Not An Ordinary Year

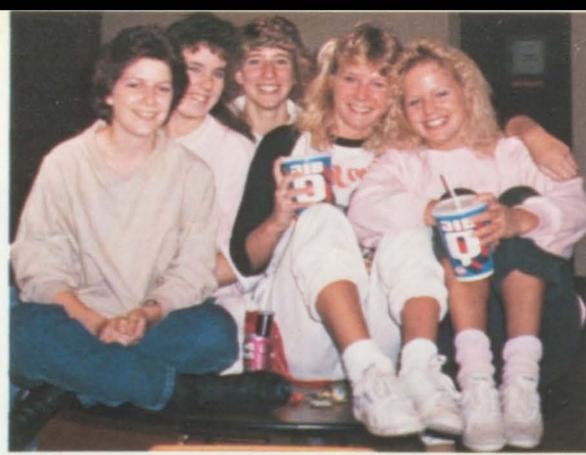

Will there be a sports program? A music program? An arts program? It was a year beginning with concerns and hope for a referendum that had to pass.

Other questions also had to be answered.

Can I make it through another year? Will I be accepted by the college of my choice? How well will I do on the ACT? Can I pass my driving test? Will I fit into high school?

These were the issues that brought us together and united us in our efforts.

Stick with us and we'll tell you a story about a special school year and a special group of people who showed they were stuck on HHS.

Some friends take a break from decorating the commons for Homecoming.

Leaving Our Marks

While the '87-'88 school year began as so many others before it, it didn't stay that way for long. It soon became a year marked by the new and the different.

A new speech team gained recognition in its first season, new screens were added to the tennis courts, a new soccer board was dedicated, and new basketball backboards were purchased. The volleyball team sported new uniforms, the Weight Club entered into competitions, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes officially organized, and the boys basketball team just couldn't stop winning. The girls softball team played on new fields, prom began at 9 p.m. to encourage pre-prom dinners instead of the usual after prom dinners, and the Art Club added colorful murals to the gym.

Stuck on HHS

There was a movement afoot. For the first time in a long time, we wanted to show our loyalties. It became a time to pull together as a school and as a community to tell the world how we value what we have.

Whether it was yelling at pep rallies, talking with friends or working for a referendum, we were swept into the spirit of the year. We were HHS.

Waiting for the serve that will clinch the game, the freshman volleyball team eyes the senior team determinedly.

Once Upon A Time...

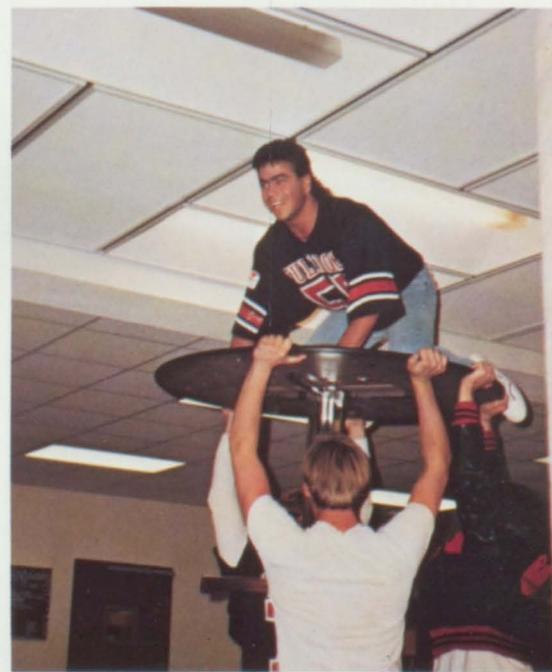

there was a huge brown castle which was actually a school. Many intelligent princes and princesses came from miles around to attend Ye Olde School.

One day the supreme ruler, Sir Frederick the Singleton, proclaimed that a ball was to be held on Saturday, the twenty-fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and eighty-seven, with its major purpose to be the crowning of a new King and Queen. The ball was to involve all of the inhabitants of the castle, both male and female.

Sir Frederick The Singleton set aside the preceding week for festivities and celebrations leading up to that "One Enchanted Evening." Highland High School became a place where men looked for Cinderella's slipper, and once found, the dainty, little foot of it's owner also had to be located. Two more events that took place were the poisoned apple and chariot races. Then, in order to avoid the midnight curfew which was bestowed on all Cinderellas and Cinderfellas present, the midnight pumpkin pie was hurriedly eaten.

Throughout this Enchanted Week a struggle had been taking place to prove in the end, who would be crowned as Knights of the Rectangular Table in the Commons. The sophomores were victorious and became the 1987 Tug-O'War Champions.

Ye Old High School could hardly be recognized because of the decorations of castles and dragons lining the walls. A Powderpuff Volleyball game and dance closed the week's in school festivities.

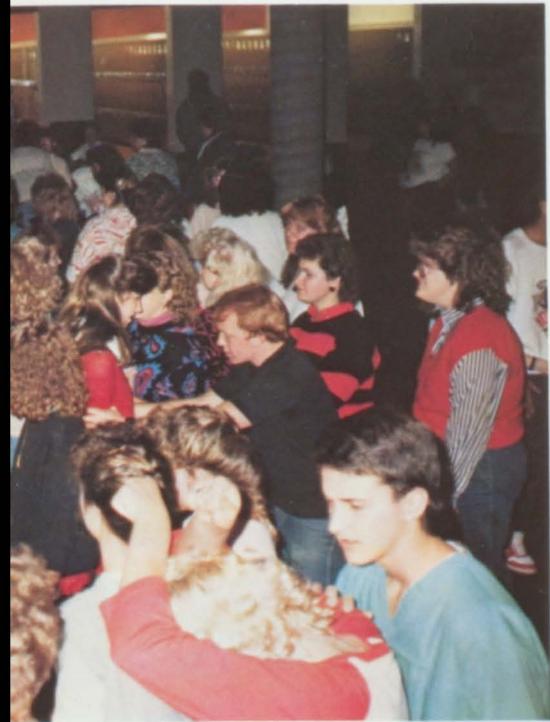

Attempting to keep his balance on the slanted table, senior Scott Berry leads HHS students in a cheer.

Taking a break from the grueling task of playing disk jockey, Mr. Moore and Mr. Hyre decide what song to play next for the Homecoming dance.

"Getting down" to beat of the music, these dance goers also managed to socialize with their friends.

Battling for the title of "Knights", the sophomores and juniors tug mercilessly at the rope during the Tug o' War championships.

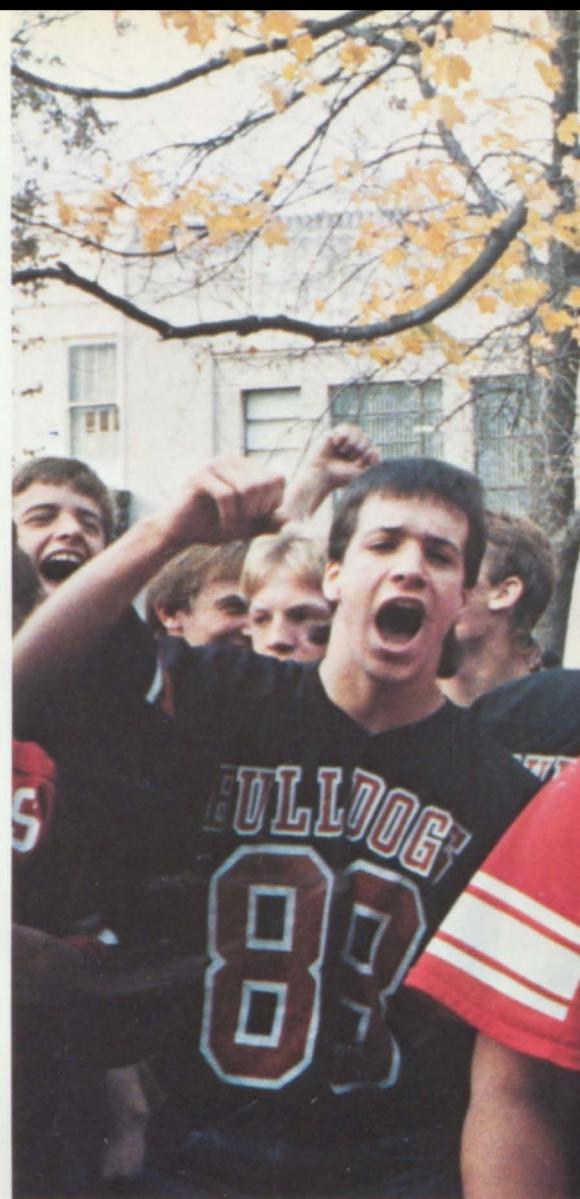

While looking up to make sure he's ahead, senior Ron Douglas also takes a breath before diving back into his pie during the pumpkin pie eating contest

Homecoming Week 1987 didn't wholly consist of games and merry-making. A lot of time and hard work was put into making it a memorable event.

For the first time in many years a parade wound its way through the village streets. Pupils at the castle who were involved in athletics and clubs banded together and marched to show the community how much they loved their schools.

And then, that same night, the infamous tournament contenders battled it out on the field. But to no avail The Highland High School Bulldog football team was defeated.

Screaming their enthusiasm, these seniors throw themselves into all the activities during Homecoming because they know it will be one of their last chances to show high school spirit.

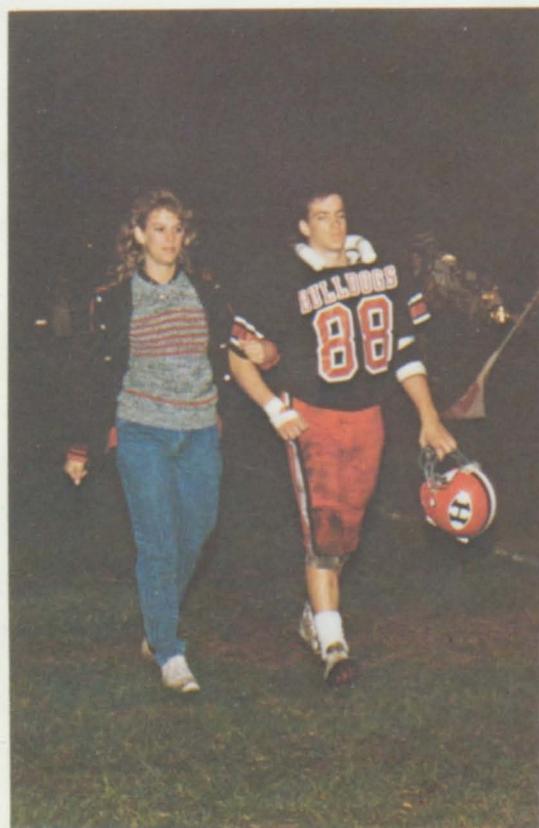

Proudly representing Highland High's Model U.N. Club, Barb Hosto marches down Broadway in the Homecoming parade.

Using their skills to represent themselves in the Homecoming/Referendum Parade, the Ag. Class representatives ride on the float they constructed.

Getting psyched for the evening's football game against Jerseyville, members of the Bulldog Football Team cheer loudly during the pep rally on the square.

Calmly holding the net as the rest of the HHS volleyball team attempts to have a short game, senior Angie Mudd marches dutifully in the parade.

Walking the length of the football field at half-time of the Homecoming football game, Kyle Freeman and Amy Langhauser, along with 40 other students, show their support toward HHS by being part of the 1987/88 Homecoming court.

Dusk had long since settled upon the village of Highland. Lights illuminated Ye Olde School as attendants at the grand ball walked formally toward the arena in which the evening's gaities would take place.

Sir Frederick the Singleton, along with the other supreme rulers of the castle, scanned the ever-growing audience searching for any signs of disorganization. All at once, a quiet but sweet melody resounded off the great walls of the arena. The retiring King and Queen began their walk to the throne. His majesty Craig Sands firmly gripped Queen Cheri Portell's arm as she majestically bowed to her loyal subjects.

Sir Lanxon and Madame Walgren began announcing each individual of the royal court. Finally, after all introductions were made, the time had come.

A silence fell upon the audience as a loud and victorious melody began playing. At last, the announcement was made. Keith Singleton and Missy Myatt accepted their new titles graciously while the subjects broke into applause and the court danced.

Taking their final walk as King and Queen, Craig Sands and Cheri Portell head toward the throne where a new set of royalty will soon be crowned.

Preparing for their walk back toward the throne, Wendy Bellm and Jon Boulanger exchange glances.

While gracefully bowing before the audience, Amy Johnson is supported by her escort, Brad Bircher.

Spanish students Amiee Schwarz and Cyndi Kuhl spent part of their summer vacation seeing the sites in Mexico.

Stuck in the Sun

Webster's dictionary defines summer as "the season of the year in a region in which the sun shines most directly; the warmest period of the year." It also defines vacation as a "period of rest from work; a holiday."

So it only seems right that our break from school would consist of a non-stop fiesta of toasting in the sun. Right? Many HHS students who have summer jobs disagree, however. But somewhere between their work schedules, everyone seems to get in their fair share of the fun.

When students were asked what they liked best about summer vacation, an overwhelming number agreed that it was not having to get up and go to school. Kim Klaus, Cyndi Kuhl, Terrie Schneider, and Andrea VonHatten all added, "There's more time to chase guys." "It's fun because they're wearing less and they're tan."

It seems to be that the same stands true for the guys. "It's easier to talk to girls in the summer. They seem to be more relaxed and have less on their minds," stated senior Jarrod Zajac.

So while old friendships and romances strengthened, new ones were also made. With days being a little less busy, friends saw more of each other and casually took for granted that they (with the exception of the seniors) would soon be back--stuck in school.

Changes Dominate Fall Play

The two nights of November 6 and 7, the multipurpose room was modified into an attic room, circa WW II. Here two Jewish families hid from the persecutions of the Nazi armies and their leader Hitler. In this rather somber atmosphere, the story of "The Diary of Anne Frank" unfolded, providing a change of pace from HHS's usual lighter fall drama productions.

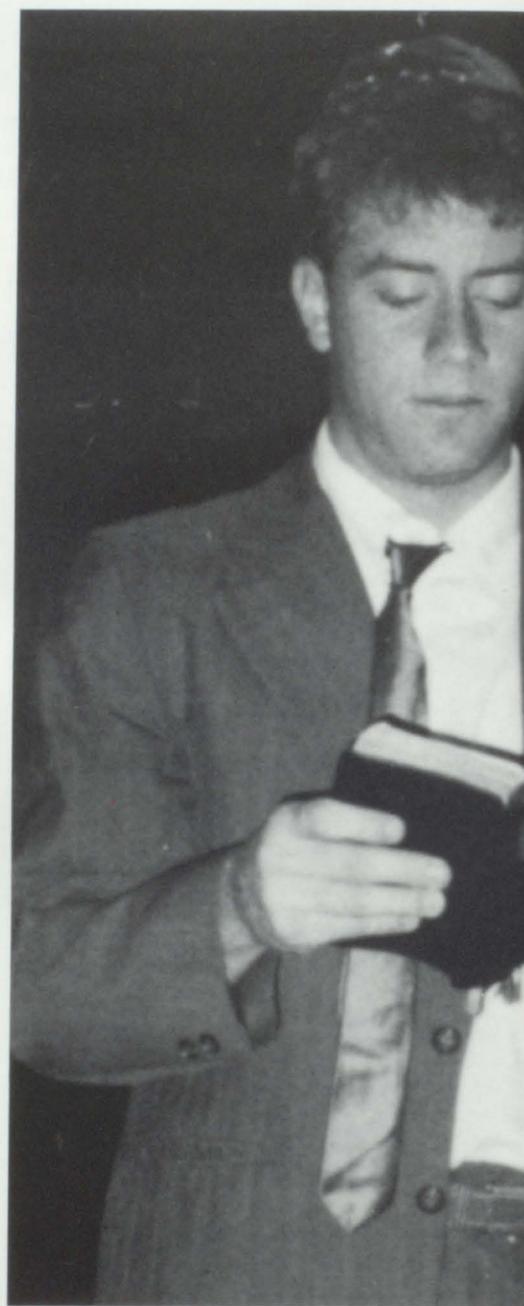

In addition to its seriousness, the play was performed in the three-quarter round and most actors were on stage throughout the performance.

According to Missy Myatt, who played the leading role of Anne Frank, "This production was different from any other I've ever been in. We were always in view of the audience; whether we had lines or not, we had to stay in character."

Senior Lori Steiner who has also been in other HHS dramas, commented, "Performing 'The Diary of Anne Frank' was different from the last year's production because it was more serious, and made us all work harder."

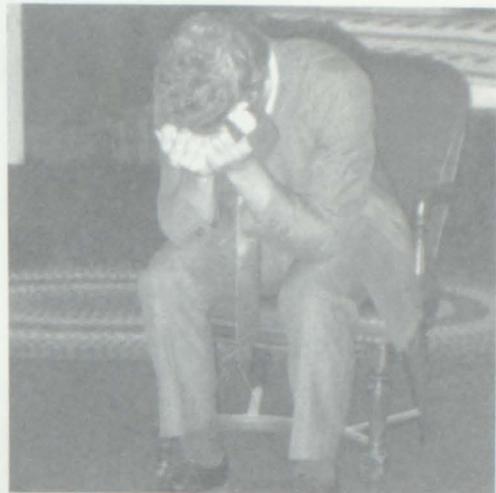

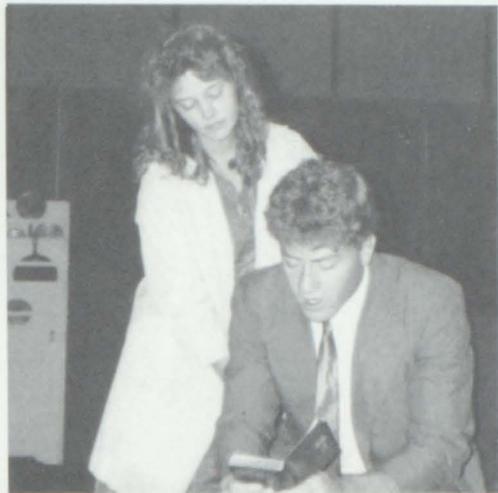

In the eyes of the director Mrs. Peggy Oulvey and her student director, David Dressel, the sincere dedication of the cast led to a smooth finish of the off, off-Broadway play, "The Diary of Anne Frank".

Teachers, Students --An Unbeatable Team

Every now and then we all need someone to lean on. Graciously enough, the faculty at HHS gives us the opportunity to do so. Teachers often go beyond the call of duty to help students grow socially as well as scholastically. They care about their students and don't mind taking time out of their schedules to spend a few extra minutes with them. Students recognize the time and effort they put forth to help.

Clubs could not function without the determination of their advisers. Miss Barbara Kay of the social studies department distributes her time between Model U.N. and the Scholar Bowl team. Miss Kay took Model U.N. members to several mock U.N. sessions. She was joined by Mrs. Valerie Kimmle, another driving force behind the Scholar Bowl team, who gave up a great deal of her time as well.

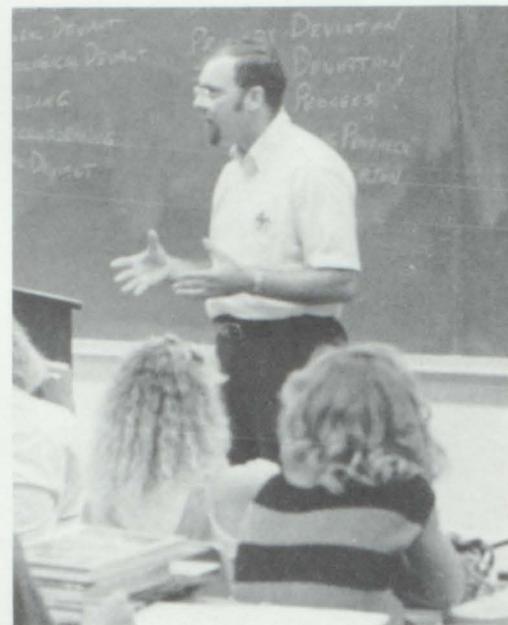

Mr. John Hester was constantly taking the JETS Club to various math competitions, usually held on Saturdays. He helped the team reach the ultimate goal of going to state competition.

Mr. Pete Tucker also contributed much time to his shop class projects. He spent his Saturdays working on projects with students.

Thanks to Mr. Frank Prchal the Bulldogs had a field to play football on. He took care of the turf, making sure the grass grew. Mr. Heath and Mr. Querio worked together to pull off a spectacular spring musical.

These teachers are but a few of many without whose interest and dedication, many organizations and programs would cease to exist.

Gaining Experience

Work plays a role in the lives of many students at HHS.

Some students have jobs that are similar to their interests. Junior J.R. Stever likes movies and videos. That's why he chose to get a job at Spot-Lite Video.

Other students find jobs to get experience. Junior Kimi Rosenthal, who works at Rosenthal Optometric Associates, commented, "If you're doing something that you want to do later, then you gain experience."

For still others, the main reason they work is for money. Some of the more popular places to work are McDonald's, Bonanza, and Artex. Fast food restaurants aren't always the most desirable places to choose to work; however, they do offer benefits such as new friendships and flexible working hours.

BELOW Working at McDonald's, junior Kim Pisaneschi spends most of her working hours preparing food.

Up N Downs

Getting flowers, balloons, a hug, an award, a good grade, a letter from a long lost friend, winning a game, or simply a pat on the back, can lift anyone's spirits. Senior Chris Gabbert can relate to such highs. She received 36 balloons from her friends on her 18th birthday. Enthusiasm can be contagious.

When HHS won the MVC tournament, fans went wild with excitement. Their spirit helped shape the atmosphere of the year for a long time. Receiving bad news, wrecking a car, flunking a big assignment, fighting with a friend, finding out that there is no money left in the wallet or purse, or breaking a limb on the body can put a damper on anyone's day. Seniors Missy Myatt and Jackie Debatin had this feeling when Missy broke her arm during cheerleading and Jackie broke her leg at home. Likewise, group spirit tumbled when the Bulldogs lost to the Kahoks during the championship game.

All people live on the roller coaster of life. On some days they float on a cloud, while on others they feel like they belong in the doghouse. Dealing with all of these ups and downs is something everyone faces now and then. But if responsibility is taken, the rough bumps and the smooth surfaces go hand in hand.

ABOVE Having an upper or lower locker has both advantages and disadvantages as sophomores Junior Malcomb and Chris Schauster find out.

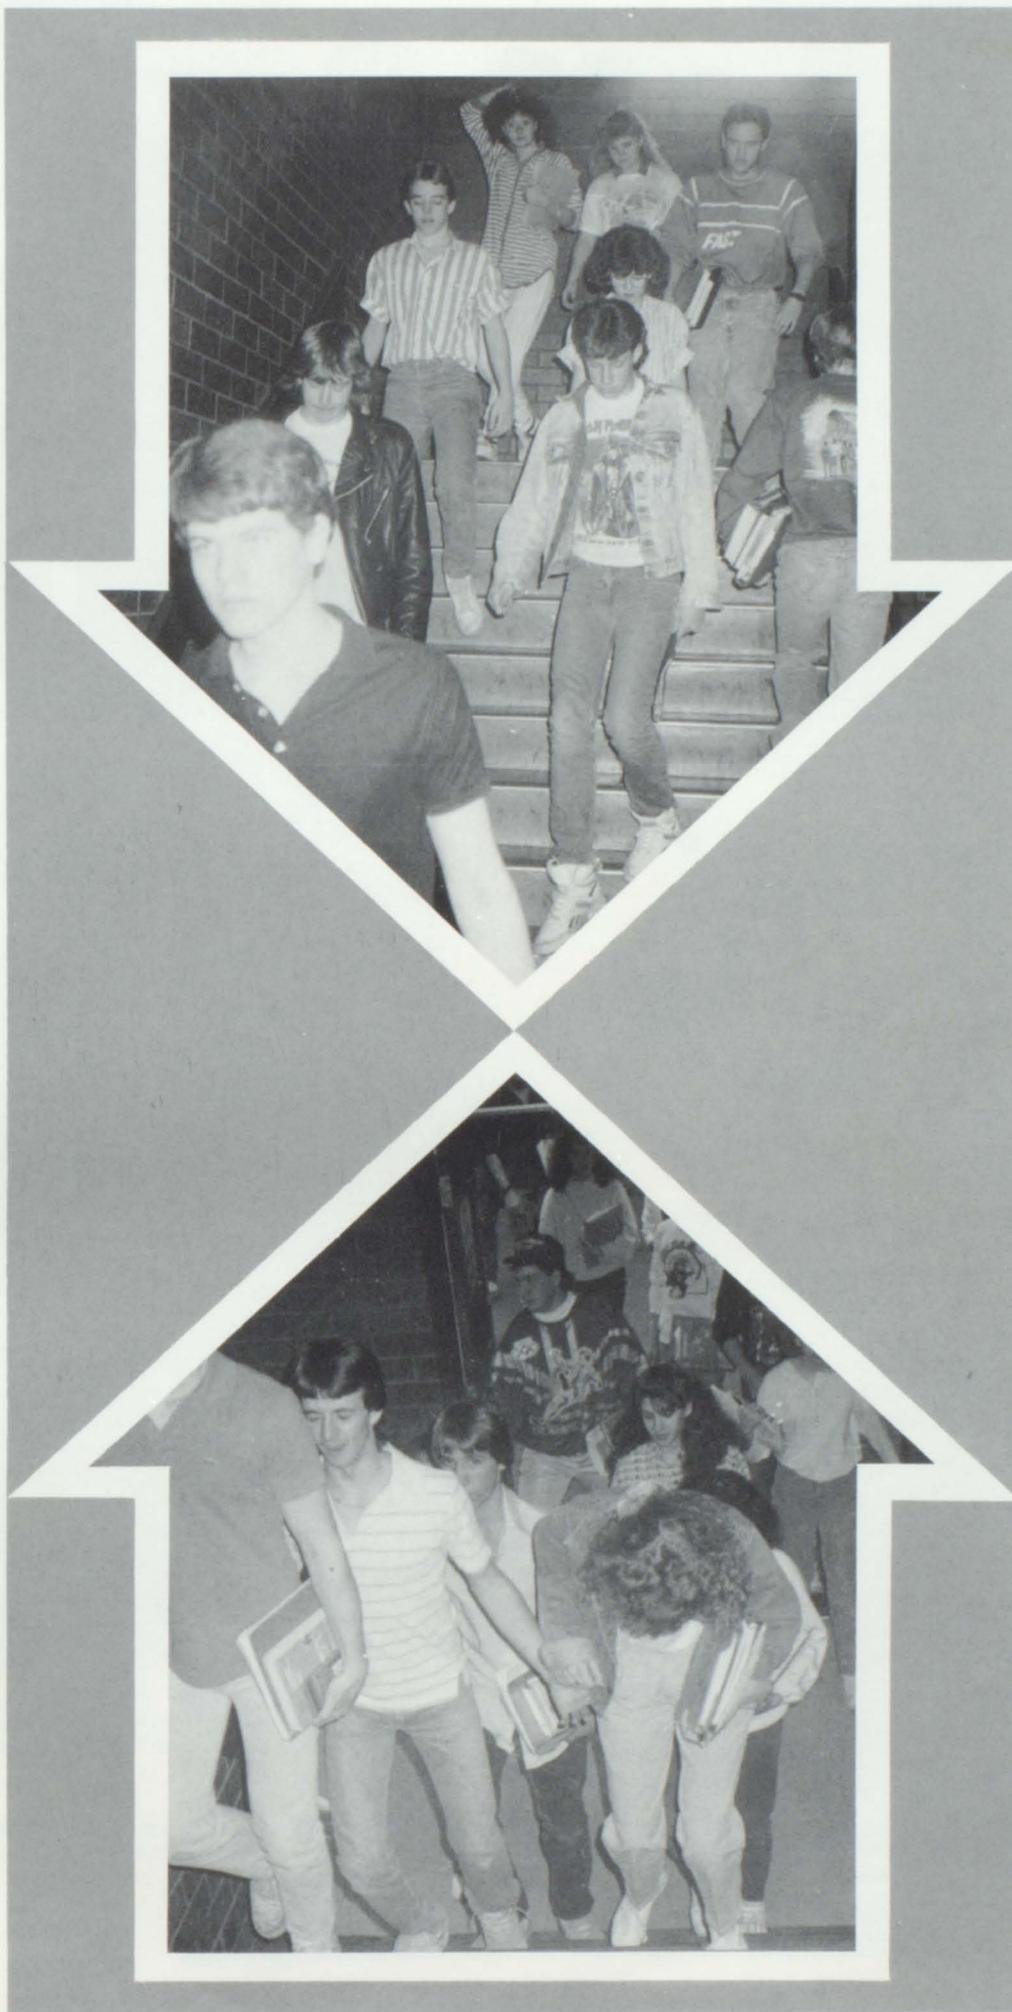

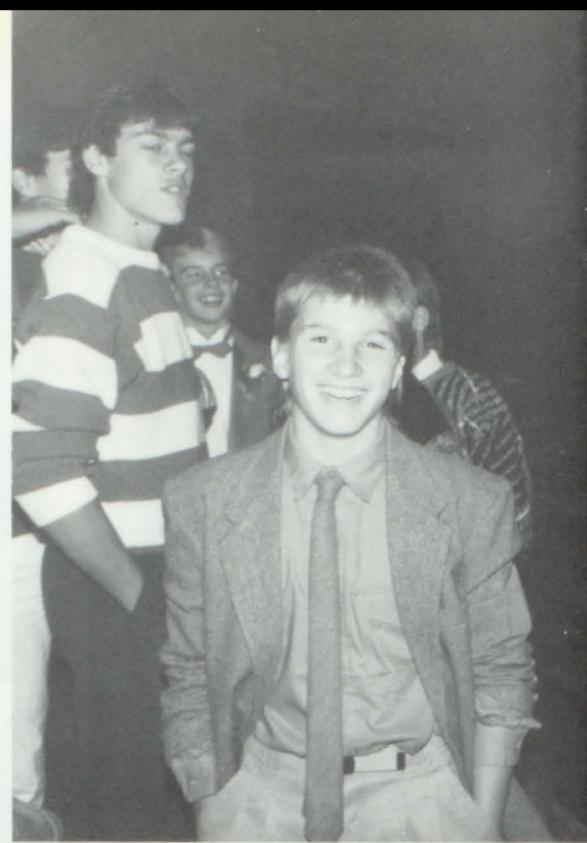

ABOVE Using the elevator is an advantage to injured students, such as Anne Shields who broke her leg over the summer.

RIGHT Realizing that there are only a few minutes until the final bell, students trudge up the stairs to their next class.

The Pride is Back

The Bulldogs not only had a successful season on the court but also brought something back to HHS. The Bleacher Bums, led by a group of Senior guys, poured out in numbers to cheer the Bulldogs on to tough victories.

When the Battlin' Bulldogs went marching into regionals, there was no better luck than to have the games held here. Without having to drive excessive miles to see the team, hordes of bums came out to deliver the message to the opposing team "You gotta be a Bulldog or you gotta go."

All the enthusiasm of the school became not only an asset to the team but to the community and the school. The pride is back and it's going to stay.

PROM "never say good-bye"

Forty dollar tans . . . unique and trendy dresses . . . jams and jeans with top hats and tux jackets . . . and as if that isn't enough, another new touch was added to prom. Instead of having a band perform, a d.j. was hired. Prom-goers had opposing views toward the d.j. Senior Sheila Korte said, "I personally like d.j.'s better than bands because they can play specific songs that you want to hear by the original band." On the other hand, senior John Schleper admitted that he likes bands better. "Bands provide live music, so it has better sound."

Although the d.j. caused a little controversy, April 22, 1988, came off as a huge success. The after prom party, which was held in the gym from 12:00 to 4:00 a.m. provided a live band and lots of prizes and games.

"Never Say Goodbye" proved to be an appropriate theme for the evening. Seniors know that even after graduation they will never be able to say good-bye to friends and most importantly--memories.

Oddities

Lights! Camera! Action! The stage exploded in a splash of colors as the cast of Grease searched frantically for their places to rock 'n roll. This 50's musical contained excitement and creativity that enthralled the crowds on April 14, 15, and 16.

The enthusiastic cast, led by Danielle Schneider as Sandy, and Ryan Chaney as Danny, spent many long hours perfecting their characters' dancing and acting abilities. "It was tough, but we had a lot of fun," stated Daniele Schneider.

Jane Mannion displayed patience and a willingness to let the performers freely express their own acting abilities as she choreographed the musical. John Pagan took charge of the lighting and staging in a professional manner. Brent Augustine augmented the sound as he worked with the intricate sound system.

With a combination of these benevolent people and plenty of support, HHS pulled off another successful production.

Time, Effort--For Big Pay-Off

Every production needs a responsible leader who is willing to donate his time and efforts to produce a successful musical. Grease was no different. It introduced a new leader who had all the qualifications and talent to do so. Mr. Michael Querio, the new chorus director, took on the challenge of making this production respectable both in words and action. He commented, "It was frustrating for the cast members, but the show did not lose any of its bite. It didn't have to be raunchy to be a success." Putting the final touches on the performance became a group effort as the cast worked together as a team.

Among the difficulties in the production was illness which plagued a leading actor. Ryan Chaney (Danny) was unable to complete all the performances. This is where Kevin Kintz realized the responsibility of his role as assistant director. With many hours of memorizing lines and practicing the music, Kevin was able to fill in for Ryan on the Friday night performance.

"It was a lot of work, but it was all worth it for the--experience," Kevin stated.

Finding the Right Beat

Music education celebrated its sesquicentennial during the 1987-88 year. "150 Years of Music in the Schools curriculum provided intellectual, moral, and physical development for the students," commented band director Mr. John Heath.

During the chaotic marching season, Mr. Tim Coleman, a student teacher from Greenville College, assisted Mr. Heath in planning the half-time shows.

With his help and creative ideas, the Highland Marching Bulldogs pulled off yet another successful season.

Continuing with success, the large concert band took their expertise to contest in Centralia. By moving up to the Class AA Division, the band faced harder competition, but they still received the hard-earned Division I rating.

It's Our Forte

The members of the HHS chorus underwent a revitalization during current school year. Mr. Michael Querio was the first male choral director to teach at HHS for a while. He brought a fresh outlook to the vocal music department and added a vitality which proved beneficial for the members.

The choruses sang a variety of music. They added to their repertoire spirituals, love songs, and novelty numbers which even included a syncopated song about a used car salesman. In addition, many of these numbers were performed without the aid of instrumentation.

When asked about his thoughts on the year's choral program, J.R. Stever replied, "It was the only time of the day, if you felt restless, you could turn that energy into something positive. Mr. Querio really made me want to do well."

This also marked the first time the chorus went to contest under a new AA Division. The Treble Choir and Concert Choir received a second rating, and the Swing Choir finished with a third.

Practicing during their lunch hour, the chorus diligently reads their sheet music.

Keeping a syncopated rhythm, Mr. Querio helps the chorus keep time as they sing.

Displaying his versatility, Mr. Querio can also accompany his choruses.

The Treble Choir waits as Mr. Querio explains the next song they will sing.

Appearing in their black and white outfits, the Swing Choir performs for the NHS Parent Night.

The Way You Make Me Feel

Songs describe the way we feel, act, and think about life. When we are happy, sad, bored, or excited, a song can relate to our feelings in a comforting way.

Different kinds of music fit various types of students. Some like to listen to music from the 70's while others listen to up-to-date pop music. "You can dance to it better and sing with your friends--it's fun," stated Teffy Weiss, an adamant admirer of older-styled music. On the other hand, Julie Goldasich said of modern music, "May George Michael and Janet Jackson live on."

People display their talents and interests when they listen to their music. Some sing or pretend to strum a guitar or tap the beat on their legs.

Music is an important part of life in that it can relax us or relieve the pressures of a trying day. Without music, our lives would not be complete.

Measuring Up

Highland High School's math and science departments are notoriously good. The science labs contain much equipment used for research and experimental purposes. Microscopes, sinks, gas and electrical outlets, preserved animals, operating utensils, and much more contribute to this well-developed area.

Both science and math offer a variety of courses for students to choose from. Math classes range from general math, Algebra IA Algebra I and II, geometry, trig. and advanced math, to calculus. Science courses also have a wide range of complexity. Biology I and II, chemistry, physics, and a few standard science classes are available.

No matter who enters Highland High School, there is an appropriate math and science class waiting for them. Students have the opportunity to challenge themselves as much as they desire.

Freshman Lana Widman carries a duck to her biology class for inspection.

Foreign Exchange Students

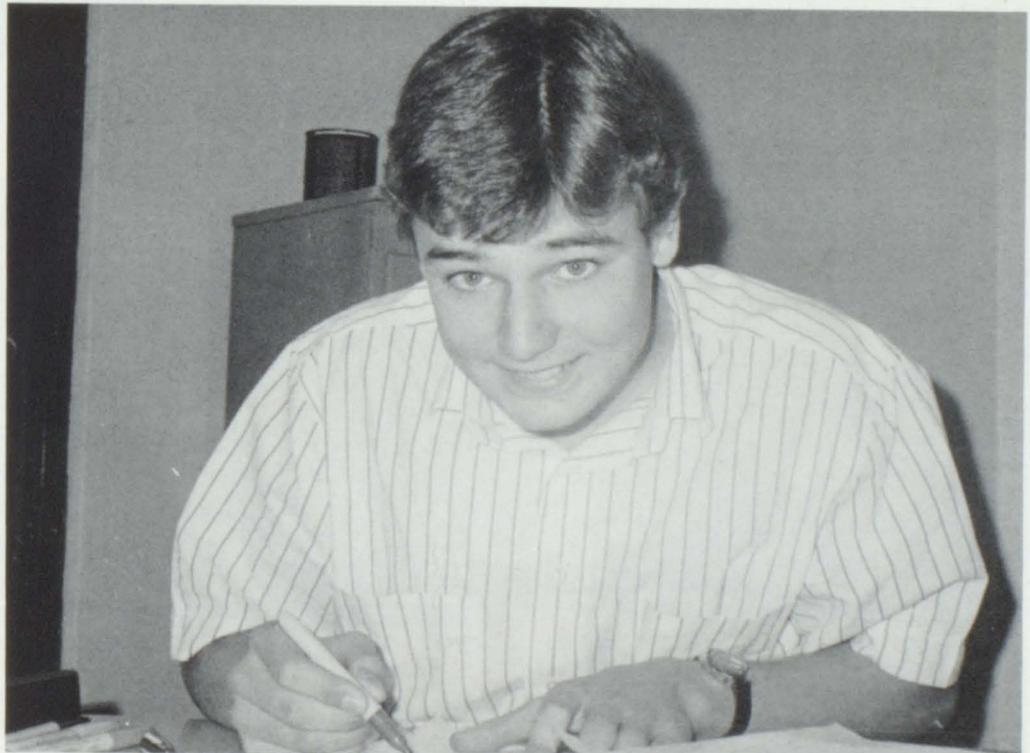

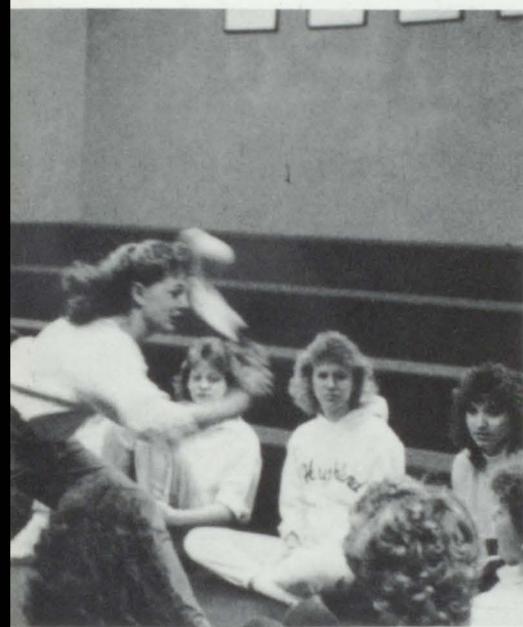

It is not uncommon to hear three or four different languages spoken in a bank, store, or even here at HHS. With the help of foreign exchange students, the cultures and beliefs of other countries are brought to life.

Three students from foreign countries visited HHS during the school year. Angel Diz Rodriguez stayed with the O'Grady family here in Highland. He participated in soccer and displayed his talent and leadership abilities so well that they earned him the Mark Moen-ster Memorial Award. "I've had a lot of fun here and I've made a lot of friends," he commented.

Andreas Firnhaber, "The German boy," stayed with the Beckmans, the Mefferts, and the Frerckers. He displayed excellent academic achievement. Angel and Andreas came to Highland through the Rotary Program.

A third visitor Jose' Paulo Toffano from Brazil stayed with the Wacks. He visited his old friend Brian Wack and made a lot of new friends at Highland.

Semester Specialties

The Art and Home Economics Departments offer a great number of elective classes.

The art courses offered are drawing, design, crafts, water-color, commercial art and independent art. Two art fairs rounded out the program.

For senior Lara Duft and junior Bonnie Case, their special art abilities paid off when it came to the Jr./Sr. Juried Metro-East Art Exhibit held at SIU-E. Lara's water-color painting and Bonnie's Tempera painting were the only pieces of work chosen from HHS. The Home Ec. Department offers classes that teach students daily living skills. These classes include parenting, relationships, child care, living environments, adult living, clothing, foods, and family management.

The foods classes baked and tasted cakes and other recipes. The parenting class held their pre-school again, while adult living students participated in a simulated marriage.

Showing Mrs. Plett a sewing project she has finished, sophomore Debbie Kampwerth waits to find out her grade.

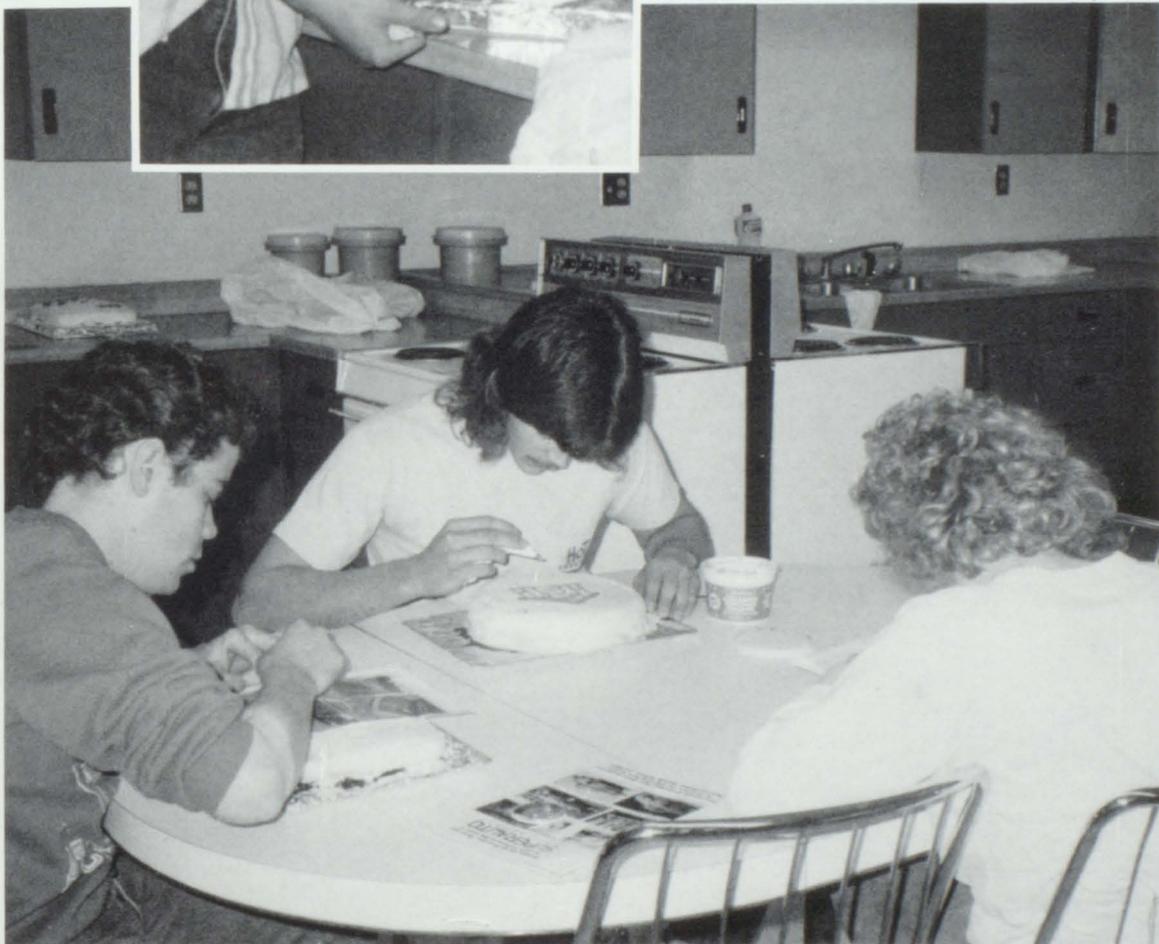

Participating in adult living's simulated wedding, senior Mindy Quitmeyer places a ring on the finger of her "husband" senior Scott Workman.

Socially Speaking

Sometime during their high school career, students will have to make their way to the northeast corner of the building--the social studies department.

Students are required to take American history during their junior year as well as earn another social studies credit to meet graduation requirements.

Miss Kay's geography class gives students the chance to learn about other countries and customs around the world. Freshman Sandi Riffel said, "It's interesting to see Miss Kay dressed in clothing from foreign countries." I Can, another Social Studies class, is designed to give students a positive attitude about themselves and towards others. "It's educating but fun at the same time," commented sophomore Wendy Klaus.

Health is another required class, usually taken at the sophomore level. Students learn about the muscles and bones of the body and are taught first-aid which they demonstrate on their classmates. Students also get the opportunity to listen to several speakers talking about subjects such as life insurance and abortion. Other social studies classes offered to upperclassmen are sociology, economics, & psychology.

Busy at Business

HHS equips its students for the ever-changing world with skills that are desirable for employment. Heading students in the direction of holding productive jobs, business classes help students to cope with the social changes that might arise now and in the future.

Business classes provide a foundation to continue education beyond high school to the adult community.

During their stay at Highland most students find themselves taking at least one business class while students specializing in a business field cram their schedule with computer and other office related classes.

Learning the basics in business starts from simply learning to operate machines to taking shorthand, typing, and accounting.

Students that take advantage of the co-op program make money while learning first hand their job skills.

Senior, Ron Douglas stated, "Taking typing as a sophomore helped me with my term papers and computer classes."

Mrs. Wolfe grades Computer Lit. study guides over her lunch hour.

LEFT Reading the instruction manual, Keith Iberg prepares for his next computer project in Data Processing.

Helping Fay Thiems in typing, Mr. Faulkenburg explains the day's assignment.

Working over her lunch hour, Heather Riggins attempts to make sense of her computer project.

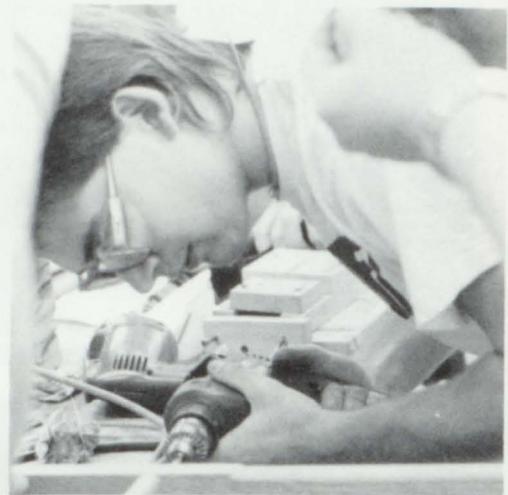

Making It Work

How would HHS survive without our Industrial Arts and Ag area? Not only do students who take these classes learn skills for their own use, but they also help make various items for the school to use. Their hands-on training will help prepare them for life beyond high school.

Students learn to weld and have made tables for computer labs and other places around the school. Major projects for the students in the shop classes were the production runs where students made director's chairs and magazine racks.

As freshmen in Ag, students can learn tractor maintenance. This year, the sophomores planted trees around the school to improve the landscape. In addition, the Ag classes put up backstops for the girl's softball diamonds. Junior Mark Rutz commented, "I like Ag classes because you get to go outside, and you don't get a lot of homework."

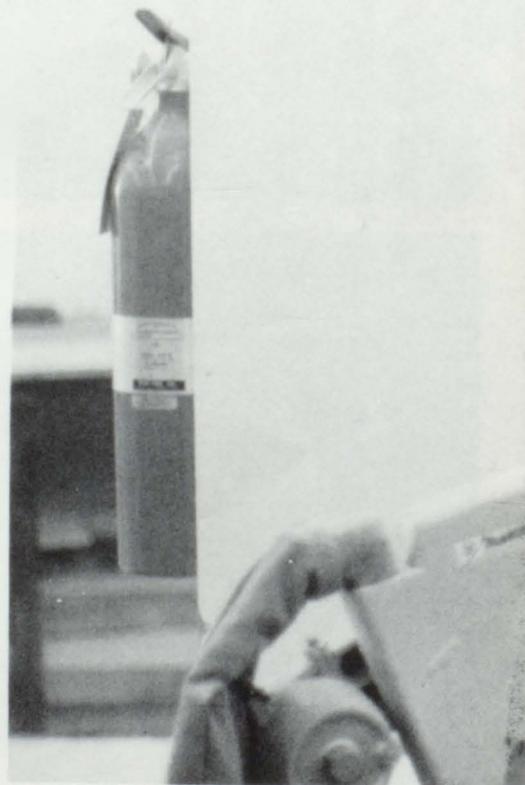

BELOW Drilling the wood support, Clint Wilde uses a steady hand while Tim Rusterberg holds the board.

Driving Exercises

Physical education, a non-academic requirement, is a favorite of many students. P.E. gives students a chance to exercise daily and to participate in a great number of athletic activities.

For the second year in a row P.E. classes were given the opportunity to go bowling at the Popular Junction Lanes. Junior Andy Eley commented, "I liked that we went bowling. It also got us out of school for a while."

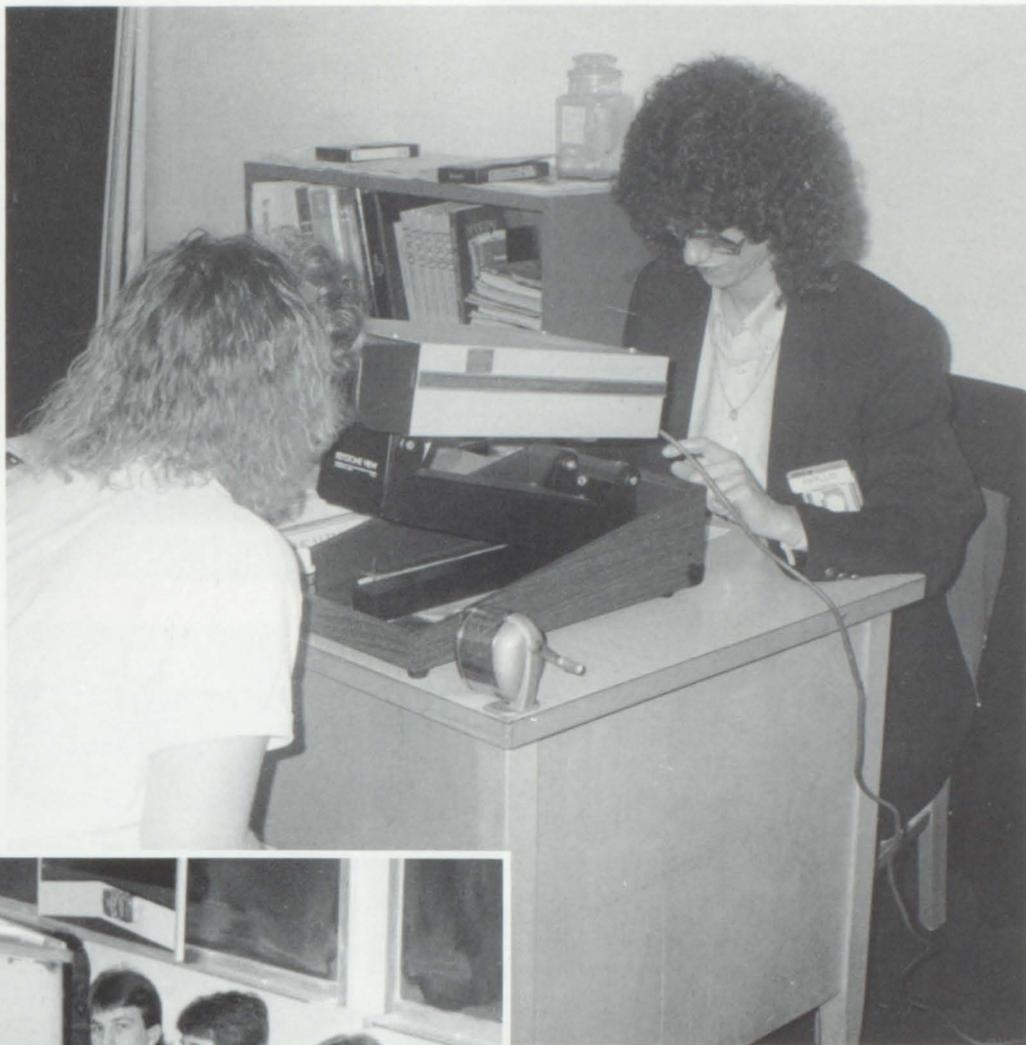

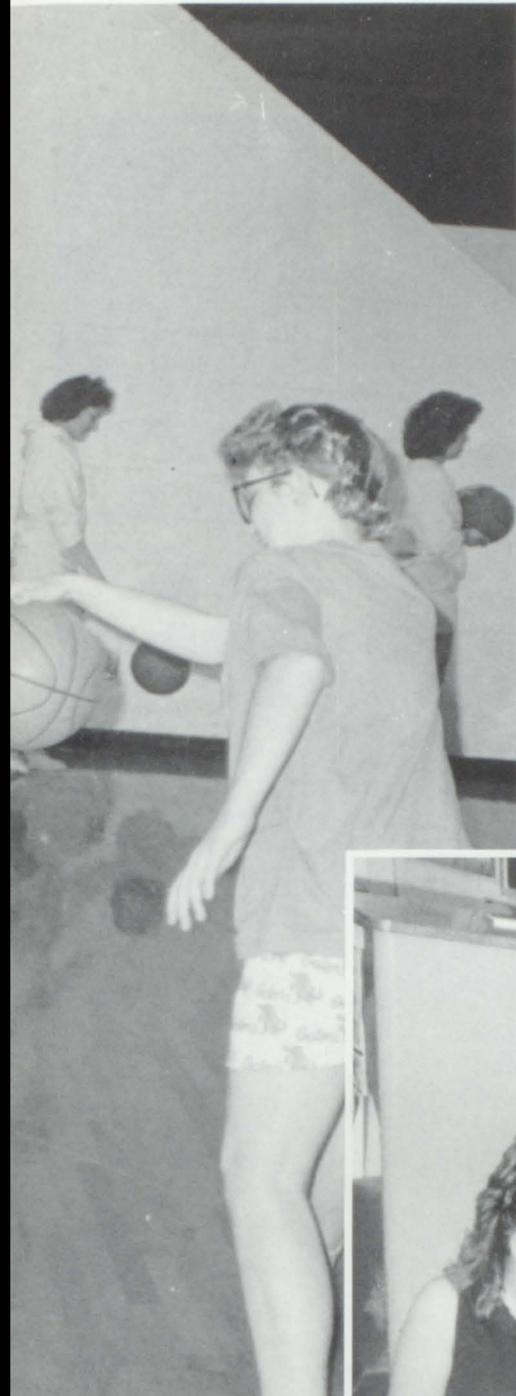

Sophomores get out of taking P.E. for nine weeks to take Safety Education. This class teaches students how to be responsible behind the wheel of a car and also instructs them in the many rules that need to be followed when out on the road.

As part of Safety class, students do projects, such as create driving situations, plan trips, review films and read current articles on safety.

Much hard work goes into getting a driver's permit and voucher, but all the work is worth it to get the "license to drive."

Administrators Uphold School Programs

Whenever students hear "Administration," thoughts of rules, regulations, and disciplinary procedures have a tendency to overpower the good aspects of the word. But looking at HHS' administration proves that good qualities are innumerable.

Administrators in the Highland district have worked especially hard this year to uphold HHS' scholastic, athletic, and extracurricular programs. Throughout this past fall, school officials did their best to promote the referendum that would make or break certain school activities. They constantly kept the students' best interests in mind, including both the extracurricular and academic activities that students in the Highland, Grantfork, Alhambra, New Douglas District were able to participate in.

Their hard work paid off when the referendum passed.

When asked what he thought of the school administrators' work pertaining to the referendum, senior baseball player Rodney Naylor answered, "I think that it shows how much the administration really cares about its students and their educational experience."

Fight Back

Like many schools in the nation, HHS faced a big financial dilemma which could only realistically be resolved if the community passed a tax referendum. Without its passage, many school programs and activities would have to be eliminated, affecting the education of students within the entire school district.

Consequently, faculty and students spent many nights preparing signs and developing other types of publicity to make the community aware. On Saturdays, many volunteered time to go door to door in Highland and all of the centers, answering questions about the referendum and making voters aware of the financial problem.

Other teachers, administrators, and parents spoke at various organizational meetings to inform members of what passing the referendum meant to the community.

Homecoming weekend, which fell just before the referendum date, offered an additional opportunity to promote the issue. Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, clubs, sports teams and classes made banners and floats for a special afternoon parade. It began at the junior high school and led up to the square for a huge pep rally.

The hard work of all these people paid off when the referendum passed by a large margin on November 3.

Teacher Talk

A lot of students think teachers are crabby or always in a bad mood. Well some may be and some may have reasons.

It could be as Mr. Ott explained, "Every night I have 3-4 hours of paper grading to do." Paper grading seems to be the worst aspect of any teacher's job. Mrs. Walgren also agrees that her 2-3 hours of paper grading every night interferes with her life out of school.

Mr. Thomas, the athletic director, attends almost all athletic related activities. He is in charge of setting up all sports schedules and getting officials for games. Mr. Thomas is also a Driver Ed. instructor and gets up at 5:00 A.M., so he is ready in time to teach behind-the-wheel before school.

Complaints from other teachers include, "Talking while I'm talking" says Mrs. Probst. Mrs. Walgren stated, "I get mad when I go over something in class and not more than five seconds later somebody asks what I just said." Mrs. Swank said what bothers her is when "Kids who complain the most do the least." Mrs. Knebel gets irritated when "Kids don't follow directions and become lazy."

Teachers aren't always in bad moods but if they are then maybe sometimes they have a reason.

Behind the Scenes

Behind the scenes, the custodians and cafeteria ladies are hard at work to help keep the school running smoothly.

School custodians work hard every day to keep our school in tip top shape. During the summer months they remodeled parts of the school by adding walls to separate classrooms.

Cafeteria ladies offered a variety of foods to students while keeping the meal nutritious. This year a specialty bar was available each day of the week. Selections included the taco bar, deli bar, potato bar, and salad bar.

Technology Club members Craig Nihiser and Don Moine help reconstruct the Christmas displays that go up on the Square.

German Club

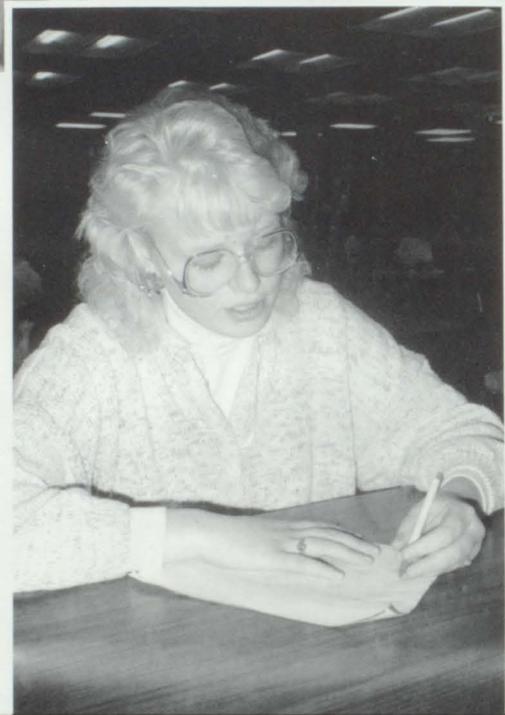

Hoping for a future trip to Germany, the German Club held two fund-raising campaigns. First they sold advent calendars, and then they sold Christmas candles.

The money they made also helped pay for a field trip to St. Louis where they toured the Anheuser-Busch brewery to see how beer was made and then dined in a German restaurant. In the afternoon, they went to the St. Louis Art Museum and looked at paintings by the famous German artist Max Beckman.

"I like German Club because it gives me a chance to experience a culture that is totally different from ours," stated club president Cindy Hustedde.

Tech Club

In addition to giving a whole new facelift to the Christmas decorations used on the square the Technology Club name also got a facelift. Starting next year the club will be called American Industrial Arts Student Association. AIASA is an international organization and will allow members to compete in more drafting competitions than in the past. The club toured the B-line system where they witnessed a turn-of-the-century robot welder and saw the new computer-aided drafting system at Ralph Korte Construction. They also toured Wicks Pipe Organ Company and took a trip to McDonnell Douglas.

Other activities included sponsoring a toy and food drive at Christmas and attending AIASA speech and technical skills competitions in the spring.

Officers were president Warren Byrd, vice-president Chris Schauster, treasurer Jeanette Keck and secretary Jayme Frey. The adviser was Mr. Pete Tucker.

Model U.N.

Each year McKendree College sponsors a spring and fall session of Model U.N. There, club members debate about current topics in the world as if they were the actual U. N. Each school is assigned the countries to portray. Highland represented the United States, Australia, and Vatican City. Before debating foreign policies for the countries they represent, each delegate must research the country's position thoroughly.

The fall session broke in new delegates while the actual session took place in the spring.

"One of the best things about it is that you're stuck in a room with people from other schools you hardly know and you have to learn how to work with them," commented senior Mike Orlet, who has been in U. N. for 2 years.

Mike Orlet, Danna Merkle, Eric Driesner, Barb Hosto all received awards. Danna Merkle was offered a $1000 scholarship to McKendree College.

Adviser was Miss Barbara Kay.

Student Council

Student Council started the year off by taking charge of all of the Homecoming activities. Based on the theme "Once Upon a Time," club members decorated the gym into a fairy tale wonderland. They devoted their time to passing out ballots to all the students to vote for court members and did it again to elect a King and Queen.

Throughout homecoming week they sponsored games to coincide with the theme. Wanting a change from the usual Homecoming night, Student Council decided to have the court members formally dance after the king and queen were announced.

The Council also decorated the commons at Christmas and ran the election for the new oncoming members.

President was Amy Albright, vice president Tefy Weiss, secretary Stacy Price and treasurer Erica Moore.

The advisers were Mrs. Duncan and Mr. Wherley.

JETS

The Junior Engineering and Technical Society is involved in the Southwest Math Conference that consists of 12 area schools. The team placed 2nd overall in a series of 4 contests. The sophomore team placed first and went on to state. They participated in other math contests at colleges throughout the year.

Along with the Science and Technology Club, they sponsored the annual JETS Bridge Building Contest. Winners were Don IMaine and Greg Nihiser. To encourage interest outside school, JETS toured McDonnell Douglas. In school they posted a weekly math challenge. The first student to successfully solve it received a prize.

Officers were president Mike Orlet, vice president Dave Dressel, secretary Andi Hester, treasurer Vicki Korte, and parliamentarian Neil Gusewell. Adviser was Mr. Hester.

Before the Science Club meeting, officers Stacey Brunnworth and Tonia White discuss the plans for the meeting with their adviser Mr. Grodeon.

They also did the posters for the year's musical and stayed on call to help other organizations with various projects.

Members displayed their work at the P.T.A. Art Fair and sold items at their own art fair. The money made from the fair was used to purchase additional supplies.

Officers were president Lisa Tebbe, vice-president Amy Albright, secretary Jeff Buss, and treasurer Teffy Weiss. Adviser was Mrs. Ann Pastrovich.

Science Club

The highlight of the year for the Science Club was an invitation to Blackburn College where club members competed against other schools by taking a written test on their scientific knowledge. They also watched experiments being performed by college students.

Mr. Brent Grodeon, adviser, believes that the club helps students to understand the importance of science in their lives and increases their knowledge while helping members learn how to work together.

During their meetings, members discussed possible ways they could better the community of Highland through their skills in science. This also helped them to learn how to perfect their skills in science.

Officers were president David Dressel, vice-president Rodney Naylor, and the secretary/treasurer Amy Langhauser. The adviser was Mr. Brent Grodeon.

FFA

The club helped develop leadership skills by sending members to a Leadership Training School. Members also competed in a public speaking contest, which Judi Boeser won.

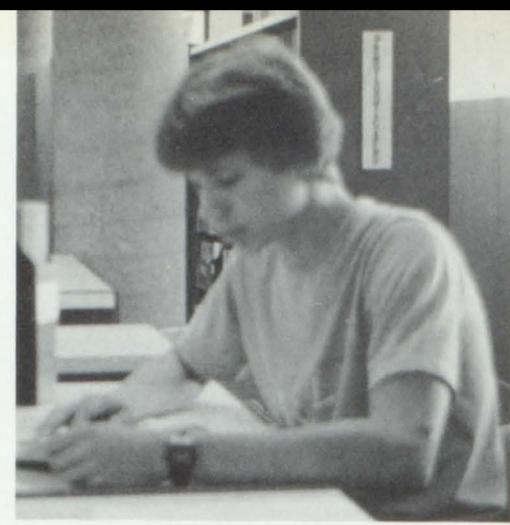

As a community service members again helped decorate the town square at Christmas.

Many outstanding members of FFA earned awards in various areas. Senior Keith Iberg was named State Farmer, and received the Sheep Production Award and the DeKalb Award. Randy Rogier received the Beef Production Award and Ken Korsmeyer was presented with the John Wessel Award. Newcomer Brian Debatin, a freshman member of FFA, received the title Star Greenhand.

Friends of the Media Center

Members of Friends of the Media Center dedicated their study halls to help students check books out of the library and assist them in finding books and resources.

When asked why he gave up his time to help in the library, senior Kip Gilomen answered by saying, "It gives me more time to do what I want to do, and I like to socialize with people."

Friends of the Media Center sponsored an entry in the Homecoming Parade, and during the week of April 18-22 the club celebrated National Library Week, using the theme "Catch the Wave."

As the week came to an end, the club invited the student body to vote on the top 10 books of the year and encouraged them to wear jams to show their support.

FMCC

Future Medical Careers Club, better known as FMCC, agreed that the most rewarding activity they held this year was the blood drive on St. Patrick's Day. Thanks to the efforts of FMCC members, over 60 donors proudly wore a pin which said, "Kiss Me I Gave Blood."

In addition to recruiting donors, FMCC members helped Red Cross workers do various jobs. These included tagging the bags of blood and consoling any nervous donors.

Other FMCC activities included a visit from optometrist Dr. Robert Rosenthal. They also took a field trip to the Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital and to St. Louis University Hospital.

Officers were president Kay East, vice president Laurie Nehrt, secretary Mimi Lutostanski, treasurer Anne Pfitzner, Adviser Dorcas Fisk.

Speech Team

For their first year, the newly organized Speech Team participated in four competitions. At their first contest Jodi Eichelmann placed second while Amy Albright and Keith Geismann received third place for their duet as did Ty Dimig for his original comedy. At the second contest Tara Inlow received a third, while Amy Mersinger and Anne Pfitzner both obtained fifths. Varsity team members Ty Dimig and Keith Geismann also placed fifth.

As the school year progressed, Regionals became the next obstacle for the novice, but rather aggressive, speech team. When the final results were tallied, Jodi Eichelmann, Ty Dimig, and Keith Geismann were awarded the chance to advance to Sectionals. Junior Jodi Eichelmann was asked how she felt when competing, she responded, "The contests were very competitive, and even though everyone was nervous we all had fun."

French Club

Parlez vous Francais? This appropriate saying could be casually tossed around at the monthly French Club meeting. These members are provided an informal setting while they learn more about the French culture.

An important event for all language clubs through the year is Foreign Language Week. The French Club actively participated with this and the International Banquet. They visited Fort Chartres and the Pierre Menard Home on their field trip.

To help finance their projects, members sold sucker in a variety of flavors. "I feel that the lollipop sales, by the French Club, started a new and successful trend at HHS," stated Barb Hosto. Putting all their efforts together, the French Club raised a whopping $300 for their activities.

Officers for the French Club were President Jackie Debatin, Vice President Andreas Firnhaber, Secretary Michele Gause, and Treasurer Amy Johnson. Mrs. Thebus was the adviser.

NHS

"Creating an enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulating a desire to render service, promoting worthy leadership, and encouraging development of character is what this club desires the most," stated Mrs. Cary Iftner, one of the advisers of the National Honor Society. This group, chosen carefully and selectively, works hard to set a good exemplary path for others to follow.

Throughout the year, NHS has done many things to inform others about a prosperous future. They sponsored the College Day in November to help inform other college-bound students of their many choices. On eighth grade parent night they led guided tours for incoming freshmen and their parents.

In November, all members and their parents were invited to Parent Night for the induction of new senior members. A Bowl-a-Thon, in the spring, raised money to help former HHS student Darrell Frerker in his quest to get to the 1988 summer Olympics.

Thespians

Experience in theater-related activities is necessary in order to receive an invitation to become a Thespian. Through the years, the candidates earn points by performing in various plays and musicals, working with the tech. crew, and helping with publicity. Involvement in two plays or musicals is a definite requirement.

When a student earns a total of 10 points, he is eligible for membership in Thespians. Club advisor, Ms. Donaldson, carefully reviews the information on the students and chooses the members that are asked to join. An elected candidate must pay dues before being initiated into the club.

Working together was another important factor in the survival of the group. They sold can holders and dressed up as clowns in the Homecoming Parade to show their pride in their group and in our school.

MARKETING EDUCATION OFFICE OCCUPATIONS

Marketing Education/Office Occupations Co-op Program gives students an opportunity to earn money while getting experience out in the working world. Students attend classes half the day and work the other half.

Marketing Education students went to Springfield for the Distributive Education Clubs of Illinois State Conference. Warren Byrd received 2nd place in his sales demonstration--Hard Lines, while his classmate Cindy Siverly received 3rd place for her sales demonstration--Soft Lines.

Awards of Excellence were given to Kristan Freeman for Apparel and Accessories, Supervisory Level; Ken Bean for Finance and Credit; Cindy Siverly for Apparel and Accessories, Master Employee, and to Warren Byrd for General Retail Merchandising, Supervisory Level.

Students of the Year were Warren Byrd and Cindy Siverly.

Office Occupations students participated in a contest of employment skills at the Illinois Office Education Association State Conference in Peoria. Shelly Wuebbels got 6th place. The class also went to Decatur where they won 2nd place for lip-sinking the California Raisins tune.

Office Occupations students of the year were Danna Merkle and Denise Knackstedt.

Both clubs joined in spring activities such as the banquet for their bosses and a trip to Six Flags.

To pay for all their activities, the clubs sold hot sticks, Dakin animals, and kits

Weight Club

Weight Club promotes athletics, strength, health, and fitness through the activity of weightlifting. Girls as well as guys are members of this club, perhaps not to compete but to strengthen their muscles.

Weight Club members held their Weight Lift-A-Thon for the second year. Through it, they raised over $1,800 to be used for the purchase of new equipment. Junior Erick Baer raised the most money with pledges of $225.

Sophomore Billy Greenwald led the freshman/sophomore division with a total lift of 1100 pounds and sophomore Dan Robertson had a dead lift of 475 pounds.

In the varsity division, senior Scott Berry lifted the most with a total of 1165 pounds. Senior Chris Michael came in next with a total lift of 995 pounds.

Weight Club officers are President Scott Berry, Vice president Chris Michael, Secretary Brett Bircher, Adviser Mr. Matt Moore.

PEP CLUB

The Rowdy Crowd, HHS's pep club once again motivated school spirit for athletic events and school achievement.

True to their name, this bunch gets loud and "rowdy." When they get together, the noise they create is enough to inspire any athlete to do his or her best. The loudest they were this year was at the Homecoming pep rally and the basketball regional games. The "crowd" really showed their school spirit and a devotion to our athletes.

The club helped organize many activities, such as planning the Homecoming Dance, decorating the Square in the Homecoming pep rally and participated in the Homecoming referendum parade. They also sold the popular "Backin' the Bulldogs" T-shirts.

Don't Leave Your Team On

Enthusiasm Spurs Team On

According to varsity goalie Joel Boulanger, "We were always up for every game no matter who it was against." Talking about the season, senior Danny Eilerman commented, "We did fine considering we had to overcome a loss of seniors, multiple injuries, and a tough conference." Losing Chris Hill and Rich Jacober was not an asset to the Bulldog performance.

Chris Prusa and Danny Eilerman were both injured. Chris sat out five games as a result of a back injury, and Danny sat out three games because of an injury to his ankle. Moving from the mid-South to a much tougher Mississippi Valley Conference the Dogs still finished with a very impressive 8-4-6 record, ending up third in the conference, tied with Mascoutah and behind number one Bethalto and number two O'Fallon.

Coach Rich Kantner made his selections on the team awards giving the Most Dedicated Player to sophomore Simon Weiss. Joel Boulanger received the Best Defense award with his performance as goalie, forward Jeff Aleman was given the Best Offense Award, full-back Angel Diz Rodriguez received the Mark Moenster Award, and center half-back Danny Eilerman captured the Most Valuable Player Award.

Striving for the Top

"No guts no glory." That became the motto for the volleyball team, and it worked. The team started the season with a new gutsy look, wearing tights instead of shorts.

Senior Kelly Rakers commented, "The tights were embarrassing at first. They took awhile to get used to but they were comfortable to play in."

And get used to them they did. The team played flawlessly until meeting Edwardsville in the Wood River Tournament. After losing the first game, HHS came back to win the second but lost the hard-fought battle in the third and decisive game.

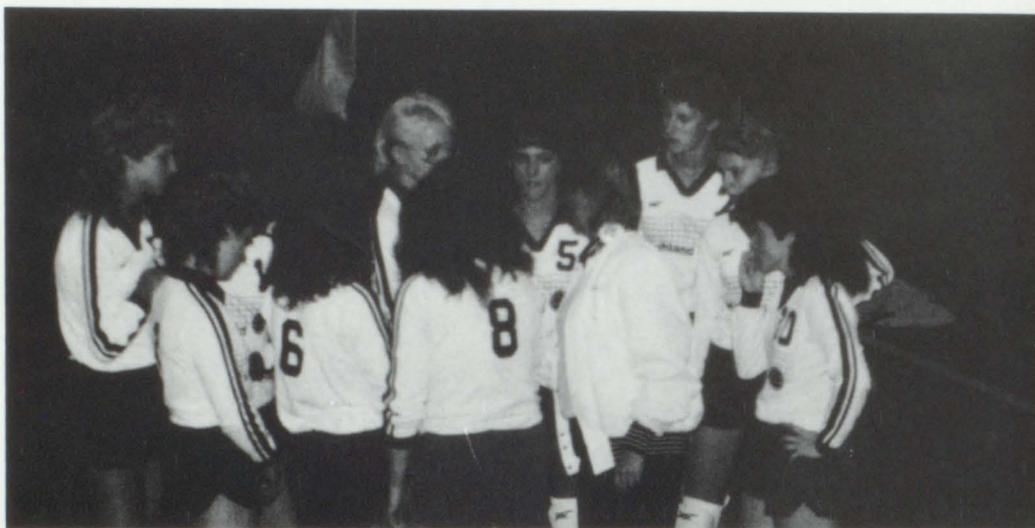

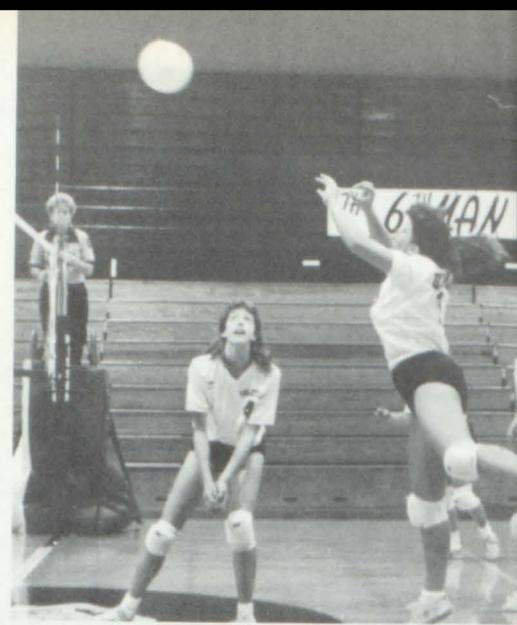

"It only made me want to beat Edwardsville even more when we went to play them on their home court and we did," Senior Jodie Fischer commented.

The Varsity finished Conference co-champions with Mascoutah and captured an overall record of 16-6. The team ended their season with a tough loss to Mascoutah in the Regional Championship.

Junior Varsity finished with a 10-4 record and a conference record of 5-1. Sophomore Debbie Kampwerth summed the season up with, "I felt privileged to be on a winning team."

Edwardsville Invitational
Regionals

10th
12th

The Bulldog linksters finished the season at 7-8. They finished 6th in the conference and 10th out of 16 teams at the Edwardsville Invitational. The biggest victory of the season was a five stroke win over O'Fallon.

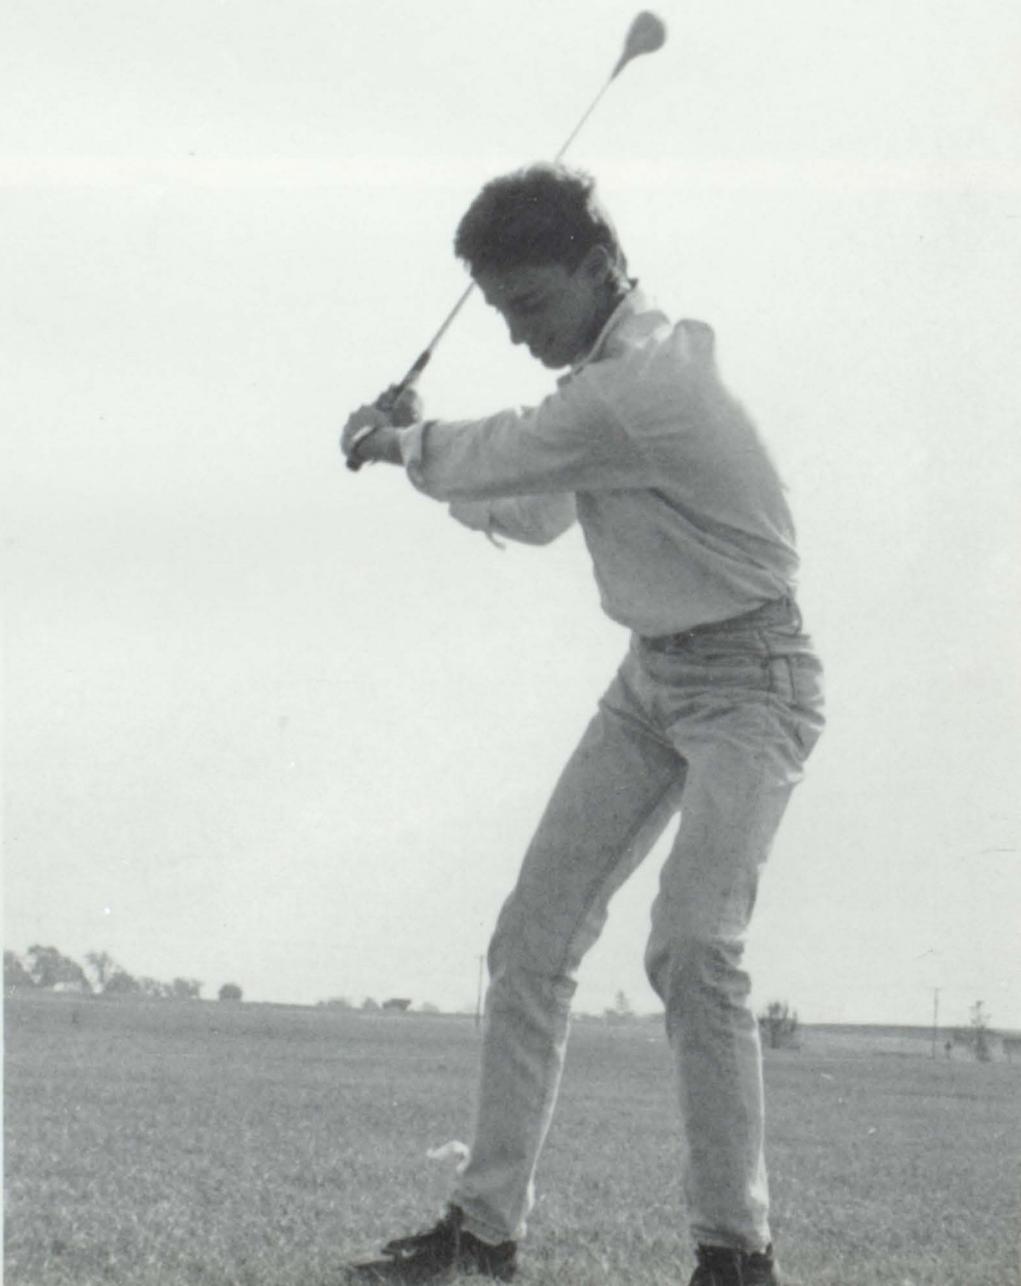

Senior Matt Tuffli commented, "I struggled the first three years and finally shot with consistency my senior year." Tuffli was the team's low scorer with a 39.5 average.

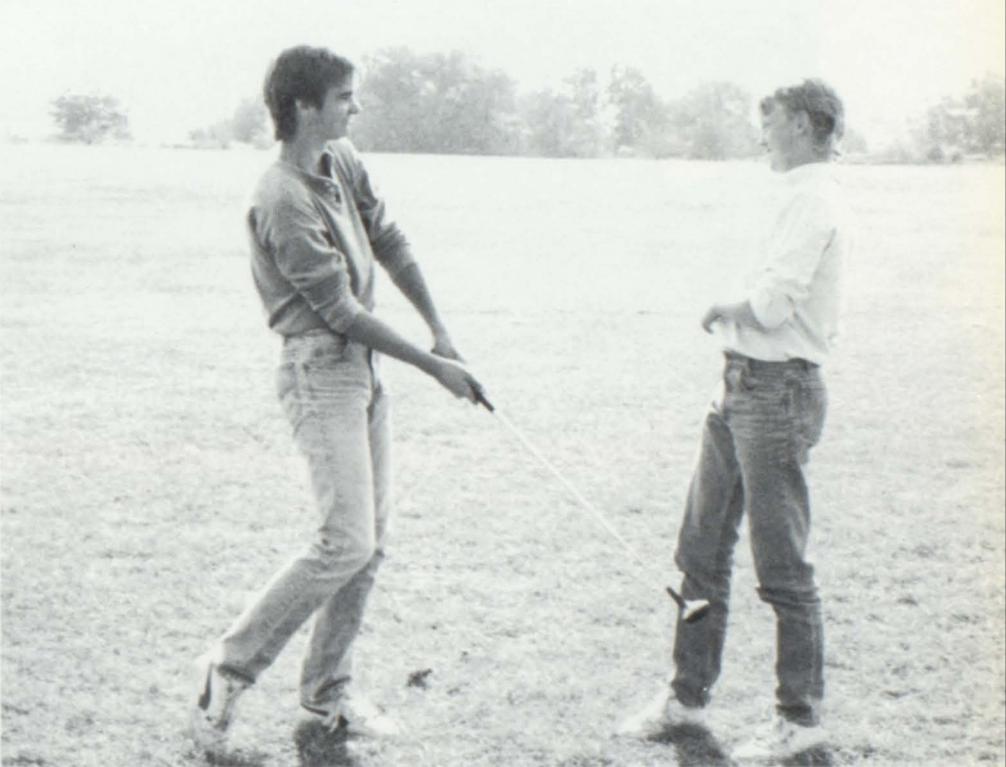

Junior Todd Graef stated, "I was happy with my performance but am looking forward to next season when the conference will be held on my home golf course."

Letter award winners included seniors Mark Wernle, Matt Tuffli, and Craig Ammn and juniors Karl Abert, Steve Duft, Jennay Young, and Todd Graef.

Jennay competed against the boys all season, then entered the girls' regional and placed 5th among individuals to advance to Sectionals.

The top individual performance of the season occurred when Matt Tuffli shot a 74 at the conference match to tie for fourth place honors. He was named to the All-Conference team.

Champions Again

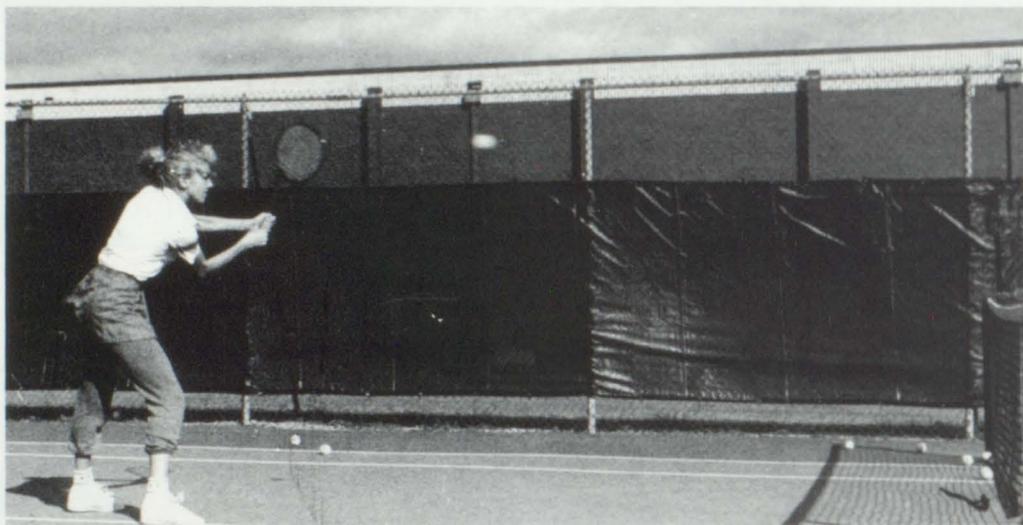

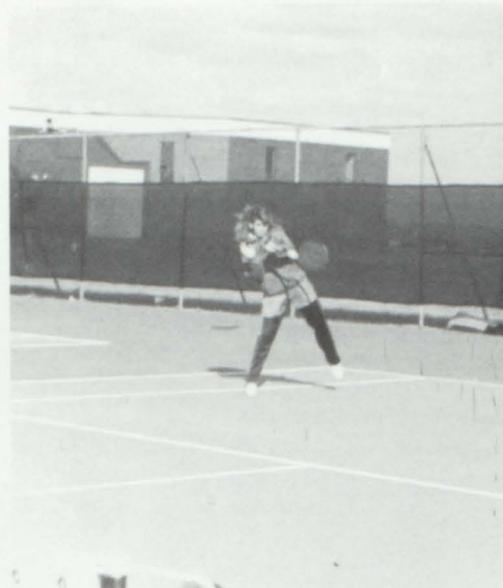

Capturing its 12th consecutive winning season, winning first in Highland's Doubles Invitational, and earning a season record of 13-2, the girls tennis team rightfully claimed a successful year.

Highland had an easy time with all opponents except conference rival O'Fallon. Taking revenge at the Highland Doubles Invitational, they not only defeated O'Fallon but won the tournament.

Highland's doubles team of seniors Maria Kleinmann and Amy Johnson took first place honors in the tournament. Johnson also finished 3rd at the Belleville East Tournament, was sectional singles champion, qualified for state and finished in the top 24 girls in the state.

In all categories the tennis team had an outstanding season. Senior Mimi Lutostanski summed it up, "It was a privilege to be a part of a hardworking, determined team."

Twice as good. The doubles team of senior Maria Kleinmann and freshmen Jene' Iftner gave opponents double trouble.

Individuals Stand Out

Cross Country was dominated by individual performances.

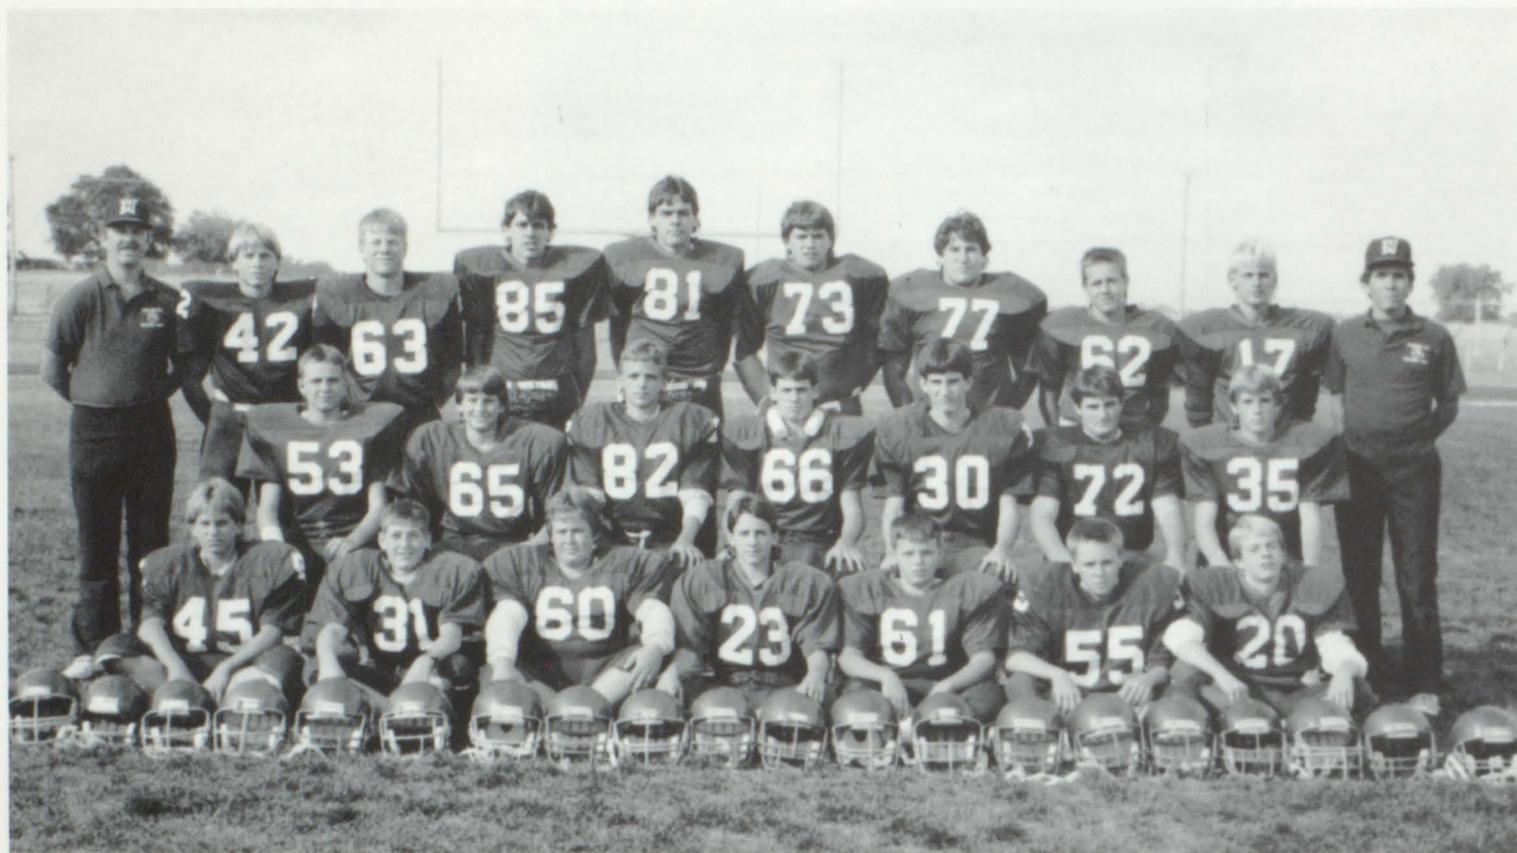

This season marked the first time that girls were represented in the Metro-east area in the State Qualifying Meet. They placed fifth in the Edwardsville Regionals, qualifying for the Sectional Cross Country Championship in Springfield.

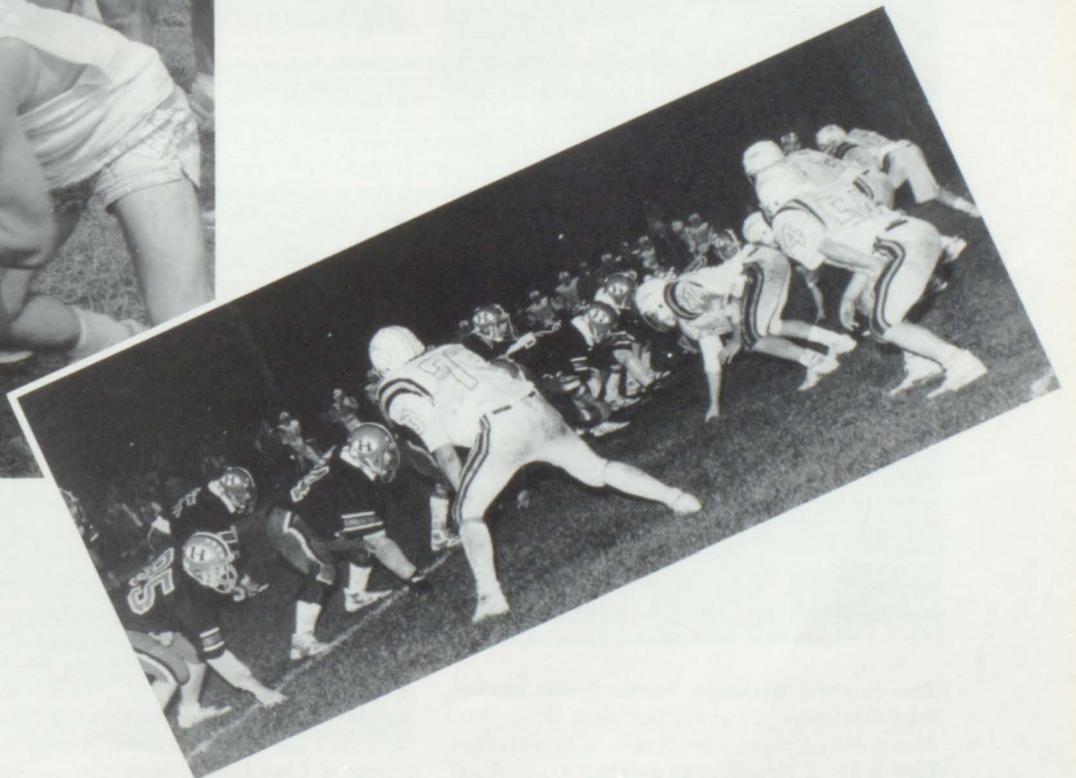

On the boys' team, achievements were not quite the same as with the girls. They won two of their three dual/tri meets.

Seniors Keith Geismann and Ginny Portell and junior Laurie Nehrt demonstrated outstanding individual performances. Keith placed 8th at the MVC All Conference Meet, and Ginny placed 10th. Laurie placed 9th in a field of 63 at the Jacksonville Invitational and 4th in the Madison County Championship. She then achieved a 2nd place at the MVC All Conference Meet, which allowed her to participate in the State Qualifying Meet.

Fresh-Soph Football

A year of Contention

Plan of attack. Senior Jason Augustin and junior Scott Hordesky talk over their next move.

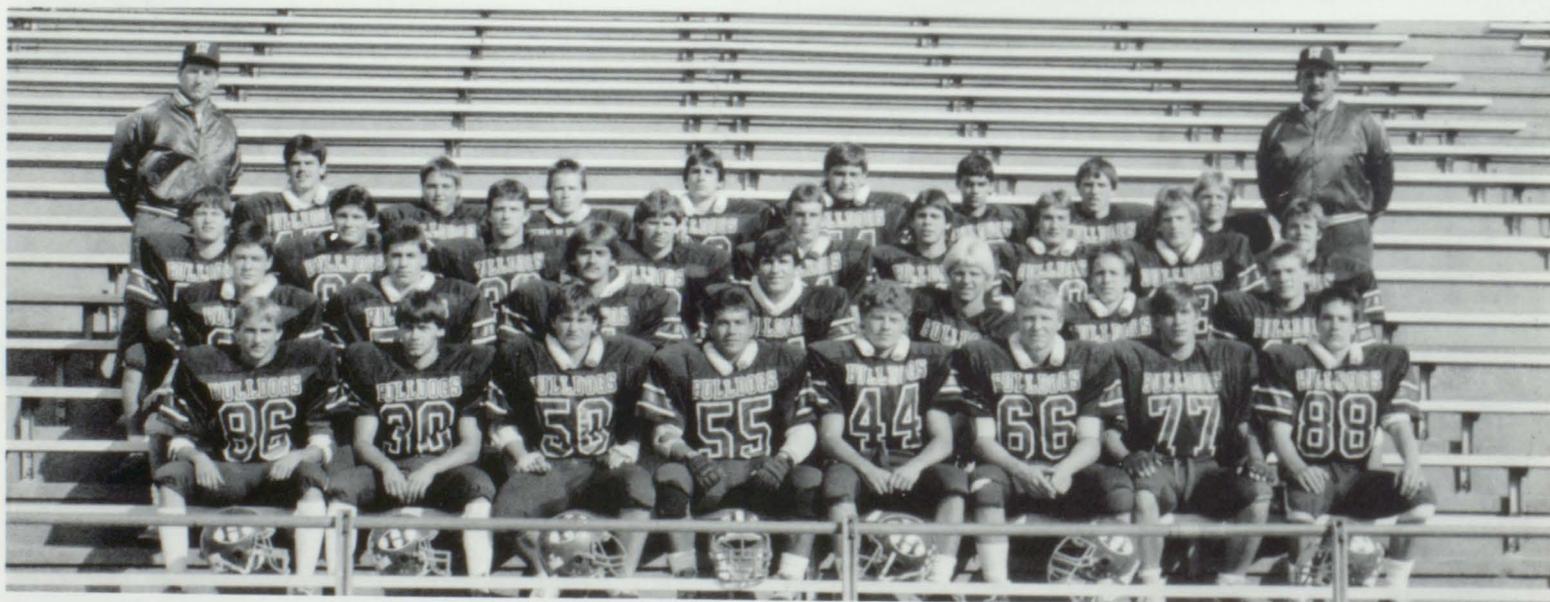

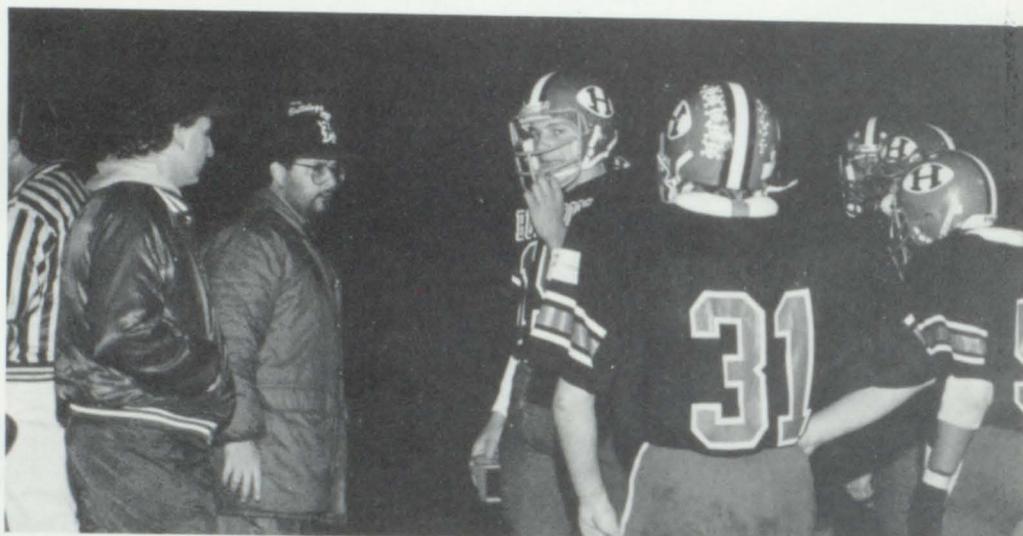

Sweat. Guts. Glory. The football Bulldogs had all three. Starting practices in the late, hot August sun, the football team fought for respect and victories. Under new head coach Mike Hooker, the Bulldogs started their season by losing their first three tough-fought games. The team was then ready to tackle Civic Memorial and add their first victory to the win column. "We felt we had accomplished our first goal of the season, and we were ready to move on to our next opponent Wood River," commented Mike Rickher.

The Bulldogs won their next game against Wood River by a wide margin but were held scoreless in their last three competitions.

Junior Tyler Morris led the Bulldogs with an average of 7.3 yards per reception, while Sophomore Billy Greenwald totaled 550 yards in rushing throughout the year.

The Bulldogs ended their season with a record of 2-7 and constantly fought hard throughout the tough season.

Getting it together, coach Lanxon and coach Moore discuss strategy with Jeff Buss and Erick Baer

Sticking up for the Team

Cheering in the cold, rainy weather is not the most glamorous activity there is. But the football cheerleaders battled not only the weather but the season itself. The cheerleaders boosted the spirits of the student body in the pep rallies and in the signs they produced. Locker decorations became familiar on Fridays to the team members. Students also couldn't help notice red and black draped across the commons.

Although the cheerleaders only cheered at seven games, they lifted the spirits of all the students and those of the parents in the chilly weather.

Hoop It Up

With a new coach and new school enthusiasm, the Cheerleading Bulldogs took advantage of the situation. The squad reconstructed school spirit, pride and leadership.

With the cooperation of area businesses, the cheerleaders planned many "Go Bulldogs" signs around the town. They also stirred up excitement during the pep rallies and the games by the enthusiasm and confidence they displayed doing their cheers.

They also showed their skills and competence earning the title of Grand Champs at the UCA cheerleading camp at SIU-C during the summer. They then placed 5th at a Springfield Competition and 1st at the Mater Dei Christmas Tournament.

By taking 1st place in regional competition, the squad advanced to state competition at Illinois State University where they captured 16th in the state.

A Comeback Year

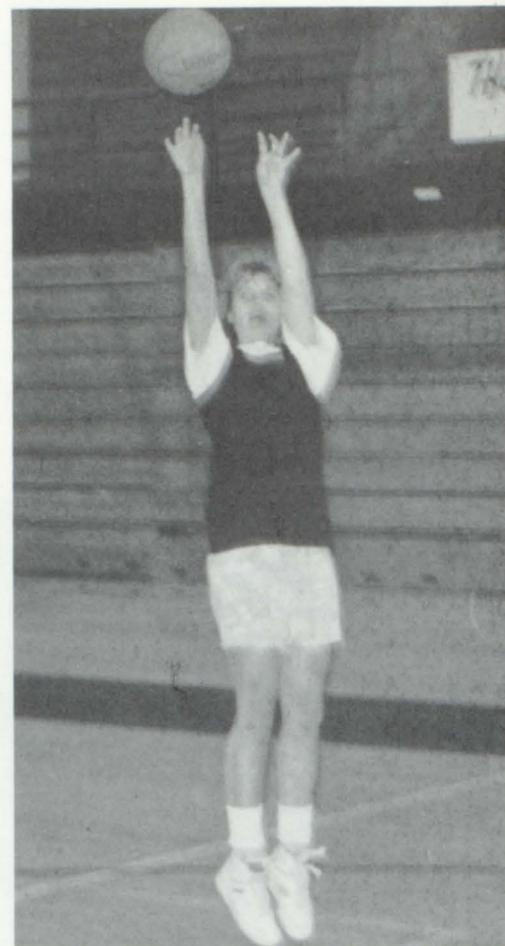

With the cold weather setting in, the girl's basketball team changed into fire. They started their season by beating their first two opponents before losing a heartbreaker to Triad. With only one senior on the team, the Lady Bullogs had to learn from their experiences and ended a tough season with a 15-9 record. Junior Teffy Weiss commented "It was tough at times, but you have to get serious in order to accomplish goals. But it was fun."

Junior Sharon Kampwerth led the varsity in scoring with an average of 11 points per game. Following closely was fellow classmate Teffy Weiss. Another junior, Lisa Zobrist, led the Lady Bulldogs in rebounds while senior Lori Steiner led in assists.

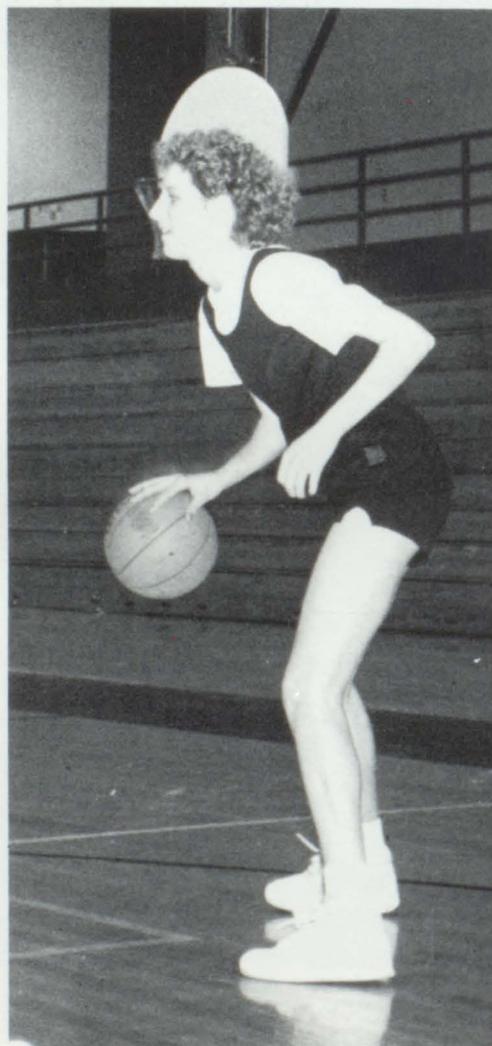

The season high point was capturing 5th place in HHS's own tournament. Losing at halftime the girls came out with new energy and a new outlook on the game and won the battle against O'Fallon by four points.

The J.V. Lady Bulldogs, coached by first year coach Gina Andres, were a young team and were led by several freshmen. Having a record of 4-2 in conference games and 14-4 overall, the J.V. team was lead in rebounds by Jene' Iftner, and led in scoring. With a young squad, the Lady Bulldogs turned a rebuilding year into a winning season.

Bulldogs Capture MVC Championship

For the first time in the 17-year history of the MVC, the Bulldogs won it outright. They had tied before, but by beating O'Fallon in front of the packed home crowd, they took the number one position by themselves.

This was Highland's first winning season since 1984. They jumped off to a good start by winning the Triad Turkey Tournament. Some bad free throw shooting resulted in a loss to Edwardsville, but the Dogs bounced back to defeat Civic Memorial and Mascoutah.

At Christmas with a record of 6-2, the Bulldogs took an early exit from the Mater Dei Christmas Tournament by losing to Woodlawn and Mascoutah. However, they came back to win the next ten straight games.

The season ended when the Bulldogs lost to state-ranked Collinsville in the first round of the regional. The Dogs finished the season 18-7 overall and 11-1 in the conference.

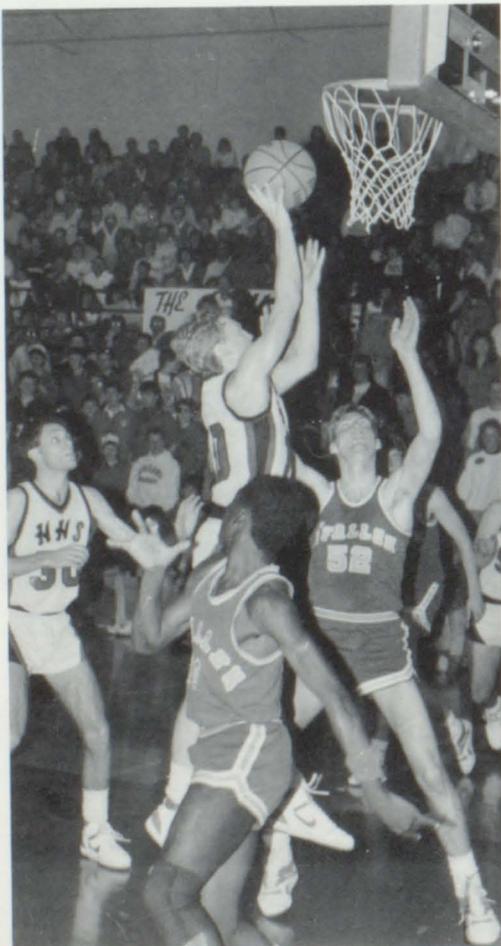

Senior Jeff Brown captured top honors by joining the Thousand Point Club, scoring 1069 points in his four-year career at Highland. Jeff said, "The season was fun, a lot of hard work, and something I will remember for the rest of my life."

Todd Graef, another outstanding player on the team and the only junior, was the third leading scorer behind Brown. Senior Joel Boulanger, commented on the season by saying, "It was an overall success, and hopefully the team can perform as well next year."

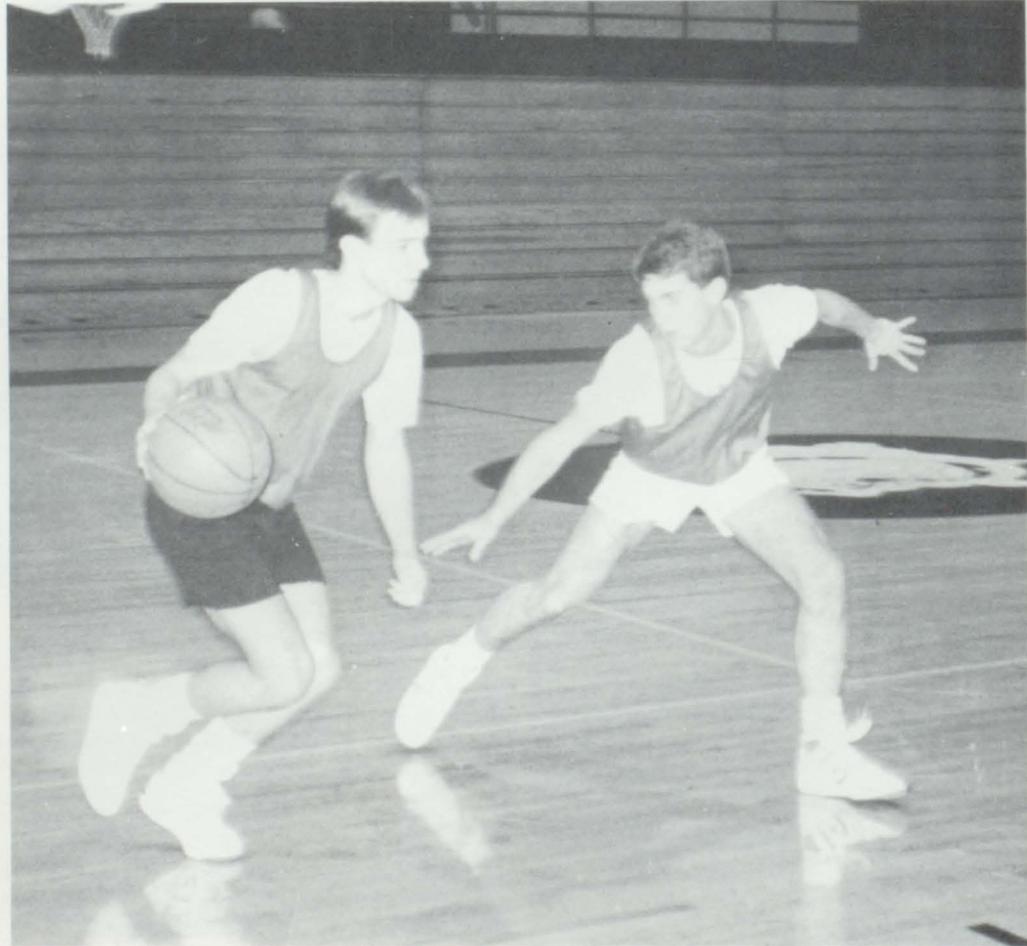

Jump Shot. Senior Tim Barnett puts a shot up from the free throw line.

Working Hard

BELOW Concentrating on his last home basketball game of the season, freshman Brian Debatin heads for the locker room during halftime.

The freshmen Bulldogs started off their season in the right direction, winning their first five games consecutively. They suffered their first loss to Wood River, losing by a mere three points.

The Bulldogs were overcome three more times before they got back on the right foot. A two-point win over Central in the O'Fallon Tournament started another winning streak. The young dribblers suffered only two more losses, both to Triad.

Taking third place in the Staunton and O'Fallon Tournaments, they ended their season with a final record of 10-6.

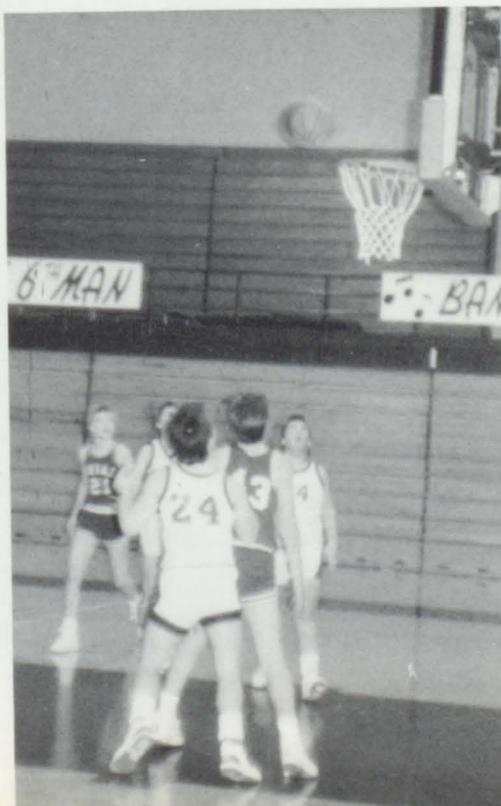

Highland's B Squad ended on an even note with a record of 4-4.

Coach Rich Kantner commented, "These kids worked hard all season. They really found out how hard work pays off."

Champions Once Again

What a year this was for the boys tennis team! Eighty-eight proved to be the best year ever in this sport at HHS. Their 18th consecutive winning season landed the team a 15-1 record.

Coach Larry Iftner commented, "This is the best team we've had at Highland in the 20 years we've had tennis. These boys gave it everything they had, mentally and physically, and were a pleasure to coach. They dominated the area competition with a total individual record of 103-5 in team matches. The players were talented, but more importantly they sacrificed and pulled together as a team. As a coach, I couldn't be prouder."

This year the reigning champions of the HHS Invitational came back and did it again, making this their 2nd consecutive year. Not only did they win the invitational, but they were also MVC champions

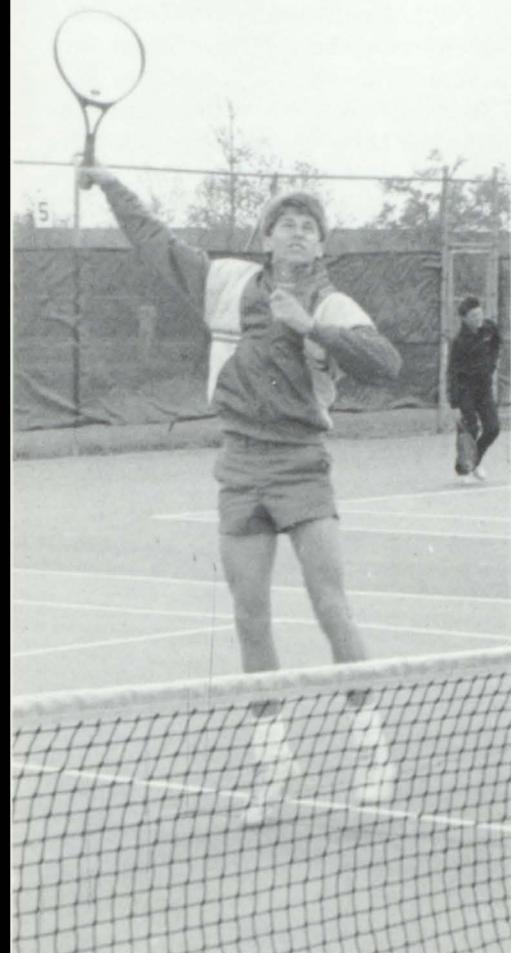

Six players made the MVC All-Conference team. They were Brad Iftner--1st singles, 1st doubles; David Paschal--2nd singles, 1st doubles; Scott Plocher--3rd singles, 2nd doubles; Danny Eilerman--4th singles, 2nd doubles; Will Brown--3rd doubles; Jared Fenton--3rd doubles.

Conference champions include Brad Iftner--1st doubles; David Paschal--2nd singles, 1st doubles; Scott Plocher--3rd singles, 2nd doubles; and Danny Eilerman--4th singles, 2nd doubles.

In one of the toughest tournaments in the state, the Belleville East Invitational, the team finished in the top 10 as a team. Individually, Brad Ifter and David Paschal finished 6th in 1st doubles. David Paschal also landed 6th in 2nd singles and Danny Eilerman took 6th in 4th singles.

Sectionals ended with Highland again being labeled as champs. The team advanced to state for the 2nd consecutive year. Brad Iftner and David Paschal were sectional doubles champions for the second consecutive year, and Brad advanced to state for the third year. Also Scott Plocher and Danny Eilerman were doubles runners-up for the 2nd consecutive year.

At the state tournament, Highland scored 9 points and finished in the top third of teams at state. Brad Iftner and David Paschal were seeded in the top 3 doubles teams out of 128 and finished in the top 24, the highest finish ever by Highland boys.

Leaving Their Mark

Although spring is known for its weather changes, one thing in spring sports did not change--The Lady Bulldogs Track Team. Freshmen dominated in numbers, but the team relied on its senior members for leadership.

Senior Amy Johnson led the team with 140 1/4 points. She also led in the 800 meter run, the 1600 meter run, and in several relay teams.

The team captured many wins, including the MVC championship for the sixth year and the Madison County Championship for the eleventh year in a row. The county meet proved to be the season's best. Fighting illnesses and injuries, the team fought back to defeat Madison by one point in the final run.

Once again the ladies proved that endurance and ability pay off.

No pain' no gain. Senior Danielle Schneider was one of the stand outs in the short distances and relays.

Getting a Head Start

With the spring weather settling in, the Runnin' Bulldogs began to sprint into their season. With mostly underclassmen dominating the team, the upperclassmen did show their stability and experience.

Senior Brian Englemann became the best at the field events. By shot putting 46'0" and throwing the discus 134'0", Brian was named Most Improved of the team.

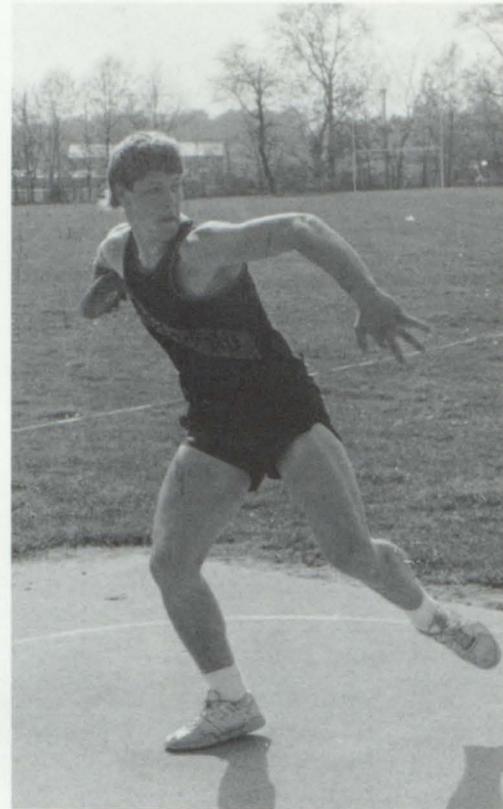

Erick Baer also played an important part of the team. Running the 110-meter high hurdles, he ran close to record time and only missed the mark by 4 hundredth of a second.

Many sophomores excelled at running also Chad Michael ran flawlessly in the 400 m. run and fellow classmate Kirby Rieke helped out in many of the relay teams.

The team finished a strong 3rd at the Madison County Meet and had a total record of 13-11-1. Even though the Runnin' Bulldogs did not win the majority of their meet, they gained experience and believed in themselves.

Stuck on Winning

In only its second year of competition, the Softball Bulldogs had another successful season. With many returning letter-winners and others gaining experience, the softball team had only one way to go--up to the top.

On the varsity level, the team defeated six teams in a row until it lost to Wood River in the bottom of the seventh inning. One of the best-played games was against O'Fallon. After losing to them the first time, the team traveled to the opponents' field and played flawlessly.

Batting 2-2, freshman Jennifer Holt also proved to be one of the top defensive stars. Senior Kelly Rakers allowed only three hits. The defeat also boosted her record to 11-0.

In J.V. action, freshman Dana Voigt led the team in batting with a .435 average while classmate Lana Brown recorded the most RBI's of the season. Another freshman, Debby Schwarz led the team in runs scored and stolen bases. The J.V. ended their season with a 6-7 record.

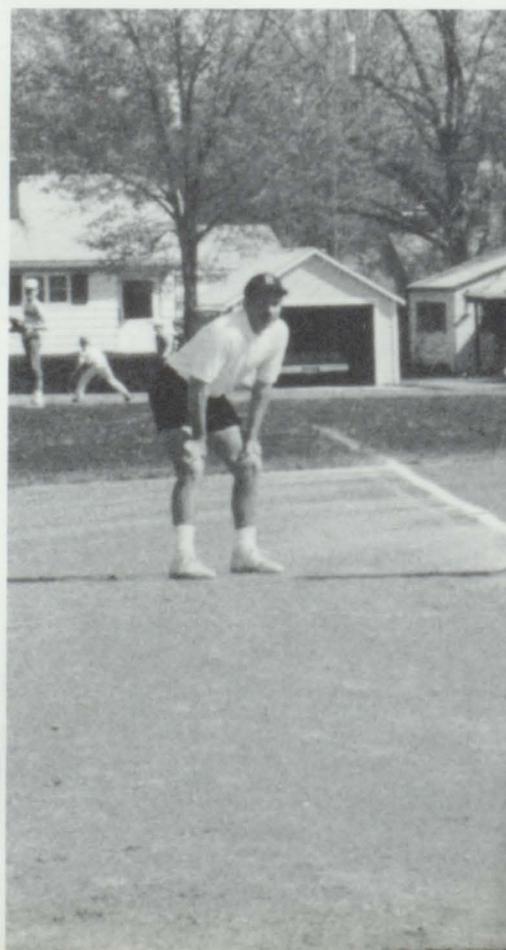

With all the experience and talent, the softball ladies were destined to have a successful season.

Swinging for Success

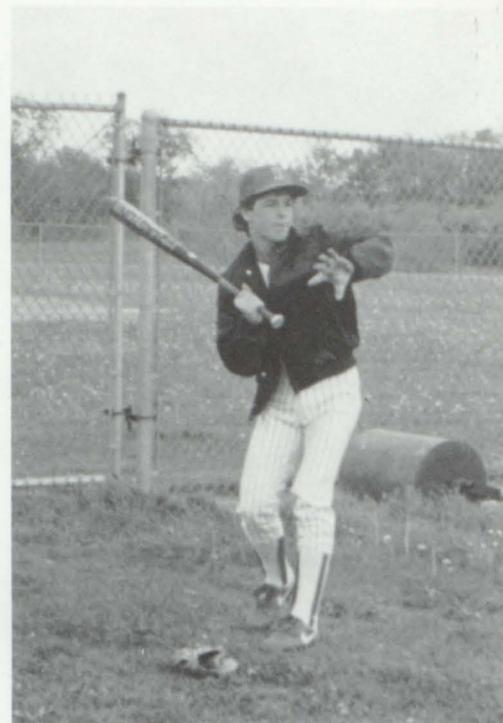

What a time, what a team, what a year! Usually a team relies on its older, more experienced players, but 1988 was different.

Sophomores Jay Cryder, Derek Bircher, Simon Weiss, Dan Semanish and pitcher Kirt Ervin contributed much to the advancement of the team. Juniors Todd Graef, Tyler Morris, and Todd Sands did as well. The exciting seniors were most essential to the team by their high-spirited motivation.

It was May 11, 1988, on a dry, dusty day--a day that will never be forgotten. It was the day the Highland varsity baseball team clinched a share of the 1988 Mississippi Valley Conference championship! It was Highland's first baseball title since the mid-70's. With the strong pitching of seniors Tim Barnett and the relief of Scott Heinz, the team managed to glide by the ever-so-sly Mascoutah Indians for a win of 5-4.

With the score tied at 4-4 on home-field in the middle of the eighth, Dan Semanish coaxed a lead-off walk. With a not-so-successful attempt to bunt by a Highland player, Coach Stillwagon put in Brad Koehnemann, thinking the pinch runner would try to steal second base. Instead, the Mascoutah pitcher balked, advancing the man on first to second. The next pitch, hit by Jason Augustin, was a line drive to left field. That was just enough to send the runner home for a Highland victory.

Friends

Remember the feeling of tension you first felt as you cautiously made your way into Highland High School? Freshmen entering HHS in 1987 were no different. Even though they were "encouraged" to sing "We Love You Seniors" and "asked" to carry trays for seniors, they knew they weren't going through it alone. They had friends to share their burdens. Maria Eilerman commented, "Friends helped me because they were as uncomfortable as I was." Friends were important to Curt Kruse because "they can help you when people are making fun of you." Barbie Oestringer and Melinda Winning spoke for many freshmen when they said, "No matter what, friends are always there for you whether it means helping with homework, helping with problems, or just hanging out."

Freshmen never Change

Every year freshmen are the same!! They do silly little things like ask seniors, "Can you please tell me where my German class is?" At least that's what Cami Merkle asked and of course was sent in the wrong direction.

Then we have the freshmen who just give up when they can't find their classes. "I got lost and couldn't find where the study hall was, so I just went to lunch," commented Nathan Korte.

Some freshmen even have major problems with walking. For example, Julia Brown "...tripped up the stairs in front of a group of senior girls," and Jene' Iftner "...fell in the commons tripping over the carpet." "I must have done the worst thing of all by dropping my tray in front of Mr. Thomas," says Robin Williams.

Then there is the embarrassment of when someone like Shan Pfister asked a senior, "Where do I take my tray to be washed?" At least she didn't have to carry the trays of every senior around her up to be washed as did Jennifer Holt.

Like classes before them, however, the Class of 1991 survived their first step in climbing toward becoming upperclassmen.

Time for a Change

Making the change from big-shot eighth graders to bottom-of-the-ladder freshmen is both frightening and exciting.

Freshmen Jon Wellen commented, "Going from junior high to high school is like a prison transfer." But his classmate Lesley Hunsche felt just the opposite. "You're more free here. When you're in junior high you feel tied down."

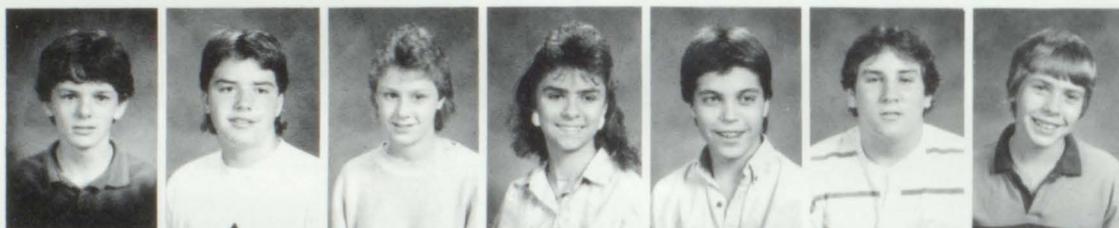

In high school, there are many more specialized classes to choose from, such as parenting, business machines, and computer lit. Freshmen Robin Williams commented, "You can take the classes you want unlike junior high and you meet awesome people." There are also many clubs to join and a greater number of sports teams to go out for. Freshmen Corey Moss commented, "I like the variety of sports to choose from, basketball and baseball especially."

Returning a television set to the video area, freshmen Tina Beahringer learns that audio visual aids are an important part of the learning process at HHS.

Stuck on Sales

Enough is enough! How many fund raisers are possible in one year? Although individual classes and various organizations use a variety of approaches, they all have one goal. They want to raise--MONEY!

Sophomores start off early selling candy bars in order to build a nest egg for their upcoming junior prom. Samantha Wilson, an enthusiastic vendor, sold 191 candy bars, leading her class to a successful sale. "I'm glad I was able to make the money for my class," she commented. For her sales abilities, Samantha received fifty dollars. The top five groups of sellers earned a pizza party at Mazzios.

HHS organization advisers often get fed up with all their group's money-making activities. Band director John Heath is a perfect example. "Considering the financial state of our school system, I feel fund raising is a necessary evil. The alternative would be to cut down the size of the program, which is not in the best interest of the individual students." His group has at least four major fund raisers a year.

Selling items may get monotonous, but it is always for a good cause and, in many of the cases, the survival of the group depends upon it.

Duties before Driving

Driver's education and behind the wheel are two of the most important events in a sophomore's life.

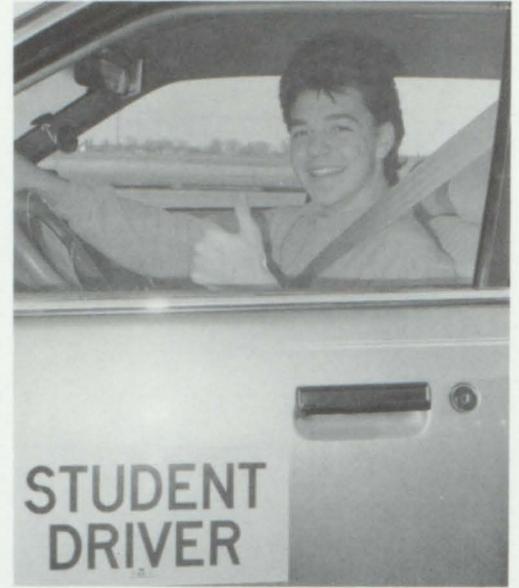

Kyle Lentz recalls, "You really got a lot of information crammed into your head. The class was full of book work, projects, movies and lectures."

"At first I was nervous about driving but I calmed down when others in my car made the same mistakes. I was mainly worried about the semi's," remarked John Goestenkers.

I really stayed up late burning the midnight oil on some of my projects but it all paid off when I got my voucher," commented Betsy Yoder.

Mr. Stillwagon and Mr. Thomas emphasized that the main thing they tried to teach their students was responsibility.

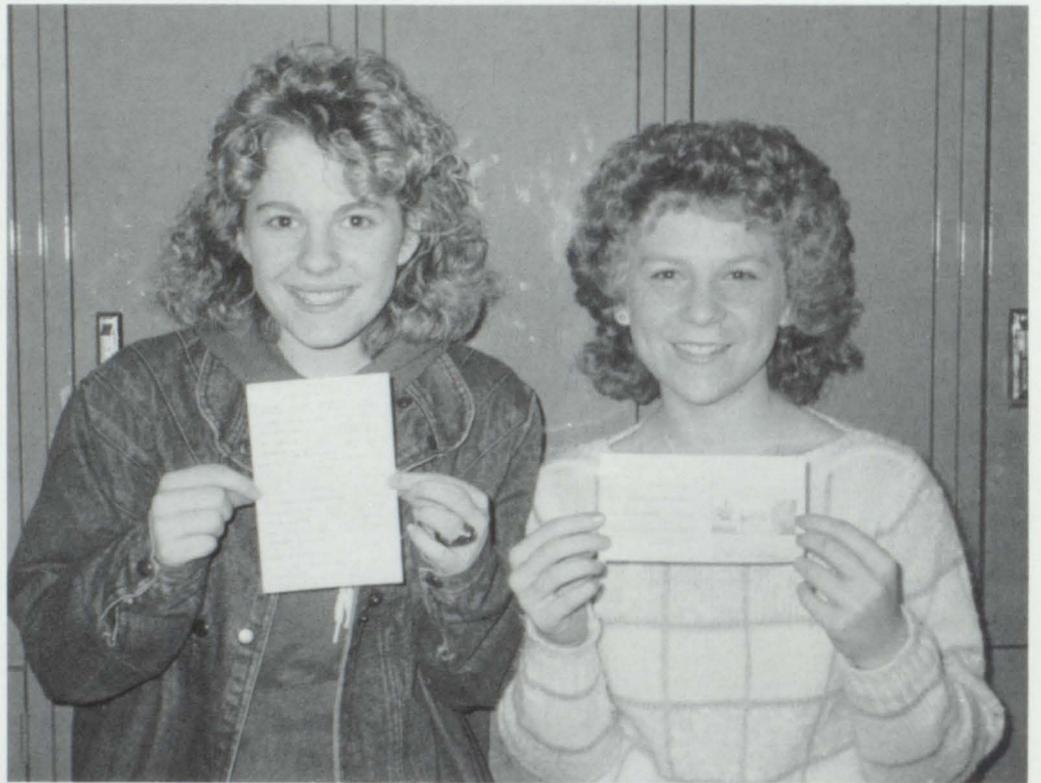

Giving a thumbs up to safety in driving, Ryan Chaney buckles up in the driver's education car.

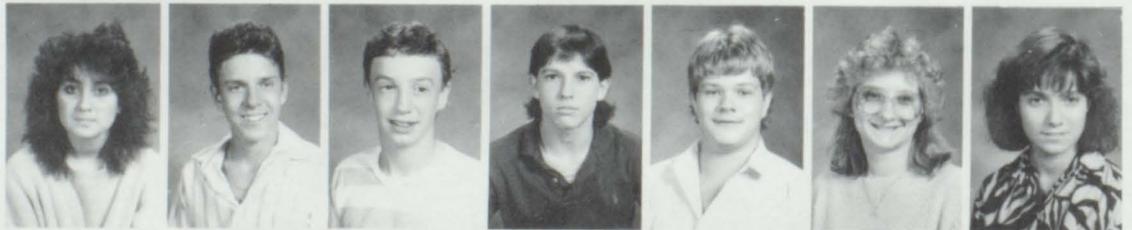

After demonstrating his driving situation, Scott Kuhn answers questions and discusses other solutions that might have prevented the accident with class.

Proudly displaying their permit and voucher, Melora Kakac and Paige Kaufman take an important step toward the ultimate goal--obtaining their license!

Sticking to It for the Money

There are definite advantages to having a job. Opportunities arise that are full of benefits, including learning responsibility, determination, and principles. Experience comes with age, as well as errors, hardships, and loads of burdens. But one thing seems to make it all worth sticking to their job--money.

Ask any junior what the most important aspect of their job is and most will say the money they make. "It's nice to have money to spend for things your parents wouldn't buy you. You know--stuff they'd consider a waste," proclaimed Michele Ann Zajac.

But along with the money is a lot of lost free time. Jene' Wesselman half-joked, "You get a job so you can have money to go out but then you can't go out because you always have to work." Teri Braswell gave up softball because she had to work when the practices were held, but she insisted her job didn't affect her school work. "I love playing and I can still be on a Khoury League team during the summer." Tonya White juggled her social schedule between two jobs. "...but the extra money is worth it," she declared.

A large majority of guys save their money for their car. "It's nice to know that there is always some money put away in case my car breaks down," stated Terry Parris. Kyle Wieter fixes his car up more with each paycheck while Scott Hordesky uses his for car payments.

So whether money is being saved for present goals or meeting future ones, it plays a very important role in student's lives

Getting It All Together

As in the past, the junior class was given the task of planning one of the most memorable events of the school year, the Junior-Senior Prom. The class of 1989 showed its originality by planning a very unique Prom.

To raise money to pay for all the Prom expenses, the juniors sold candy bars which brought in over $2,000 and Homecoming mums which raised about $50.

Many hours went into the preparation of the Prom. The class chose "Never Say Goodbye" as the theme, taken from the very popular song by Bon Jovi. When asked why that theme was chosen junior Angie Wagner commented "We talked with some of the seniors and that's what they wanted."

Breaking away from tradition, the junior class decided to have a disc jockey rather than a band. This was the first time a disc jockey had played the music instead of a live band. Although the idea of having a disc jockey was not agreed upon by everyone, the juniors showed they weren't afraid to try something new.

Another change the juniors made this year was the time. The Prom started at 9:00 this year to give everyone a chance to eat before Prom so they were able to go straight from Prom to post-Prom.

Are we having fun yet? Junior Karl Abert contemplates his question.

Decisions...Decisions...They Never End!

Every year the senior class is faced with deciding what to do when they graduate. Some seniors who enrolled in the co-op chose to keep their job after graduation. One senior, Billie Kohlbrecher, graduated early to earn a little bit of money before she began school in June. Others sought other interests.

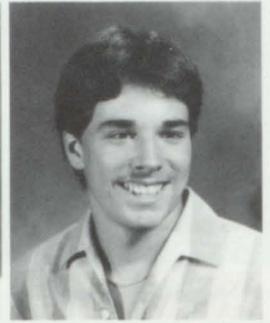

The majority of the senior class, like classes before them, decide to attend college. Whether it be a junior college or a four year college they are faced with the dilemma of applying for college.

Before they can further their education by going to college, many actions had to take place.

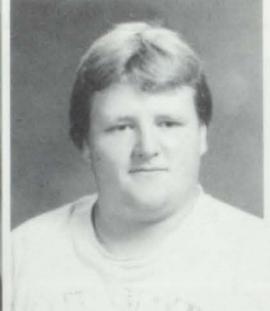

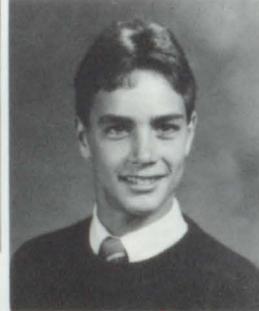

As senior Beth Ambuel commented, "I never realized that with graduation there came so many important decisions." Final choices may depend on the ranking of the college, the location of the college, and also the financial status of the student.

Seniors Reap Honors

Cramming five minutes before a test and finishing homework as the teacher asks for it are things seniors won't have to worry about for much longer. Yet it's all of the hard work put into many classes which enables seniors to be a part of the National Honor Society.

This past year, the group consisted of sixteen students. Nine of these members were chosen in the spring of 1987. They were: David Dressel, Kay East, Brant Frey, Neil Gusewelle, Brad Iftner, Rodney Naylor, Stacy Schatte, Candy Schrumpf, and Lori Steiner. In the fall of 1987, Amy Albright, Joel Boulanger, Danny Eilerman, Jodie Fischer, Julie Kramper, Kelly Rakers, and Anne Pfitzner were notified about their admittance to the National Honor Society. They received balloons in their first hour class and later, a special ceremony was held to induct the new members. The parents of all members were invited to attend the ceremony. Miss Pat Schwarm, administrator, was the speaker for the evening and the Highland High School Sound F/X performed.

BELOW Congratulating the newly elected members, Rodney Naylor and Stacy Schatte hand out the membership cards and pins.

Field Trips--Great Getaways

Field trips encompass more than just sightseeing.

To learn how the justice system works, the business law class sat in on a court case at the Greenville Court House. Afterwards they were able to talk to the judge and ask questions.

While the Spanish Club attended a traditional Spanish dance, JETS Club took a tour of the McDonnell Douglas plant. The Marketing Education class went to Springfield for statewide competitions in math, salesmanship case problems and sales demonstrations. Senior Kristan Freeman commented, "It proved to be a good experience, and I would recommend for everyone in Co-op to attend."

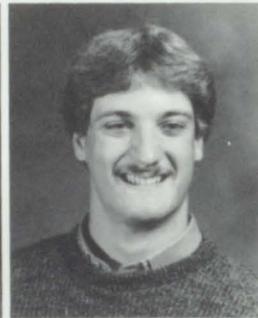

It is usually seniors who most often have the privilege to attend the competitions, but all students go on field trips. To obtain an overview of freshmen college English, the college prep comp. students went to SIU-E for hands-on experience with computer terminals.

Field trips were wide and varied from the fine arts to learning about the law.

Donations of Generosity

"I felt feelings of joy and satisfaction in helping a youngster celebrate Christmas," commented senior Rodney Naylor about the special project in Mr. Singleton's economics class. The seniors in the class participated in a fund raiser that benefited a needy family at Christmas time. They began by collecting money from students who wanted to donate.

With the money the class earned, they purchased a gift certificate for utilities and a Wal-Mart gift certificate. The class also received a donation from Fashion Crossroads, and they purchased a bicycle for the needy boy. The family was unaware that the assistance came from the senior economics class, and the class never knew which family they had helped as well.

Year in Review

The school year is over. It was like many others before it. It had the usual football season, homecoming, vacations, prom and graduation. Yet even with these similarities, HHS did change.

The year progressed through a frightening stock market crash, the passage of a crucial referendum, and five snow days. Each day, no matter how slow or fast, was marked in its special way.

But we stuck it out, and all these events made the '87-'88 school year exactly what it was and how it will be remembered.

Staff Struggles to Meet Finish Line

When the first day of school arrived in August, it brought fifteen students to Mr. Ott's room, none of whom were returning staff members. This left the floundering group totally in darkness as Mr. Ott talked about croppers, copy, layout design, cameras, taking pictures, selling ads, and accepting responsibilities and making commitments.

As time passed, most realized that putting a yearbook together--good or bad--is a task that involves goal setting and the determination to stick with a job until it is finished.

A New Beginning

Graduation, the day that had seemed so far away, had finally arrived. For the Class of 1981, the big day was on June 1, with baccalaureate services at St. Paul Church on May 25.

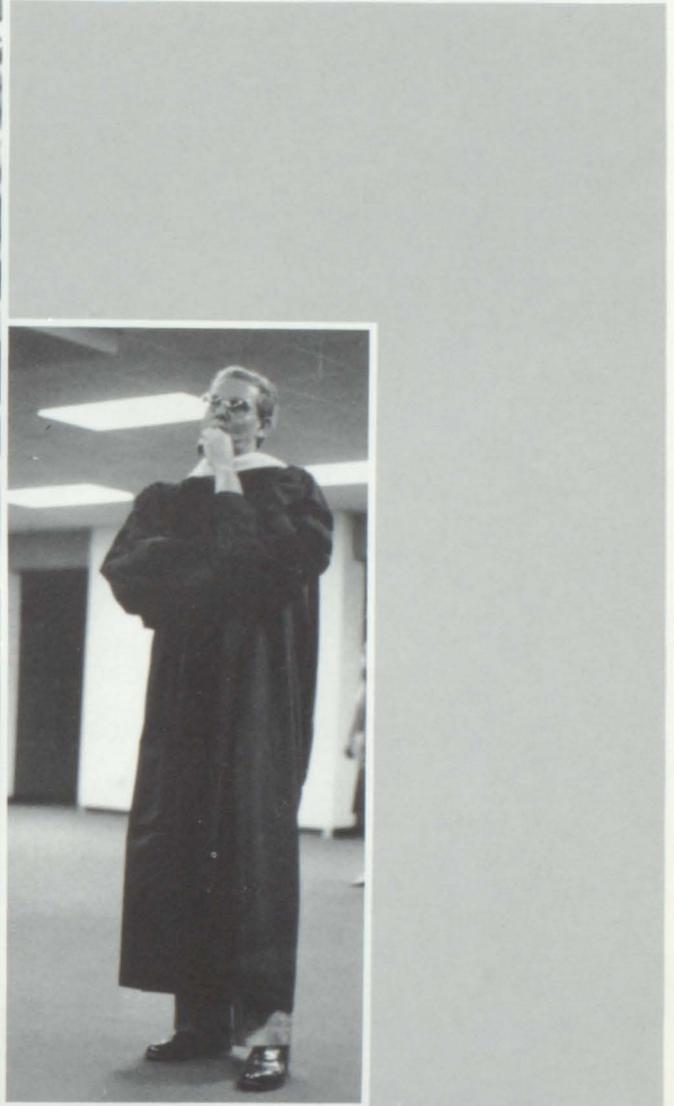

Commencement was held in the gym, packed with relatives, friends, approximately 200 graduating seniors, and the band who performed their selection of "I Dreamed a Dream," along with the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance."

Following junior marshalls Jene' Bircher and Will Brown were valedictorian John Schleper and salutatorian Karen Gilomen.

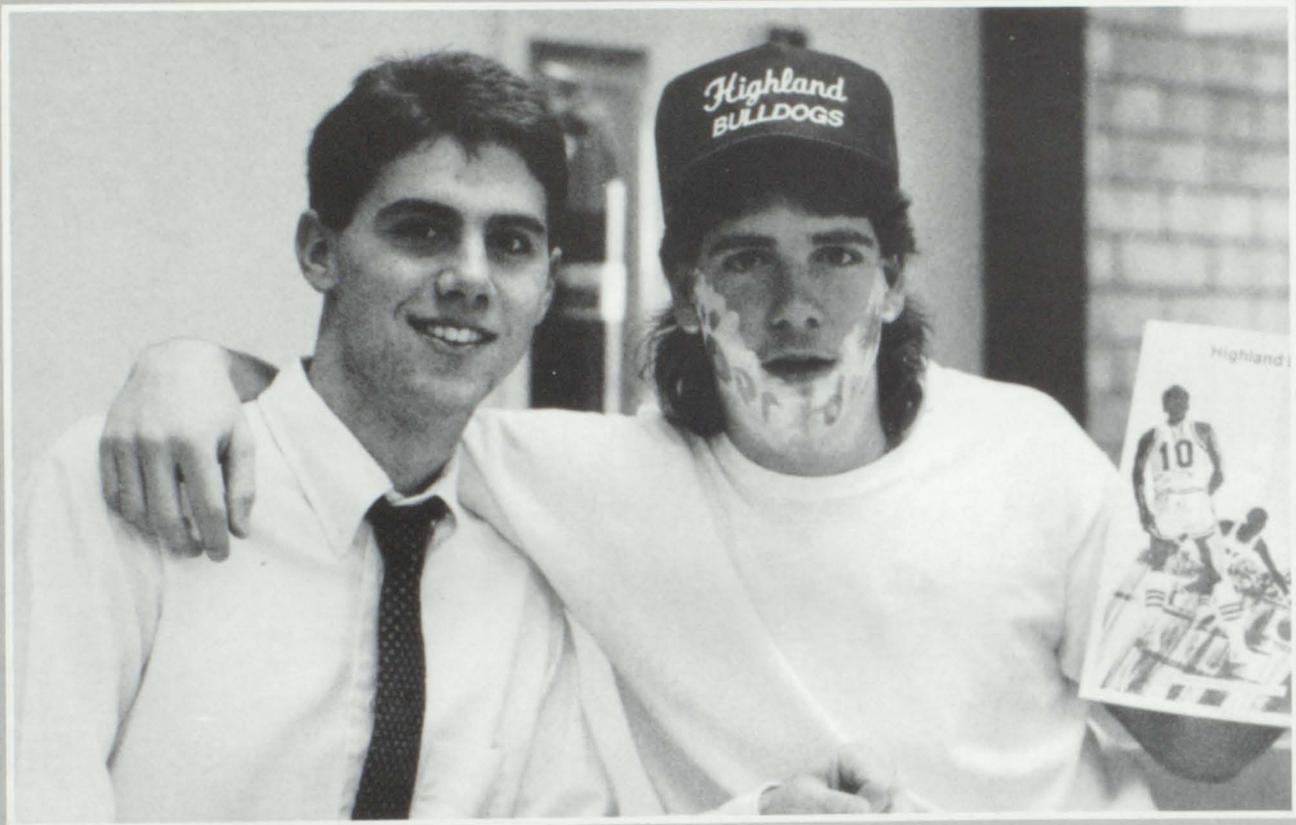

The guest speaker was Dr. Arthur Braundmeier, professor of physics at SIU-E. Diplomas were distributed and the Class of '88 exited as graduates of HHS.

It was all over. The good times and bad were all in the past and part of a memory. They, the Class of 1988, were facing a new beginning.

CLASS RINGS

Blanguart Jewelers

Northtown Shopping Center

The class ring too good to get in class

Your class ring is an important piece of jewelry.

That's why ArtCarved class rings come from the jeweler.

A jeweler is a skilled professional who will give you the time and attention necessary to create a ring specifically for your individual style, design preferences and school interests.

You can customize your ring hundreds of ways. Your ring is then artfully hand-crafted in less time than school-bought rings, and backed by ArtCarved's Full Lifetime Warranty. All for less money than if you had bought it at school.

So buy your class ring where jewelry should be bought. At the jeweler.
