Highland High School

*1500 Troxler
Highland, Illinois
62249*

To put it simply...

Highland High is a melting pot for teenagers from north of New Douglas to as far south as St. Morgan--a 22 mile stretch. The area of the Highland School District is 181.5 square miles, making it the third largest school district in the state. Twenty regular bus routes are scheduled daily, in order to allow students to attend HHS.

While the actual city of Highland has a population of 7,100+ , St. Morgan has only 22! Students from New Douglas, Alhambra, Grantfork, Pierron, St. Morgan, and of course, Highland all attend HHS. All of these towns and villages bring in an added touch of talent, and a mixture of new ideas to make up Highland High. Despite the fact that the 818 students have a variety of different backgrounds, the student body blends together and creates a unity of what we all refer to as simply HHS.

New and Improved

Simply HHS

To put it simply...

This was a year for new faces and a new feel at HHS.

Walking through the halls you could see the faces of many new students as well as several new teachers. The new feel was the energy, excitement, and new ideas that were generated from adding new aspects to HHS.

The athletic department added soccer and softball to the program, to accomodate the growing interest in these sports, while the English department brought back public speaking for the same reason.

Art students continued to create murals for the school's walls, and the cafeteria expanded its variety of cuisine to include a food bar.

C.H.E.S.T. (Company of Highland Engineering Students Technology) manufactured footlockers, in mass production, that sold for $20.50.

Plain and Simple

Simply HHS

To put it simply ...

1986-87 had the typical characteristics of any other year.

The year began as usual, with students discussing the events of the past summer. The National Honor Society again picked their fall members. Homecoming week came, and the school found itself in the bevy of the usual excitement of that time.

Then, winter was here again. Classes dragged on, with the usual amount of homework and tests, which was only interrupted when musical practice began. The spring production, West Side Story, featured Annie Lutostanski and Kevin Kintz in the lead roles, while many other students participated on-stage, and behind the scenes as technicians.

"Stairway to Heaven" was the theme of the 1987 prom, featuring the band Alpha. All of these represent the traditions that HHS students cherish.

Clockwise from top Senior band girls hand out programs at the Spring Band Show. Juniors Beth Ambuel and Kay East play the game funny bone in Spanish. The Baseball Bash was a new addition to extra-curricular activities at HHS. Senior Susie Ginther gets into the habit of dressing up for Halloween.

To put it simply...

Highland High School is a place for special times. Looking beyond the schoolwork, there were many special occasions that highlighted the year. In the fall, the first dinner theatre, Register Here, was performed in the multi-purpose room. Craig Sands and Cheri Portell were crowned Homecoming King and Queen, respectively, while Claire Drake was named Special Maid, and Daniel Reaka, Special Escort.

The first post-prom party was held in the Lindendale ballroom, and proved to be successful. The baseball bash, a game, and a dance on the tennis courts, sponsored by the Student Council, FFA, and NHS seemed a fit way to round out the school year.

All of these occasions highlighted the year, but most of all there were the special times that each student shared with his or her special friends.

To put it simply...

"If it wasn't for HHS, we'd have to go to school somewhere else." M.O.

"People point at things they don't understand." K.K.

"HHS is kind of like a summer resort, but it's different." M.O.

Student Survival

Throughout four years of high school, you learn many things. You pick up what you can in class, but you also learn the extras. Students must deal with friends, teachers, responsibilities, and relationships in order to survive at HHS.

Here's a few tips on the Do's And Don'ts of HHS from seasoned seniors:

Do bring a pencil to class
 Do bring P.E. clothes to wear
 Do finish your homework
 Do support school functions
 Do brown-nose the teacher
 Do pick up your trays after eating
 Do get the teacher off the subject
 Do bring your book to class
 Do park between the lines in the lot

Don't wear hats during class
 Don't be tardy for class
 Don't use profane language
 Don't wear shorts
 Don't throw food
 Don't skip school
 Don't forget your lunch money
 Don't get caught kissing in the halls
 Don't throw away eating utensils and most importantly...
 Don't expect miracles.

Technology Comes Alive

If you happened to see drops of paint on the floor, or brushes and pallets scattered around, you may not necessarily be in the art room; you may have stumbled into the industrial education department. These were the tell-tale signs of seniors, Bruce Capelle and Dave Daiber who were chosen to begin decorating the industrial education halls. They were selected by Mr. Tucker who originated the project.

The mural is a pictorial description of the development of technology up to the present day. When complete it will cover the length of the wall with a total of nine scenes, from the discovery of fire to the creation of the space shuttle.

"It's a lot tougher than I thought it would be," Dave said when he first began painting. "There is so much space to fill!" Both he and Bruce spent nearly every free class, adding a little color to the long halls.

Right David Daiber applies his first strokes of paint as he recreates the invention of the wheel.

Life in the Locker Lane

"Hey, get out of my way!"
"Move so that I can open my locker," and "Push!" are all common statements that are heard coming from the locker stalls.

During the five minutes that you have between classes, your main problems are getting all the way to the back of the locker stalls, getting in your locker, pushing your way back out again, and being in your classroom before the bell rings. If you just don't make that noisy deadline, you are then counted tardy. If you have to use the restroom, you should expect to receive the penalty of being late, also.

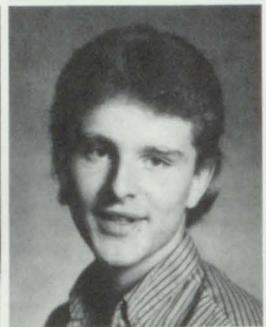

Another problem is being trapped in the back of the locker stalls. If this occurs, you had better hope that you aren't claustrophobic. You can even experience an avalanche of falling objects ranging from books to human bodies. If you can avoid the avalanche, then you have to deal with getting a cut or dent put in the side of your head by the neighboring locker. This happens more often if your locker is on the bottom. If you manage to come out of these stalls of destruction alive, you have already won half the battle. Onward ho!

Distinctively Ours

The 1986-1987 school year has the distinction of being the only year where two schools were brought together as one. This has brought many changes to HHS. These changes were felt the deepest by the seniors who either have long awaited this special time or had spent their previous years in a different environment. With the addition of a large number of students, the school's overall potential increased.

The athletics program added two new sports to its already abundant "curriculum." Soccer and girls softball have given many the chance to get involved in a new activity. Not only have new sports been enlisted, but the sports already present have been enriched. Cheerleading showed a definite improvement, as have others. The extra competition came as a positive factor for most athletes.

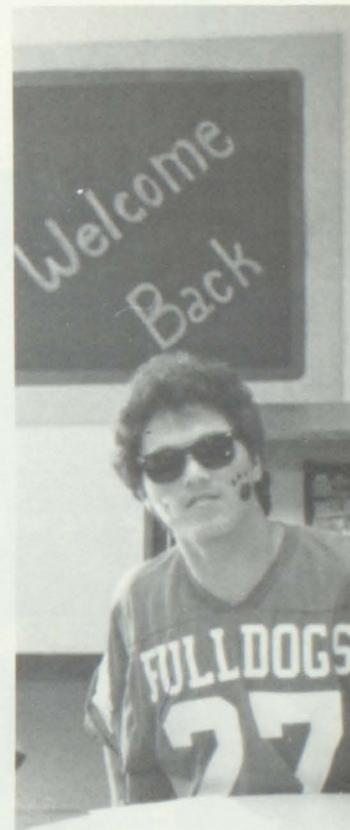

Academics have also felt change. With more classes and an increased number of students, teachers have had to adjust. The teaching staff was enlarged and some teachers had to take on extra classes.

Although the evident changes are expected with the enlargement of a student body, other individual changes are extremely important. We were given the chance to expand our horizons by meeting people, making friends, and experiencing new ideas.

Uniquely 1987

No matter how you looked at HHS, you could count on four years of excitement, boredom, victories, defeats, friends and fun. The time just seemed to slip by.

Many changes, events, and controversies occurred over the years, but everyone learned to adjust. Seniors realized that the years had meant something. There were things to look back on. Awards, sports victories, final exams, projects, summer band practices were all an important part of high school life.

Everyone will view their years here differently. Some will remember the ordinary--the classes, the homework, the schedules. Still others will recall the memorable experiences like Homecoming, football games, Coronation, Jr./Sr. Proms.

Students realized that their years at Highland were unique. To the Class of 1987, Highland High School will always be known as simply HHS.

Time Out for ACT

Mrs. Ifner talks to junior Tim Parker about his ACT test results.

Every year many juniors prepare for the ACT test, required by many colleges as an entrance exam. To prepare, students do a variety of things, such as take college prep classes and enroll in workshops.

Other students prepare by taking practice tests or study on their own. Commented Lana Reinacher, "I think you should be serious about taking the ACT test because it will have an effect on college planning."

Even though some people were satisfied with their scores, many students will retake the test. "It's not as hard as everyone makes it out to be, though," said Ty Dimig.

HHS juniors who did exceptionally well, scoring above 95%, were Jon Boulanger, Danny Eilerman, Brant Frey, Neil Gusewelle, and Mike Orlet.

Taking Off the Training Wheels

Juniors, Dana Koepke and Shaun Meddows attended a motorcycle riding safety course at SIU in Edwardsville. Although the course was at the university in Edwardsville it was offered by Carbondale.

The course was to teach riders safety skills as well as how and when to perform a certain move. Shaun Meddows commented, "The instructors were helpful in everything. With all the questions they somehow managed to keep their patience and friendliness."

Dana added that the skills they learned would help them in the future. Dana also said, "We had lectures and tests. It wasn't all fun and games riding around. One of our tests was to skid and try to keep our balance on the bike. Both the juniors felt that taking the class was beneficial to them and would undoubtedly help them to make the right decisions while on a motorcycle."

The class was free and insurance was given to each student.

Getting in Gear

Driving--It can be a controversial word. Some parents believe that when a child gets behind the wheel they'll go out and kill themselves. Well at HHS that is one thing no one takes as a joke. Driving is a privilege, and for that privilege the students must work. Getting a permit and voucher involves taking a class known as Safety Education. In this class students have to do a project called driving situations. Sophomore, Michele Ann Zajak said, "My driving situation was interesting. It took alot of time and brain work to put it together but it was worth it, because I had to think what I would do if it were me in that situation." Mr. Barry Thomas feels it is a necessary class that all students should take if they plan on being behind the wheel someday.

Just Testing

Michelle Whitworth works on her achievement test.

The students in the 1986-87 sophomore class had the chance to experience the thrill and excitement of taking the SRA tests. Along with that there was a test to help kids decide what their interests are. The SRA test was designed to check skill levels in different areas from comprehensive reading to math and science. They will not find out the results of their tests until their junior year. At that time they will be called one by one to the guidance area where the results will be discussed.

Sophomore Bonnie Case commented, "The test itself was easy I thought, it was the wait afterwards that got to me."

Fellow classmate, Michele Whitworth said, "The english part was a breeze, I just hope I did good on the rest of it."

As the 1986-87 school year slowly comes to an end, those students who aren't exempt from taking exams, begin to realize that the time for fun and games is ending too.

Since freshman and sophomores have to take them, regardless of their attendance at school, we see them hitting the books a little bit harder than they normally would.

Christie Hampton said, "There's not very much time left, but in the time that I do have, I'm really going to study hard. I still have two years to go after this one and I sure don't want to mess it up now."

Amy Ragsdale comments, "I don't know what I'd do without my study hall. I get all of my work done in there, that's how I keep my weekends free."

Suzi White studies in between classes and during her lunch hour.

Coming Apart at the Seams

"All right class, today we are going to dissect the frog."

"Oh no!!!"

Dissecting the frog is something that every Freshmen Biology I student has to look forward to.

Even though each student has a different opinion, every Freshmen must go through the same thing. Most of the guys enjoy it, while almost every girl gets sick to their stomach just thinking about it.

As Kelly Zeisset commented, "I thought it was disgusting." But on the other hand, Kevin Emig's thoughts were different. He said, "It was an experience that I'll never forget!"

The frog is one of many things that the students must dissect. Other things include crayfish, worms, cow eyes, and many others.

Still, all freshmen get the opportunity to show their true emotions when they dissect each frog.

Study Hall--Study Break

Study hall is a class that every student looks at differently. It could be used for relaxing or even sleeping. Some students use the time to catch up on the latest gossip, while others actually try to get their homework done.

Matt Braundmeier commented, "Study hall is really boring if you don't have something to do and the teacher doesn't let you talk."

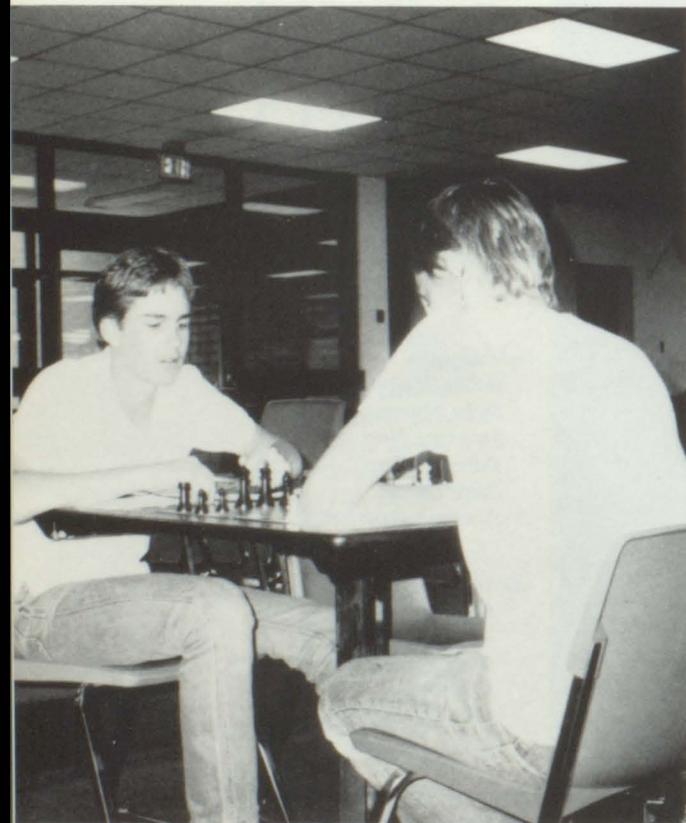

An option in study hall is going to the library which can be used for doing research, reading magazines, or getting books. Shannon Bohnenstiehl said, "It's great when you can go to the library. It's better than just sitting in study hall."

Who Runs This School ...Anyway?

Most students would probably respond by naming one of the four administrators, and their answers would be fairly accurate.

Although our administrators have many responsibilities, they refuse to hide behind closed doors. They can often be found teaching in a classroom or mingling in the commons, always ready to lend an ear or give a little advice.

But it's not as simple as disciplining students; there are also federal, state and district guidelines to uphold. This year a new penalty system was added to the tardy policy. An accumulation of unexcused tardies now results in detention, or even suspension along with a meeting with the parents if the problem becomes severe.

According to Mr. Schaefer, five minutes should allow more than enough time for students to get from one class to another. As he said, "You may think of a good excuse, but that doesn't make you 'unexcused'."

Work, Work, More Work

If the administrators are running this place, who's watching out for them? The secretaries, of course! No executive is quite as efficient without his right hand man (or woman as the case may be).

Secretaries have an overwhelming number of responsibilities. In the last couple years, several computers have been installed to help ease the burden. Sherry Szoke, who has worked in the office for sixteen years, feels that the computers are a great improvement. Darla James, who replaced Kim Royer in December, says that it is useful in working with the attendance list and daily announcements.

Terry Frey agrees, using a computer cuts down on her work load. All the students are on file and schedule changes are easy with the word processor. The library also uses a computer to keep track of equipment inventory and overdue books. "It's a big plus. It's saved so much time already," said Bonnie Thiems.

Although our secretaries have a lot of work to do, hopefully their load is a little lighter with the addition of our new computers.

When you think of teachers at school, you would probably picture someone instructing students. But some teachers at HHS are students themselves.

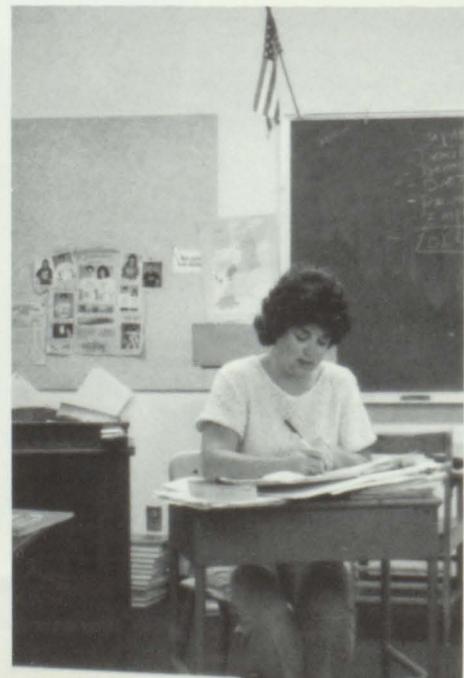

Dr. Arlen Baker, a Vocational teacher, attended Saint Louis University and has attained his doctorate degree in education.

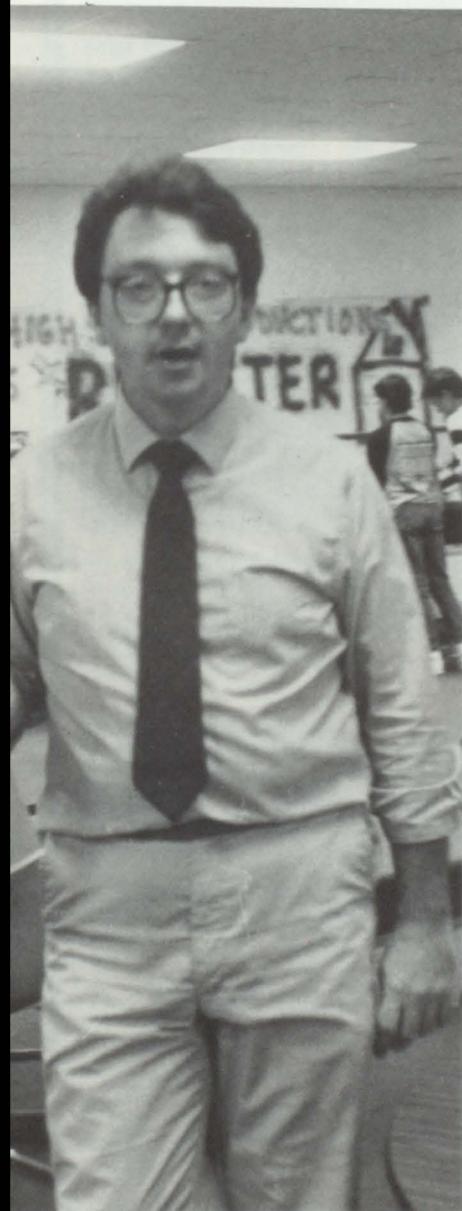

Fred Singleton, Principal at HHS, is working towards his doctorate in education at Southern Illinois in Edwardsville.

Taking classes at University of Illinois, Band director John Heath has finished his course work and after completing his qualification exams he must compose his dissertation to obtain his doctorate.

Steven Moore, Social Studies teacher at HHS, completed taking classes for the degree of a Doctor of Arts in History because he believes that teachers should continue their education throughout their teaching careers. "I would like to see a change in the Illinois laws to require that all teachers must earn a minimum of six semester hours of credit in either their area of specialization or in educational methods during each five year period of teaching," he commented.

After obtaining her Certificate of Specialist in Education Administration, Jacquelyn Schneider plans to continue taking classes. "I feel going back to school is one of the best ways to stay current and to avoid 'teacher burn out.' Going to school keeps me fresh."

Faculty Takes On New Look

There has been a population explosion at Highland High! With an increase of over 100 students in 1986-1987, it is not surprising to see so many new faces in the halls. But students aren't the only source of the new look. The faculty has also experienced a great deal of change and growth.

Twenty-five percent of the faculty is new to Highland High this year. Because of the great number of new teachers, special meetings were held for them. The meetings, led by Mr. Singleton, were designed to help new teachers adjust and develop as better teachers, but they accomplished even more. "They helped give a sense of belonging," commented Mrs. Peggy Oulvey.

The new faculty members have brought with them many fresh ideas. Mr. Rich Kantner has the responsibility of coaching the new soccer and softball teams, and Coaches Steve Lanxon and Matt Moore have organized a weightlifting club. Mrs. Peggy Oulvey is also planning to begin a speech team in the fall of '87.

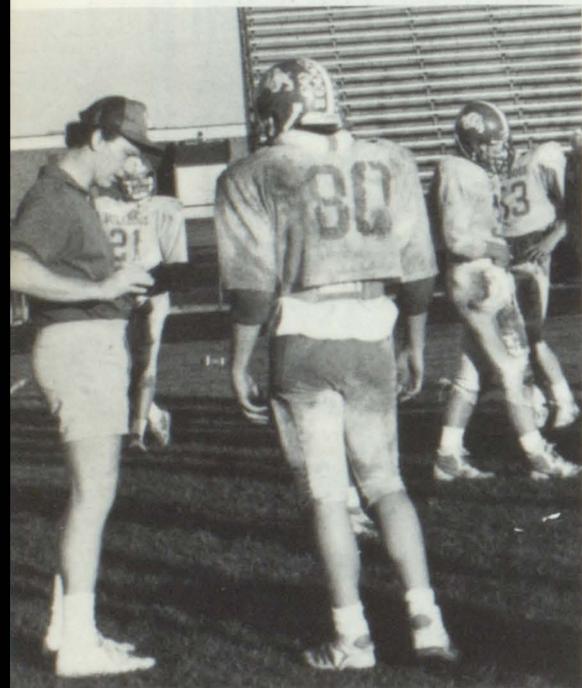

Miss Kramper expressed the feelings of many at HHS when she said, "I don't even remember who the new teachers are. They have blended in so well."

New Faces, New Places

The 1986-87 school year was a year of change at HHS. Everyone is aware of the increase of students and the new teachers who have joined the school. There are also several behind the scene changes which have taken place.

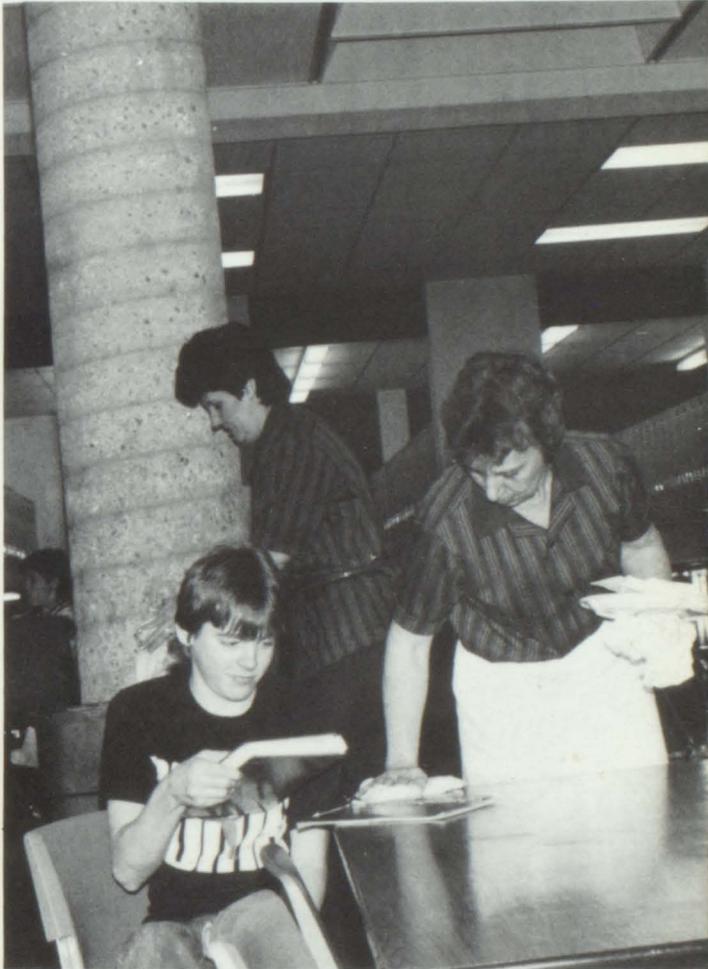

This fall marked the retirement of Cel Korte, head custodian at HHS. Students and faculty celebrated his thirteen and a half years of service by honoring him with Cel Korte Day and a special assembly. Bob Hammond has stepped up to fill the role of head custodian, while Cel is now relaxing in sunny Florida.

The cafeteria has also witnessed some changes. With the increase of students, something had to be done to alleviate the long, crowded lunch lines. A separate food bar and snack counter was added along the wall near the guidance center to draw part of the crowd away from the kitchen area and to add variety to the lunch program.

Another change, seen by some as controversial, is that students are now responsible for serving themselves. Some students and faculty wonder if the new system is actually an improvement. In addition to saving the employee hours, the program is also designed to allow extra time for the cafeteria workers to be doing other tasks.

Above A member of the custodial crew journeys up to the roof to check the air conditioner for the hot days ahead.

Second hour. Yawn. Stretch. Eyes open. Breakfast a memory. Lunch just a promise. Time to wake up. Reality sets in.

Electives give students a chance to choose. Art and Home Economics departments offer a variety of courses in the elective area.

The Art department offers classes such as drawing, water-color, crafts, commercial art, and independent art to the students interested in the field.

As in the past, the annual Art Fair in May allowed students to display and sell their products. "Any art course gives you the chance to be creative in an organized fashion," Angie Mudd said.

*The Home Ec. department offers electives which break the normal routine of school and provide a different learning environment. Through such classes as living environments, parenting, relationships, adult living, clothing, foods, family management, and survival living, students have the opportunity to learn basic skills and knowledge needed for everyday life. It's third hour, the learning hour. Finally awake. Lunch only an hour or two away. Call it motivation--this is your hour.

For many students, P.E. and study hall provide a relaxing non-academic hour for their day.

Although required, a new P.E. policy allows those juniors and seniors who need more academic classes to take them instead of P.E. But for most students, P.E. provides a release of extra energy. Sophomore Cheryl Rottman also sees P.E. as a time "to meet kids older and younger than myself that I otherwise never would have met."

Public speaking was introduced into the curriculum for the first time in years. This class taught students to speak confidently in front of others and to organize speeches. Senior Rich Jacober commented, "This class taught me a lot about giving speeches and I think it will help me prepare speeches for college."

In the foreign language department not only do the students learn how to speak and write a foreign language, but they also learn more about the country they are studying in foreign language clubs. Through a variety of activities, students gain an understanding of the cultures and different lifestyles of others.

Every year the foreign language clubs celebrate "Foreign Language Week." This year the week of celebration, March 2-6, started off with Casmir Pulaski Day. Tuesday was Foreign Dress-Up Day. On Wednesday clubs sold foreign language buttons, and on Thursday held their annual International Banquet. The week ended with kiss a foreign teacher day.

Technology

More and more computers are being used throughout the school, giving our students a head start before going on to college or tradeschool. Not only are they being used in the computer classes, but also they have moved out into the Math, English, Science, and even the Industrial Education Departments.

In the Industrial Education Department the students apply the advanced technology to their classroom projects. Their designs are drawn onto the computer, making them easier and more accurate.

As society becomes more advanced, the content of the courses are changing. The Math Department can use their computers when looking for new solutions. The English Department takes advantage of the word processor when writing a paper. The Industrial Education Department uses the computer to store their plans and ideas for new productions, like this years production run, CHEST.

Probably the most important bell of the day is the one that rings at 2:55. That's when books are thrown, lockers are slammed, and students are shoved. There is chatter everywhere. A mad rush for buses and cars begins. Everyone seems to move so quickly to escape another day's end at HHS.

But once the 2:55 bell rings all students do not necessarily escape. School-oriented activities range anywhere from soccer to wrestling, and from cheerleading to track.

Sophomore, Brad Braundmeier confesses, "I either lift weights or go home and vegetate."

Though studies command attention nearly every day after school, other 'past-times' claim their time slots as well. Junior, Steve Jenne, said his typical afternoon is going to his girlfriend's house talking to her parents.

The real world closes in on some students when jobs await them after school. For those with work commitments 'after school' meant anytime after noon for co-op students or as late as after six for those who work nights.

For senior, Doug Stueber, that isn't true, "I go to work usually 2 nights during the week right after school and don't get off until 11:00."

During the school day students' lives are pulled together by the bells but the after school life is when no two students go off in the same direction.

When questioned on the subject most people don't have anything good to say about homework, most students who were asked don't like it. # Consistently Consistent

"Being consistent" is what the girls tennis team has done for almost a dozen years. This is the 11th consecutive winning season they have had. "I was very happy with the season results," commented Coach Cary Iftner, "considering the fact that there were only four previous letter winners on this year's team." The team finished 2nd in the conference, ahead of Mascoutah who had beaten Highland earlier in a dual meet, and ended the season with a 13-3 record.

The girls tennis team placed 2nd in Highland Doubles Invitational and 6th at Belleville East Invitational, where Amy Johnson finished in 3rd place. There were many outstanding individual performances at the MVC Tournament, where the team placed 2nd.

Amy Johnson was runner-up at 1st singles, Meri Wilson was runner-up at 2nd singles, Maria Kleinmann was runner-up at 4th singles, and Stacy Schatte and Kerri Dickerson were runner-ups at 2nd doubles. At Wood River, where the team became Sectional Champions, Amy Johnson qualified for state in singles, and Mimi Lutostanski and Jill Thiems were unfortunately rained out in doubles. The team finished 35 out of 143 at state. "The future looks very good," stated Coach Iftner, pointing out that 6 out of the 10 varsity players were juniors.

*Out of seven Varsity members, only one was a senior, Tom Gibson. Gibson struggled throughout the season to improve his average to 45, by nine strokes. Unfortunately, his consistency couldn't help the Bulldogs pull out on top. Another bright light was that shown by Matt Tuffli, Junior. Tuffli averaged 42 for the year, but still missed making All-Conference by one stroke. Matt scored the team high with a 33 against Jerseyville in October. Nevertheless, the team just couldn't pull through. They lacked the experience with a young team to be successful. ## Simply No. 1

"1st" and "No. 1" were words often heard when discussions of the Highland soccer team were held at school. Not only were they the best, they were also the 1st soccer team Highland has ever sponsored. The 'dogs' finished the season with the record of 12 wins, 4 losses and 3 ties. Coach Rich Kantner credited players Junior Joel Boulanger, and Seniors Chris Hill, Mark Moenster, and Rich Jacober.

Stated Kantner about goalie Boulanger, "He did an excellent job, considering he had to learn his trade during actual games."

Boulanger took over the goalie position after Bruce Capelle got injured and produced four shutouts and only let an average of one goal through per game.

Senior Chris Hill was high point-getter, playing the center forward position with 13 goals and 10 assists.

Coach Kantner was also very pleased with the performance of sweeper fullback Mark Moenster. "He very rarely made mistakes. He kept the pressure off Joel." Moenster had one goal and six assists from his position.

Rich Jacober, the 4th piece of Highland's All-Conference power played fullback with 6 goals and 13 assists. "He was very quick and physical." noted Kantner.

Simply the Champs

Of the twelve wins the Volleyball Bulldogs accumulated, their win over Central had to be the one that got the ball rolling. That win came in the finals of the Highland Invitational Tournament and gave the Lady Bulldogs the championship. Another big plus was winning against Mascoutah, one of the toughest teams annually in the Mississippi Valley Conference. That win secured the MVC championship for the team.

"The talent is there, but the depth we had in earlier years is poor." So said senior punter/running back Dan Warning in the midst of the Bulldogs trying 2-7 year. The hopes for this year's team were high, but for some reason the Bulldogs came up short in their bid for a winning season.

What happened? Well, besides the lack of depth, the Bulldogs got a rude awakening upon discovering that they were by far the physically smallest team in the conference." You could really tell how much our lack of size hurt us late in the game against O'Fallon," commented senior wide receiver/cornerback Steve Zobrist. Also, running back Robert Ball mentioned that the team, having only 12 seniors, lacked leader or a group of leaders. Warning also added, "costly penalties hurt us all year."

The team was not without any bright points, however. Defensive coordinator Steve Lanxon joined the coaching staff and added new defensive schemes to the Bulldogs game plan. Steve Zobrist also shined brightly as the team's biggest star. He was named to the all-conference squad as defensive-back.

Whatever the problem was, the Bulldog coaching staff will no doubt spend the off-season searching for answers to those unanswered questions.

Simply Learning

Learning is the key to everything. Once one learns, one can begin to perfect the finer points of a new skill. Learning is the thing that coaches and players alike concentrate on at the freshmen and JV levels of football.

The freshmen team was very successful while learning the basic plays. Billy Greenwald starred at tailback for the young team and showed a powerful slashing style of running that made many Bulldog fans anticipate the day that Greenwald would be carrying the ball for the varsity squad. Also showing promise at both offensive and defensive end was aggressive Kyle Freeman.

The JV squad was successful for the second year in a row under the leadership of Coach Todd Johnson. Led by running back Todd Sands, they showed the promise that leads to anxious fans. "They seem to have a lot of talent and should be able to compete very well next year," commented varsity defensive tackle Brian Dillow.

The coaches are planning to set up a weight-lifting program for each of the players in the off season. For once in a long time, Highland fans can say "wait 'til next year," and honestly mean it.

"Strength in numbers" was the key to this year's wrestling team. There was a good turn out of young athletes and when there are large numbers out, there is good competition for the varsity spots. Everyone will be back next year, except for the one senior on the team.

Haese placed 4th. Mike Loeh and Jeff Reidelberger both placed 4th at the MVC Tournament.

"It was a good feeling to take fifth and beat Mascoutah," added Devine. "We won some big ones and lost some big ones but I think that this was the best Highland High School has played in years," said another of the players.

The best game of the season was our upset over Mascoutah in the Mater Dei Tournament. The bulldogs were picked to fall to the Indians but proved the predictionists wrong. HHS went on to take fifth in the tournament.

The team played as one man both on and off the court. Spirit seemed to flow again from the fans and from the team making it the best season in years.

"We had an awesome year!" stated freshman player Lance Poehling. Due to strong consistency and raw talent the freshman climbed to a 16-2 record under the leadership of Coach Rich Kantner, who is a "freshman" to HHS coaching. The freshman achieved the best record of all boys' teams in spite of their inexperience. In contrast the JV had a record of 2-16. "The record doesn't really show how we played," said coach Todd Johnson. "We played well but we didn't get the big plays. I look for 15 wins next year because we will have a lot of upcoming freshman talent."

Key junior varsity players included Jeff Aleman, Tom Bruggemann, and Todd Graef. A noticeable improvement over last year was more spirit. HHS came out and backed the Bulldogs. More attendance and more spirit were key ingredients to the high spirits in spite of the JV's record.

Simply Impressive

The softball season finally started after many girls had waited practically three years for this first ever softball opening day. The fledgling team started off with a bang winning 9-0 behind a strong pitching performance from Kelly Rakers, and they never looked back.

Coach Rich Kantner molded a young team with little experience together and turned them into a high-scoring machine. The Varsity squad was paced offensively by power-hitter Nancy Frey and leadoff-hitter, shortstop Jenny Abert. Frey batted over .370 and belted two home-runs. Frey also led the team in runs-batted by collecting 27 in the year. Abert flashed a lot of brilliance while leading the team in batting average and an amazing 34 steals. Rakers also contributed heavily on offense, batting at better than a .300 clip. But, Rakers worth was really felt on the mound where she compiled an impressive 13-8 record over 123 innings with a very respectable 3.2 earned-run average.

The Junior Varsity team struggled, however. They stormed out of the blocks with a 4-2 record but lost their next eight games and finished 4-10. The young team has many members ticketed for future stardom, though. Shannon Germ showed a lot of promise at the plate and Linda Morence gained valuable experience at pitcher.

The appetites of Highland fans have now been whetted, and they are anxious to taste victory after softball victory.

Simply On-the-Ball

The 1987 baseball Bulldogs faced obstacles and frustrations on the year and came out on top. It wasn't easy for the club to finish with a winning record of 14 wins and 9 losses, an average of .609, 3 games over the .500 mark.

Their first obstacle came in the form of broken rhythm. In order for a club to perform consistently, it must create its own rhythm, good ones are better known as streaks. And if they are broken by missed days of injured players, clubs can crash in a downfall. The Highland Bulldogs were hit with two, cancelled days due to rain, but fortunately they were able to keep up their performance and continue on, undaunted.

A second problem the club faced was shutouts. They experienced three such morale-draining games handed to them by Edwardsville, Jerseyville, and Triad. The resilient Bulldogs went on unaffected, handing out two of their own in the form of 14-0 and 10-0, to Mascoutah and Madison, respectively.

Simply Aces

Once again, for the 17th season in a row, the tennis bulldogs maintained their tradition of success. Finishing the season with an outstanding record of 15 wins and only 2 losses, the small team made winning look easy.

In spite of the fact that Coach Larry Iftner's roster contained no seniors, four juniors (one of whom was new), and six underclassmen, they still produced four All-Conference members, and two qualifiers for state.

Coach Iftner said, "I knew this team could have a good year if they worked together and they proved me right by reaching their potential."

When looking at individual members, the final results speak for themselves. The four All-Conference players were Brad Iftner, David Paschal, Dan Eilerman, and Scott Plocher. Two All-Conference members even attained qualification for state: Brad Iftner and David Paschal.

The All-Conference players not only won at sectionals, but they also led the team into state competition.

Ending the season with 11 consecutive wins was the perfect complement to beginning with Coach Iftner's 200th win.

Simply Exciting

Since gymnastics is usually not carried by Highland High School, cheerleading is the way that many talented girls show off their skills. This year's cheerleaders demonstrated their athletic ability to the utmost by capturing many awards and honors during the year.

Among the team honors accumulated by the squad were two individual honors. Shelly Daiber and Shelly Neumann were each selected to the International Cheerleading Federation staff. "That was the biggest honor of the year," commented Daiber. The two were selected from a group of nationwide participants.

The hours and the physical strain put on the cheerleaders from attempting all those moves made is a very difficult year. But the numerous awards that were won will definitely make this a year that all the cheerleaders will remember.

Simply the Best

For an athlete to be recognized by his opponents as superior is the greatest honor one could receive. Many athletes at HHS shined brightly during the 1986-87 school year. Some benefited from the success of their teams while others rose above the difficult seasons their teams were suffering through and showed their extreme talents.

In the fall, the soccer team was very successful in their inaugural year and fielded four all-conference members. Amy Johnson, junior tennis star, finished first at sectionals and in the top 32 at state, while the doubles team of Jill Theims and Mimi Lutostanski were also very successful. The football team had only one all-conference member, senior defensive back Steve Zobrist. The volleyball team was also very successful and had two all-conference members selected. Tina Frey was selected to be Belleville Journal All-Area team as well.

When winter rolled around, Tina Frey was back in the limelight earning all-conference honors for girls basketball. Jennifer Abert was also stated as all-conference as the Lady Bulldogs rolled. The men's basketball team surprised everyone with their consistent play and Jeff Brown earned all-conference honors there.

Spring sports yielded many all-conference members. The girls track team was extremely successful and many people were named all-conference. The boys track team was also very successful and had two all-conference winners. Mark Geppert was the most successful trackster and won the conference meet in the 800 meters.

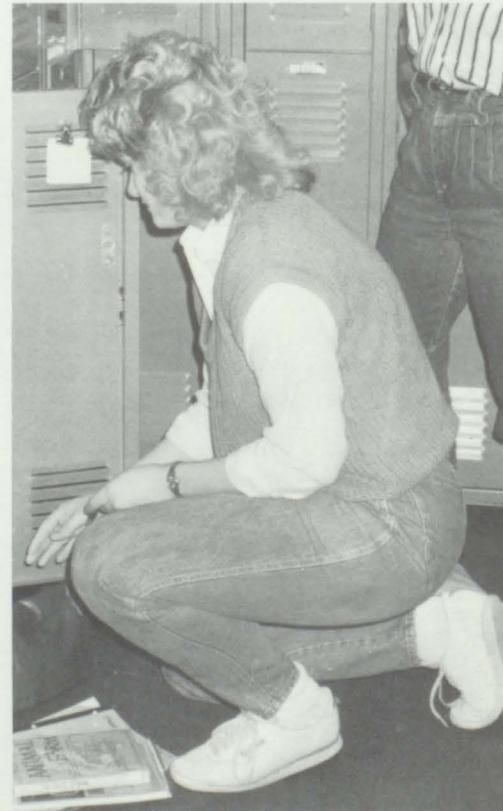

Granted, all-conference is an immense honor, but to be voted Athlete of the Year by your peers is the ultimate honor. Rich Jacober and Tina Frey were the two that received that recognition. Tina was a star in three sports, volleyball, basketball, and track. She holds many school records in track and is near the top of the list in almost every basketball category. Rich was valuable to the soccer and basketball teams not only for his athletic ability, but for his leadership. He was an indispensable member for each of these teams.

All athletes strive for perfection but very few can achieve it. These athletes have come as close as they can possibly come.

Halloween Homecoming

Picking up on the spirit of the season, Student Council selected "Midnight Masquerade" as its theme to coincide with the Homecoming--Halloween date. Students were greeted by an array of decorations in the commons on Monday, including a giant display by the seniors, complete with lights.

Over lunch hours throughout the week, students competed in such games as the pumpkin pie eating contest, the tricycle race, and the bubblegum blowing contest. With spare change students voted for the senior football player with the cutest baby picture. Presented with his bonnet, pacifier, and baby blanket, Robert Ball captured this honor during the Homecoming pep rally.

Some changes took place during Homecoming Week. The Powder Puff Volleyball Game was poorly attended and missed the added attraction of the ever-popular male powder puff cheerleaders and queen. Also, gym conflicts left students without the traditional sock hop to enjoy. In spite of these problems, Homecoming Week still brought a welcome break from the usual routine of school.

New Royalty Unmasked

Stars glistened surrounding a gleaming, silvery moon. The evening was full of mystery as the couples, chosen by their classmates for the homecoming court, emerged from the far side of the gym and each maid nervously bowed to the former King and Queen, Jay Korte and Jeanie Schaffner. The mystery was soon to be unfolded...for the royalty was soon-to-be announced. Muffled whispers drifted through the gym as the crowd guessed who would be the newly named royalty.

Claire Drake and Dan Reaka were announced as Special Maid and Escort.

As they took their bows, tension mounted, and silence swept across the audience. The suspense built as Mr. Kantner ceremoniously opened the crucial envelope, proclaiming Craig Sands the 1986-87 Homecoming King. After informed of his reigning Queen, Craig confronted the anticipating candidates by strolling past all of them and then reversing his steps toward his future Queen, Cheri Portell.

The newly elected HHS royalty were greeted with applause and flashing cameras as they took their first bows together.

The Fantasy Comes Alive

The theme Midnight Masquerade was appropriate for the Halloween Homecoming Week. The pumpkin pie eating contest, the decorated commons, and the full moon on Coronation night all added a mystery to the week's activities.

Friday night's loss to Mascoutah at the Homecoming Football Game dampened the spirits of many; however, the following evening's agenda was anticipated by all.

Following tradition, Student Council president, Claire Drake opened the Coronation ceremony by greeting the crowd and introducing the Master and Mistress of Ceremonies Mr. Rich Kantner and Ms. Jackie Schneider.

Once again, the Student Council's work and planning paid off; for all those attending Coronation '86 witnessed the fantasy of the Midnight Masquerade come alive. The magical evening continued as couples and friends left the Coronation and celebrated a night to remember.

Dinner Theatre--An HHS First!

Highland audiences received an unusual treat Saturday, November 10, when HHS's drama students presented its first dinner theatre production.

After a restaurant-competitive meal of prime rib or chicken kiev, prepared by a chef flown in from Chicago for the occasion, the audience moved from the commons to the multi-purpose room. There, they topped off their evening out with the mystery-comedy Register Here, presented by drama club members. Performed 'in-the-round,' the production, directed by Michelle Donaldson, brought the cast of 21 and the audience together as the murder mystery gradually unfolded.

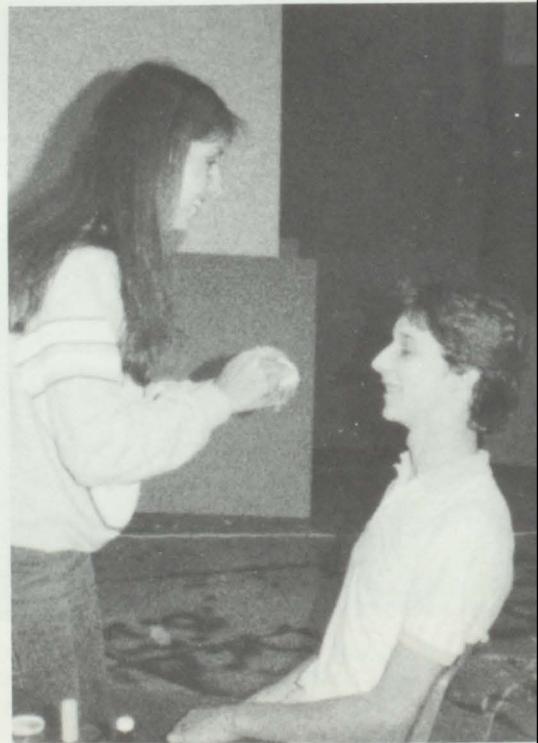

The dinner theatre approach was an experiment. Although initially scheduled for two nights, the dinner portion of the Friday performance was cancelled and just the play was presented. However, those taking advantage of the complete package Saturday evening not only received their money's worth but also took part in an HHS first.

Band on the Run

Any band student will tell you that there is a whole lot more to being in band than playing an instrument and putting on a concert every once in a while. Band activities do not occur just during the school year--being a band member is a year-round commitment.

The first day of school brought director John Heath back from a year's leave of absence. Through his fearless leadership the band presented three concerts, marched in several parades, performed five half-time shows (including their participation in University of Illinois' Band Day where they performed with the Marching Illini), captured a first division rating at the annual IHSA concert band contest...and somehow still found the time to raise enough money for their trip to Florida in June.

It has become a tradition that every four years the band takes a major trip and 1987 was a "trip year" for the band. They had the honor of performing at Disney World's Epcot Center on June 8. Even though the trip required many hours of hard work, there was plenty of time for band members to soak up some sun.

Being in the band does have its rewards.

Noteably, the HHS music department completed another successful year. The state music contest in March allowed members of the Treble Choir, Concert Choir, and Swing Choir to display their talents. The HHS Swing Choir came home with a first superior after performing their pop and showtime choreographed music, and the Treble Choir and Concert Choir both received a second for their sacred and light-hearted music.

The choral groups were not the only ones that were recognized, there were also individuals receiving prestigious awards. After auditioning, Junior Kevin Kintz and Senior Carol Gnojewski were chosen to be 2 of the 24 people selected for the District Jazz Choir. Those chosen for District Concert Choir were Senior Lisa Schwarz and Junior Kevin Kintz. At the solo and ensemble contest held April 25, Carol Gnojewski received a first for her solo and the following received seconds, Jennifer Keck, Kelly Anglin, Jeanette Keck, and Gretchen Schulze. Of the 14 total ensembles performed, 10 received a first, 3 received a second, and 1 received a third place rating.

Is This Love?

Yes, a "date" may only be a piece of dried fruit or a day of the month, but there are romantics at HHS who believe that a "date" is more meaningful than that. "Spending time with someone you want to know better," or, "Going out with a person--when you're not just friends," were common responses taken from a survey of 200 HHS students. Some students have even stated that they are in love, and for a few it isn't for the first time.

Couples have exchanged valuable gifts that range from each others' love, roses, clothes, and jewelry to such odd items as strawberries, a fish tank, an afghan, and a giant paper flower. These gifts are keepsakes of the good times a couple can share. Teens in love--it may be a risky business, but it can be fun while it lasts.

freeze FRAME

When it comes time to look back on our high school days, most of us will remember the outstanding points of prom, homecoming, and the variety of sports. But what about the day-to-day things we do without even thinking, that we would otherwise forget about?

Bart Hienz, senior, says that the student parking lot is just a "daily obstacle that you have to get used to."

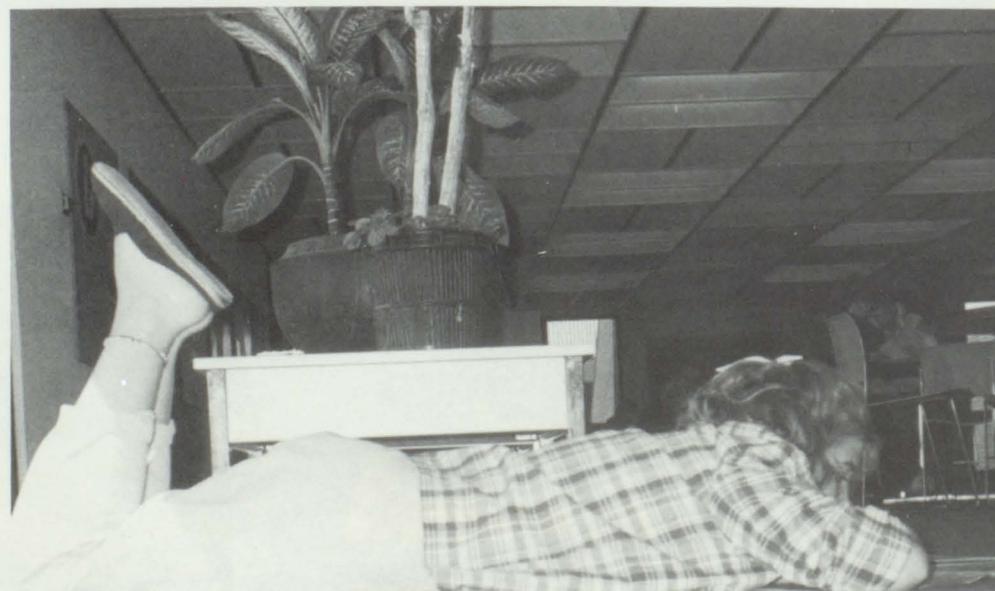

Angie Rieke, senior, hopes to forget all the pushing and shoving through the locker stalls between classes. "It's an everyday ritual that seems unforgettable," she sighs.

Remember all those days you spent in study hall, chatting with friends, cramming for an exam you had the next hour, or just sitting there, bored out of your mind? What about the times you spent standing in the lunch line, hoping you would have enough time to eat your food once you get it? How about the daily warm-ups you had to do in P.E.? What about coming to school in the morning and conversing with your friends before classes start?

Will you remember any of these everyday routines once your high school days are over? No, probably not.

Help for the Homeless

The Highland Animal Shelter officially opened its doors in October of 1986, though it had been operating since July. The shelter provides care for lost pets and strays indefinitely. It is run by volunteers who come twice a day to feed, clean, and exercise the animals. Four of these volunteers are students here at HHS. Seniors Paige Meyer and Sarah McCall got involved because of their interest in veterinary medicine. Sophomores Tonia Dillow and Cindy Butler volunteered just for the fun of it. "I just like the animals," says Tonia.

These students, along with the many other volunteers work hard to provide a service which Highland has needed for some time. Thanks to the Highland Animal Shelter, countless pets have been reunited with their owners, and an equal amount of strays have found new homes.

Pet Pourri

From dogs and cats, to rabbits and hamsters, to fish, birds, and guinea pigs, pets can be found in the homes of most HHS students. Even most of those who do not have a pet would like one-- whether it be a monkey, a puppy, or a piranha named Paisley.

Out of about 150 students that were surveyed, 117 (83%) have pets. Among the remaining petless people, only 2 replied that they would not like to have any kind of pet. The most desired type of pet was a dog. Monkeys came in second, with fish and cats tied for third.

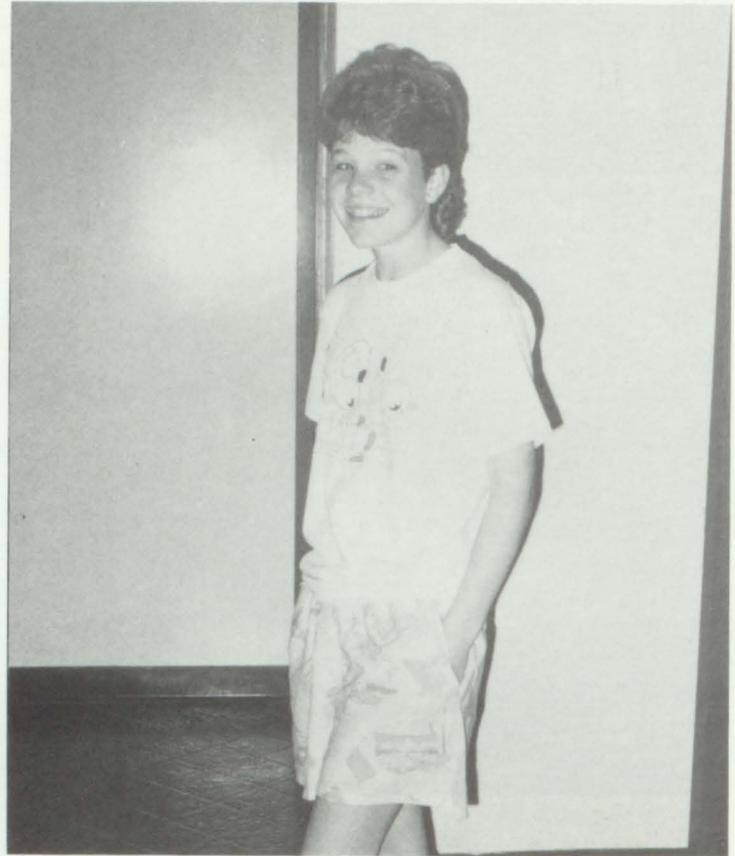

Seventy-seven percent of the students with pets own a dog, while only 34% own a cat. Fifty-three percent of these students have two or more pets, and the remaining 47% have only one. Along with pet ownership comes the responsibility of taking care of it. Believe it or not, 68% of HHS's pet owners help care for their pet. Eighteen percent of these do it all themselves.

Most of these pets are almost as much a part of the family as the student. Thirty-two percent have been around for 5-10 years, and 47% for 1-5 years.

Tans & Jams

Surfer Craze at HHS

A tropical breeze blew through Highland High School's halls this year as many students "caught the wave" of the sun-n-fun look. Bronzed students in wild printed outfits began appearing frequently around the school premises.

Jams(long, bright-colored, patterned shorts) helped mold the craze. P.E. classes gave students a chance to wear these fashions while school was in session.

Tans appeared earlier than normal thanks to the availability of area tanning spas. Some may call this cheating, but it poses as a fantastic opportunity to start adding a healthy-looking glow to winter-white skin.

Highland may not have palm trees or a tropical climate, but that doesn't mean students can't look like they have just come from the beach.

Highland High School's top students were recognized by those who attended the Honors Convocation and Awards Ceremony held in the commons. The assembly flashed a spotlight on students excelling in scholarship, leadership, and sports.

Awards presented included Dee Boulanger award-Annie Lutostanski, Danforth Foundation "I Dare You"-Rich Jacober and Tina Frey, National Merit Commended Students-Jeff Gall and Susan Hanna, Math Achievement-Darrell Ridens, Model United Nations-David Nelson and Barb Thole, George Bickline Scholarship-Bill Isbrecht, VFW Auxiliary Award-Mike Brandt, Woodmen of the World American History-Lori Steiner.

Cams, scoops, spoilers, shifters, timing chains, manifolds--it may sound like a foreign language to non-car owners, but put all of them together and the results can be outrageous. Additional luxury items can put the "pride" into a once average-looking automobile.

The car scene at HHS is an important one, where on occasion the residents catch a glimpse of a "parade" planned by the HB(Highland Bashers)--a group of car owners who put their vehicles on display for anyone who may be driving past. They prove that the reasons for owning a car exceed the need for just getting from place to place.

What You See Is What You Get

Some people will do anything to be pictured in the yearbook. No, not true. These people have a knack at being "out of the ordinary," and are courageous enough to pose for the public eye.

Oddities such as these can't exactly be labeled as talents, yet they consist of some act no one else has thought of or is able to mimic. So, welcome to Highland High School's personal display of bizarre talents--or shall we say, welcome to our own Little Shop of Horrors?

Simply the Facts

Moore on Council

Signs boasting, "Elect Steve Moore" began sprouting up around town several weeks before April 7. The HHS social studies teacher was vying for one of two positions open on the Highland city Council.

Apparently the signs and his political views agreed with the voters as they elected him to the office with over 760 votes, more than any of the 3 other candidates received. Mr. Moore decided to run because he, "was dissatisfied with the current city government." His duties began on May 4 and he will serve a 4 year term.

Mr. Moore is also active as a volunteer fireman, and is a member of both the VFW and the American Legion.

When asked of his future political plans, Mr. Moore said he just wanted to, "survive 4 years as councilman." No rolling green lawn or big white house for him.

Mini skirts became the rage at HHS, although it angered many males that girls were allowed to wear skirts when they weren't allowed to wear shorts.

Junior Angie Mudd sports a fashionable denim skirt and jacket.

HHS has the Blues

Certainly an unsung hero of many HHS students is Levi Strauss. Today everything from jackets to shoes is made of denim. Skirts, almost touching the ankle or 8 inches above the knee have become popular attire for girls. Many students also liked the casual look of jean jackets. Other items made of this sturdy material are purses, hair bows, and other accessories.

Whether or not jeans are stone washed, pre-washed, shrink-to-fit, button-fly, black, gray, white, frosted, or just plain old traditional blue you can never go wrong wearing jeans at HHS.

Sesquicentennial Celebration

The community of Highland celebrated its 150th anniversary August 3-16 with numerous events and activities. In preparation for the Sesquicentennial, the year's events included a Halloween Costume Party held in the old Schott's Brewery, the Miss Highland Sesquicentennial Queen Pageant, the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast, a tour of Wick's Organ company by Swiss dignitaries, and other special banquets and programs.

Eight Highland girls participated in the Miss Highland Pageant, including HHS seniors Catherine Gundlach, Chris Hadsall, and Tanis Wildhaber. HHS graduate Lauren Campbell was chosen as Miss Highland. Tanis Wildhaber also designed the Sesquicentennial Association's official logo.

The four-day event included various bands, singers, and dancers, a Swim Party for teens, the Hot Air Balloon Race, an Antique Auto Show and an Antique Tractor Pull, the Historical Society's Thrashing Show, Civil War Drills and Battle Renactment, the burial of a time capsule with fireworks ending the celebration.

Simply the Facts

The Five Day Week

Truck and tractor day, free bookmark day, and eating a different, favorite, foreign meal each day are just a few of the many promotions done during the school year. On these special days, clubs promote their organizations by following a specific theme. However, there are many other special days during the year. Even students' birthdays are recognized on the daily announcements.

Other special days include Valentine's Day, where the Student Council sells red, pink, or white valentines; St. Patrick's Day, where the halls of HHS are filled with green; and of course Halloween, where fairy grandmothers and bunny rabbits have been known to attend classes. In addition to these, Teacher Appreciation Day, Secretaries Day, and Daisy Day also help to break up the routine five day week.

Pumping Iron

"Come out and see Highland's strongest student athletes at Lift-A-Thon '87"--that was the announcement promoting the first annual Lift-A-Thon co-sponsored by the weight-lifting club and the Booster Club.

Sponsors were recruited by the first year weight-lifting club and a per pound basis with proceeds being divided between the weight-lifting club and the Booster Club. The participants performed bench presses, dead lifts, leg presses, and squatts.

Those pumping the most iron were Dawn Wright, winning the top overall girls performer; Billy Greenwald, winning the boys freshman/sophomore title; David Ford, winning the top prize in the Varsity Division; and Scott Berry, winning the title of lifting the overall most weight by bench pressing 300 lbs, dead lifting 360 lbs, and squatting 525 lbs.

Right Scott Berry squatts 525 lbs. at lift-a-thon '87; this along with his other performances enabled him to win the title of lifting the overall most weight.

Almost Homemade

Sack lunches have become an uncommon sight during the lunch periods at HHS. Since the cafeteria has expanded itself and created "food bars," a variety of cuisine can now be sampled throughout the week.

The menu varies daily, Monday's mexican bar allows students to begin the week with a spice for life--burritos, tacos, taco salads, and nachos are all available. The deli bar on Tuesday and Thursday, features a variety of meats and cheeses made to order. For those watching their weight, the ideal meal is Wednesday's salad bar, where students can prepare a salad with just the right amount of everything. A hot potato tops off the week on Friday, with a choice of toppings, from broccoli, to bacon, to cheese.

Although the "food bars" are favorites of many students, the traditional cafeteria lunches are still available to HHS students.

Scholastic Competitions

Scholar Bowl

Scholar Bowl, run by Barb Kay and Valerie Riter, was a new competition team this year at HHS. They competed against Breese Central, Triad, Alton, and in the Breese Central Tournament and the Regional Tournament. The members were chosen by faculty recommendation and by taking a test.

Below Why are these two men wearing the same shoes?

Solely Shoes

Let's take a look at HHS from a different angle--the ground. From the floor there's only one thing that distinguishes one person from another--their shoes. Shoes have become much more than just something to protect one's feet; they have become a fashion statement. After all, shoes are as much a part of one's appearance as a shirt, sweater, or even hairstyle.

Granted, Highland has never been known as a fashion capitol. Even so, on any given day one can see at least five different types of shoes. New on the scene are silver flats and "granny boots." Silver flats are just that--metallic silver colored shoes. Granny boots come in a variety of styles, but the basic shape is the same. They are short boots with a thin heel about two inches tall. The laces run from the toe to the ankle like the shoes Grandmother wore when she was a little girl; hence the name. In addition to these trend-setting styles are the classic pump, the cowboy boot, and the ever-dependable tennis shoe. From high tops to unlaced Keds, these shoes always have been, and probably always will be, the dominating style of footwear at HHS.

More Than Meets

There is more to HHS than meets the eye. In addition to classrooms, locker stalls, and every other place that students are found, there are those places that students never get to see. These are places that are off limits to all, or restricted for use by just a privileged few. Whatever the case may be, there is a certain mystery that surrounds them.

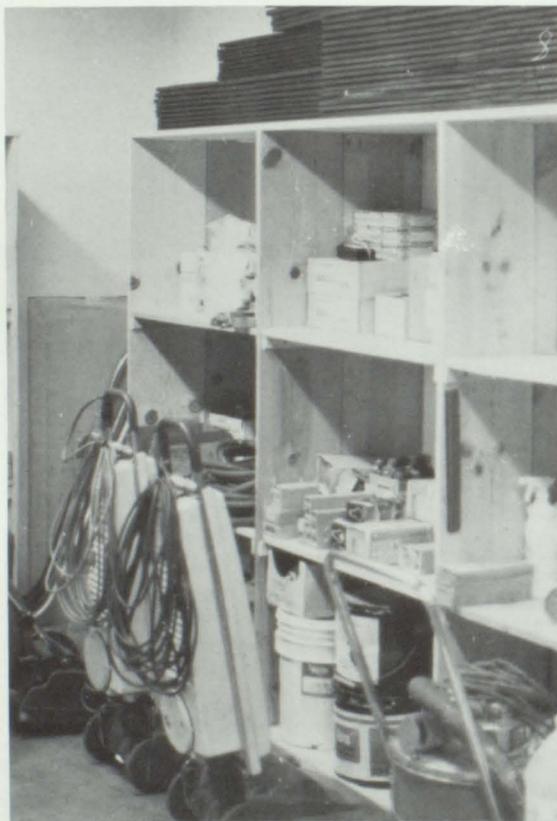

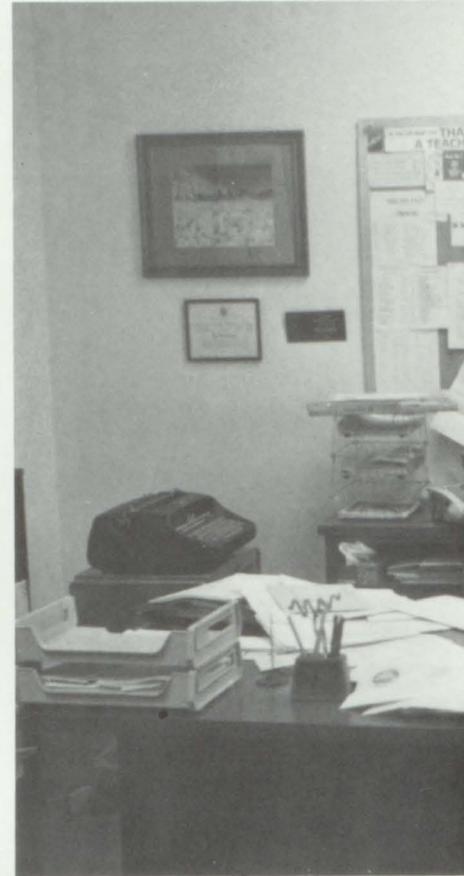

Take for instance the cafeteria. What really goes on back there? Do they cook our food in giant ovens or in a black cauldron over an open fire? In addition to the cafeteria, the darkroom, the t.v. studio, the janitor's rooms, and the roof fall into this category.

Besides all of the places that students do and do not get to see, there is one place that most students don't want to see--Mr. Singleton's office. Although students could be sent there for anything from a pat on the back to a three day vacation, how many have actually come out with a medal?

Not Just for Fun

One part of life at HHS that most people do not notice much is the service projects carried out by various organizations and individuals. Every year in March, FMCC holds its annual blood drive. This year they collected 88 pints of blood for the Red Cross. FFA has set up and repaired Highland's Christmas decorations for many years now. In order to keep their charter, the National Honor Society is required to do a service project every year. This year they held a Bowl-A-Thon which raised $650 for the Dream Factory. Something new this year was the Guatemalan bracelets that the Spanish III and IV classes sold. Proceeds went to help the starving Guatemalans.

Senior Gary Crosby and Juniors Bill Long and Kip Gilomen frequently do volunteer work for the Historical society. They help clean, paint, and decorate local landmarks such as Kaeser Park and the Latzer Homestead. As Kip Gilomen puts it, "We're the blue collar workers. We do the dirty work."

"Are my pictures in yet?" "Is there really a deadline tomorrow?" and "I didn't do it." were all common phrases heard throughout the nine month ordeal of putting HHS's yearbook, the Iris, together. Twenty-five students comprised the 1987 yearbook staff and with only 6 returning staffers first semester began with the basics.

Layout design, photography, and copy writing were beginning skills that students had to learn. But first, staff members had to sell ads to area merchants to finance the production of the yearbook. Many students find selling ads the least desirable of all jobs they had to do. Senior staff member Paize Mever commented, "It's a pain. It's time consuming and I got stuck with a business nobody had ever heard of that turned out to be a horse farm."

Before the beginning of second semester, staff members were assigned to the section that they would be responsible for completing by the end of the year.

Print style, deciding on a theme that fit with the year at hand, and layout designs and ideas were all major obstacles that students had to overcome. Another obstacle facing new and old staff members alike was the fact that the 1987 yearbook would be the first ever on computer. Seniors Carol Gnojewski and Beth Wilke spent many hours typing up copy on the computer. Yearbook advisor Mr. Dale Ott said putting the yearbook on computer for the first time, "was quite an experience!"

Producing a yearbook takes many hours of writing, designing, and finalizing, but most staffers would agree that the final product is well worth all that time and effort.

Countdown to Summer 87

Graduation ceremonies on May 29 united a group of students that had only been a class for one short year. The HHS senior class combined their talents and knowledge to help one another grow to become the unique graduation class of 1987. The 190 members filed into the gym to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" played by the Band. Grady Jim Robinson, a professional motivational speaker, addressed the graduates. Mr. Robinson had previously spoken to some HHS students at the Leadership Lock-In. These final days of high school for the class of 1987 brought back many memories of life at HHS. Students exchanged name cards, signed memory books, attended a senior class picnic, participated in special baccalaureate services at the Evangelical United Church of Christ on May 27, and shared a few more good times before going their separate directions.
