopefully prepared food. The result, a mouthwatering seven-course meal, was a tremendous success.

French club offers an informal environment for speaking and hearing French. As usual, members visited France through slides and talks. They did not confine their efforts only to French culture as was evidenced when Raul Krivoy, our exchange student, spoke to the club about his country, Argentina.

RIGHT: Kay Brendal looks unsure, but Jo Tibbetts and Kathy Merkle seemed pleased at the result of their dish for the French Club Banquet.

Library Club Assists Students.

The Library Club not only helps Mrs. Lyon run the library more efficiently, but also purchases new books for the library. Thanks to the student librarian's help, students are able to use the library facilities to our maximum advantage. The club is not "all work and no play," however, for members have had several parties during the year.

Science — Camera Club Produces Movie.

To raise money for their dwindling account, Science Club members arranged to make colored movies for school use. One movie involved the use of a Bunsen burner and the process used in melting glass. It was hoped that these movies would enable bright Junior High students to advance in the field of science.

Club members, the intellectuals of H.H.S., met every other Thursday night to discuss interesting topics, such as the make-up and use of a camera. This enabled several members to take pictures for the Iris.

Student Index Added to '68 Book.

Each year the Iris Staff makes the year-book better by introducing new ideas. Additions this year include duotone color and an index. Duotone, two-tone colored pictures, appear on every division page.

Besides adding new ideas to the year-book, the Iris staff members worked hard on tasks which must be done every year. These include selling advertisements and subscriptions, planning layouts, writing copy, and taking pictures. Each member's efforts were coordinated with others to produce a finished product.

New Constitution Boosts Membership for Letterman's Club.

Thirty-nine members of the Letterman's Club flexed their muscles this year to boost school spirit by selling Bulldog window stickers. Throughout the year, they aided the spectators by selling programs at basketball games and bleacher seats at football games. One of the little known duties of the Letterman's Club is changing the announcements on the marquee in front of the school.

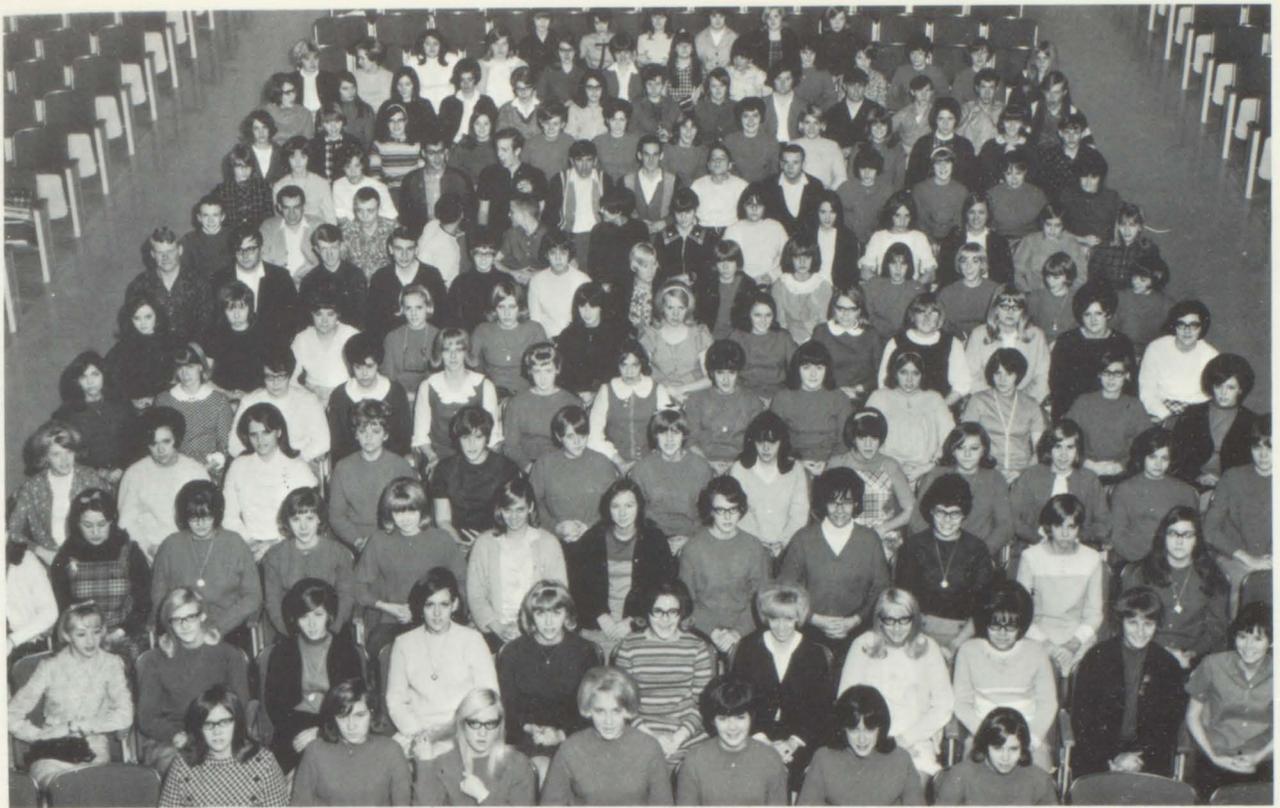

For the first year, freshmen were permitted to join Letterman's Club after receiving one letter in any sport. This policy change was a result of a new constitution.

Bob Randle, Darrel Gentry, and Craig Louer put the finishing touches on the Letterman's Club car in the Homecoming Parade.

Letterman's Club duties not only include participating in sports; here Darrell Gentry and Bob Roe sell a program to Kathy King at a basketball game.

Pep Club Grows, and Grows, and Grows . . .

Red sweaters, black skirts, clever posters, colorful tags, coat-check, red and black beanies, and lot of school spirit are all common factors of the Pep Club. To increase school spirit, members decided that the girl members would wear a standard uniform. The result was an attractive combination of red sweaters and black skirts.

Pep Club tackled the problem of increasing school spirit by putting up clever posters around school, making comical tags, and by selling beanies for the Regional Tournament. The final touch of aiding school spirit was the helpful yelling of support at our games.

The F.F.A. Barnyard wasn't only of interest to high school students but younger ones as well.

This year the Future Farmers of America Chapter has become one of the most active organizations in the school. Perhaps their main project, involving the rest of the school, was a barnyard constructed in the Ag. room. Students of the high school, junior high, and elementary school were invited to tour it. Not only did FFA members build a barnyard, but they also built a float for the Homecoming Parade in the fall and gave a skating party in the winter. Paula Urban was elected FFA Sweetheart, also a first for Highland Chapter. Rounding out the year, the FFA gave a banquet for members and their parents. The DeKalb award was presented to Zane Schneider, president of Highland's FFA chapter, at the Awards Assembly.

Suzanne Hecht and Jack Gramlich were chosen to participate in an All State Chorus to perform before the International Society Chorus Educators in Europe. In addition to performing before a distinguished audience, the all state groups will tour Europe. Carol Bosché was also named as a member of the All State Chorus.

Chorus members had an active year, opening with a combined Christmas Concert with the band. The annual Spring Concert featured Jack Gramlich and Suzanne Hecht. Proceeds from the concert went toward payment of their trip.

An exchange choral concert with Triad enabled the students of H.H.S. to hear the work of another school and our choral department to gain more experience by singing for someone other than their own friends.

Members of the stage band provided entertainment-at the Awards Day Assembly.

Lively Rhythms of Band Ensembles

Whether it be pep band, marching band, stage band, or concert band, our H.H.S. bands under the direction of their instructor Mr. Lyon, always manages to be prepared to entertain at some school event. The Marching Band provides entertainment for the spectators at all home football games while the pep band beats out peppy, foot-stamping music at most of the home basketball games.

The concert band presented three concerts this year, combining efforts with the chorus in two of them. A special stage band was organized to accompany "Bye Bye Birdie," the all school musical in the spring.

In addition to the many hours of practice for home events, the band also manages to squeeze trips into their busy schedule each year. This year the band traveled to the University of Illinois to participate in a band day.

CLASSES

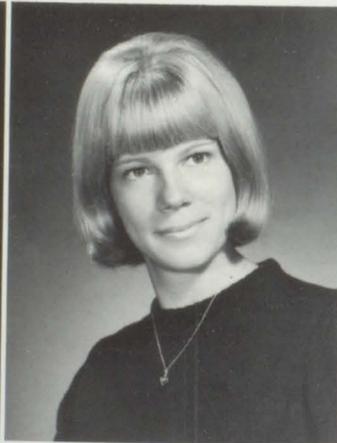

The officers of the Senior Class are Secretary Peg Bellm, Treasurer Diane Ammann, President Marilyn Liebler, and Vice-president Wayne Gentry.

As all classes in the past, this year's Senior Class found their last year in high school to be the most exciting and confusing. A rugged, flower-bedecked covered wagon, titled "The Goal Rush of '68," was their entry in the Homecoming parade. Later, seniors took main and supporting roles in the production of Bye Bye Birdie.

As the year came to a close, members of the class made plans for the future. For some, these included further schooling; for others, they included jobs or military service. As the class bid their final good-bye to Highland High School, they joined voices at graduation in singing "The Halls of Ivy."

Although the junior year for any class at HHS is usually the busiest, the class of '69 breezed through theirs smoothly. In the fall, they constructed an "Ark to Victory" for their Homecoming float. Showing their willingness to cooperate, the juniors joined with the seniors to produce "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," for which the juniors succeeded in out-selling the seniors in ticket sales.

Beginning early in January, the class began making plans for the Prom. When its theme was finally revealed "London By Night" provided a lovely background for an evening of fun and entertainment.

Although their float won no prize, the members of the junior class deserve praise for the many long hours and hard work put into this "Ark to Victory."

Produce Imitation of "London by Night."

After surviving one hectic year of high school life, the sophomores returned to try their hand at the second. To start the year off, the class came up with a prize-winning float with a Southern theme for the Homecoming parade. The spirit-minded sophomores then pulled through to win the Spirit Stick twice during the year.

Building up their treasury for future activities, the class ran the concession stand at several basketball games. By ordering their class rings, the sophomores added the final touch to another wonderful year at HHS.

Officers of the Sophomore Class are President Greg Bosche, Treasurer Donna Baumgartner, Secretary Janet Niggli, and Vice-president Dale Schrupf.

Out of the pages of Mark Twain's classic novel, Huckleberry Finn came alive in a sophomore English class.

Win "Spirit
Stick"
Twice.

Freshman Class officers are Vice-president Steve Luber, Treasurer Tom Wenzel, President Connie Braundmeier, and Secretary Connie Louer.

Big upperclassmen, new teacher, a different school are only a few adjustments an incoming freshman must make. But like other classes in the past, the Class of '71 found the first week is the hardest. Within a few weeks, the frosh found themselves involved in sports and other activities. A year of getting organized means electing officers and Student Council representatives. It also means building that first Homecoming float. The frosh float raised the flag of victory. Although it did not win a prize, it did represent the class well. Also making this class known was an outstanding frosh basketball team. The Class of '71 promises some tough competition in future years.
